Make a schoolhouse look like a jail—and most of ours do—and it'll be a jail, but Col. REJECTION BY ITALY EXPECTED TO CHECK ARMS PARLEY MOVE

Speed Used in Snuffing Out of Project Causes Big Surprise.

FAILURE AT GENEVA NOW FORLORN HOPE

Collapse of Disarmament Conference There Might Revive Coolidge Plan.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Coolidge's effort to bring about a naval disarmament conference between the Washington treaty powers at Geneva has now definitely failed, according to frank admissions. Rejection of the project by France, to be followed by similar action by Italy, has dissipated the last lingering hope that such a conference might materialize in the near future. That the plan would ultimately fail of fruition was freely conceded on all sides, but few expected such a speedy snuffing out of the proposition.

Mr. Coolidge himself, according to the statement of the White House spokesman last Friday, believed it would be some time before he received official replies from the invited powers. There was every expectation that the proposal would be carefully studied and held in abeyance until the preparatory disarmament conference met at Geneva next month, in case the French or Italian government felt reluctant to accept.

The representatives of the nineteen nations who will assemble at the preparatory Geneva conference on March 21 would then have had an opportunity to pass judgment on the Coolidge suggestion, and these powers would have been in a better position than France, or any single power, to decide whether or not the American plan would interfere with the main work of the disarmament commission.

Would Have Spared France.

Diplomats also point out that this general conference could have spared France the embarrassment of rejecting the Coolidge offer because fourteen of the nations are already on record as opposing the basic idea of the President's suggestion, which implies separating the problem of naval disarmament from problems involving the reduction or limitations upon land and air forces. As France controlled the majority of the powers at Geneva, it would have been a simple matter, it is indicated, for the French delegation to have so manipulated matters that the Coolidge proposition would have been made the subject of an adverse report by the conference acting under the auspices of the League of Nations. This, it is pointed out, would have permitted France and Italy to remain in the background and see the Coolidge plan checkmated without assuming responsibility for the outcome.

But, instead, France has stepped forward and frustrated the Coolidge plan with so little loss of time that Secretary of State Kellogg hints that the President's purpose has not even been understood. And semiofficial information from Rome states that Italy is going to follow the French lead. Neither France nor Italy apparently shows any reluctance to taking full responsibility for bringing teh plan to an untimely end.

Mr. Kellogg yesterday had no additional comment to make, following his statement issued Wednesday evening. He did say, in answer to inquiry, that the United States would of course continue to participate in the work of the preparatory disarmament commission to be resumed next month at Geneva.

Forlorn Hope Remains.

It was suggested in official circles that the Coolidge plan might remain open for discussion when this commis-

Dr. Butler Is Willing To Debate With Borah

Boston, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Both United States Senator William E. Borah and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university have expressed their willingness to debate prohibition enforcement before the Roosevelt club of Boston, Robert M. Washburn, president of the club, announced today. The debate will not be held before April, he said.

Senator Borah's acceptance of an invitation from the club was announced yesterday by Mr. Washburn and today he received a letter from Dr. Butler expressing his willingness to discuss enforcement if a convenient date can be arranged.

One Bridegroom Late At Quadruple Nuptials

Odell, Ark., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—All that prevented four marriages being performed within the same family here was the fact that one prospective bridegroom was late at his own wedding, so there were only three marriages at the home of Mrs. McHalley I. English, the three brides being her daughters.

Mrs. English became the bride the following day of Henry L. Crossley, of Moore, Okla., he being the gentleman in question who failed to appear in time the previous day to participate in the wedding quartet.

Chinese at League Demand Recall of Britain's Troops

Note Goes to Secretary General—Capture of Hangchow from Shanghai's Defenders Is Imminent; Uproar in London Commons.

Geneva, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The Chinese delegation announced tonight that it had sent a note to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations, on instructions from the Peking foreign office, demanding withdrawal of the British order to send troops to China.

The note included a copy of Peking's earlier protest to Great Brtain against the dispatch of the British defense force as a violation of the Washington agreement and of article 10 of the convenant of the league, binding members of the league to protect the territorial integrity and political independence of fellow members.

The note insisted that the Chinese forces were capable of maintaining order in Shanghai, asserted that the presence of troops would lead to complications and demanded the withdrawal of the order to send troops.

The Chinese spokesman said that Chu Chao-hsin, the Chinese delegate to the league, left for Rome after forwarding the note, and that he still is awaiting instructions whether to precipitate a discussion over the British dispatch of troops at the league council session on March 7.

It is Germany's turn to preside at the council, but foreign Minister Stresemann, who wants to perfect himself in the English language before taking the chair, has not yet announced his acceptance. If he declined, it will be Great Britain's term, and Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain himself may thus preside at a debate which would be partly directed against Great Britain.

Shanghai, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The downfall of Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province, and chief outpost of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, is imminent as the result of major defeat suffered by his troops on the southern battle front. Confirmation of a report that the troops of Marshal Sun, defender of Shanghai, had been pushed back by the onrushing southern army, was received here today.

In bringing about their victory the southerners were believed to have

AIRPLANES AND MARINES TO NICARAGUAN WATERS

New Move Is Viewed as Evidence of Increased Anxiety Here.

TO REPORT TO LATIMER

(By the Associated Press.)

Further evidence of the anxiety with which the Washington government is watching developments in the Nicaraguan civil war came yesterday with disclosure by the Navy Department that a division of six observation planes and a company of marines had been assigned to report to Rear Admiral Latimer at Corinto.

The new orders followed closely those to the naval transport Henderson at Philadelphia, which will sail today for Newport, R. I., to take aboard 800 bluejackets for duty with the fleet in Cuban waters. While the Henderson has no orders beyond that at present, she is being held available also to transport marines from the Quantico (Va.) base to southern waters, should need for them develop before she sails for Cuba.

Both the tentative arrangements regarding the Henderson and the orders attaching an independent aviation unit to Admiral Latimer's forces are described officially as merely precautionary steps under the administration policy of affording protection to American lives and property in Nicaragua. There is little doubt, however, that the continued fighting in Nicaragua around important towns, such as Matagalpa, where there are American and other foreign interests, is causing considerable concern here.

Admiral Latimer is on his way from a conference with Dr. Sacasa, liberal chieftain, on the east coast, to Corinto, and presumably to the conservative capital, Managua. If the State Department has received any word as to progress of his efforts toward bringing about a peaceful solution of the Nicaraguan crisis through agreement between the liberal and conservative leaders, it has given no inkling of it.

Auto, Running Into Crowd, Injures 19

Danville, Va., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Nineteen persons were injured, three of them seriously, when an automobile ran into a crowd of men attending a mule sale here this afternoon. E. H. Hyatt was arrested and charged with operating the machine while intoxicated. Walter Marshall, an occupant of the automobile, was detained by the police, who alleged that he, too, was drunk.

Frank Stowe, of Danville; J. P. Mays, of Chatham, and J. L. Powell, of Pittsylvania, were taken to a hospital suffering from broken limbs. The automobile is said by witnesses to have struck a wagon and then to have careened into the crowd gathered around the auctioneer. Some of those injured were trampled upon by the mules.

91 KILLED IN NEW QUAKE; LATER ONES RECORDED

Region in Herzegovina Rocked on Sunday Shaken Again, Belgrade Is Told.

MORE DAMAGE IS FEARED

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Earthquake has followed earthquake since the first shocks early Sunday rocked a large, though sparsely populated section of Jugoslavia. Latest dispatches from the devastated region report that a terrific movement of the earth's surface shook down many buildings and killed 91 persons at Ljubinje, in the province of Herzegovina yesterday.

This town, along with several others, felt the full force of the earth tremors on Sunday, scores of residents being driven from their homes out into the intense cold of the night and streets filled with snow.

Rescuing parties have been dispatched to the scene of the destruction, which is known to cover a large area along the Narenta river, but communications have been cut off in almost every direction, and the reports reaching Belgrade are highly conflicting. Some tell of the loss of several hundred lives from the early quakes, while others, giving due consideration to the impressionable peasants, place the loss of life at more than a hundred.

It is believed the earth movement has not yet been completed and may do vastly more damage than has already been suffered.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Rather severe earthquake shocks were registered on the United States weather bureau seismograph at the University of Chicago over a period of nearly five hours ended at 12:35 a. m. today. The

OKLAHOMAN NAMED TO COMMERCE POST

Ezra Brainerd, Jr., Native of Vermont, Is Coolidge's Second Choice.

(By the Associated Press.)

Ezra Brainerd, jr., of Oklahoma, was nominated yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Brainerd was named to succeed Frederick I. Cox, of New Jersey, who was not reappointed on the completion of his term recently.

Originally President Coolidge nominated Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, former Ambassador to Spain and Japan, to the post, but the Senate refused to confirm his selection.

Brainerd was recommended to President Coolidge by Senator Harreld, of Oklahoma, among others. He is a Muskogee attorney and vice president of a bank there. Mr. Brainerd, who is a Republican, was born in Vermont in 1878.

M'FADDEN MEASURE IS PASSED; INQUIRY INTO LOBBY ASKED

Senate, 71 to 17, Votes Approval of Branch Banking Bill.

BIG FUND FOR HULL PROVISIONS CHARGED

Glass Seeks Investigation of Reported $100,000 Chest; Letter Questioned.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

The passage of the Pepper-McFadden branch banking bill and the inauguration of an investigation into the report that a $100,000 lobby had sought to influence the legislation marked the close yesterday in the Senate of the stormy scenes that have attended the course of this piece of financial legislation through Congress.

The Senate, by a vote of 71 to 17, sent to President Coolidge the measure which sets up new standards of branch banking and extends the charter of the Federal Reserve Board indefinitely. The application of cloture limited the closing debate to attacks of the opponents, acknowledged futile, but continued to the very last.

Immediately following the vote Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, active and fiery proponent of the measure as it passed the Senate, introduced a resolution calling for an investigation by the banking and currency committee of the Senate of the charge that certain banking interests favoring the Hull amendments had raised a fund of $100,000 to be used for the purpose of lobbying and that members of Congress had been paid to make speeches in behalf of these changes.

Opponents of Measure.

The resolution, seconded by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, provided it would deal with the activities of the American Bankers association generally and referred to the committee on audit and contingent expenses for the necessary authorization of funds.

The roll call listed the following senators against the Pepper-McFadden bill:

Blease, South Carolina; Deneen, Illinois; Dill, Washington; Frazier, North Dakota; Gooding, Idaho; Heflin, Alabama; Howell, Nebraska; LaFollette, Wisconsin; McMaster, South Dakota; Norris, Nebraska; Nye, North Dakota; Shipstead, Minnesota; Steck, Iowa; Stewart, Iowa; Trammell, Florida; Walsh, Montana; Wheeler, Montana.

Senators not voting were:

Borah, of Idaho; duPont, Delaware; Ferris, Michigan; Jones, New Mexico; King, Utah; Norbeck, South Dakota; Reed, Missouri.

As soon as the vote on the bill had been announced, Senator Glass first sent to the desk a telegram from Thomas B. Paton, general counsel of the American Bankers association. The telegram said that it was incorrect to draw any inference from the telegram read into the record by Senator Wheeler in which it was suggested that members try to reach Senators Wheeler, Dill and Howell since it had been intended merely to use legitimate means.

Bankers Accused.

The telegram also set forth that the letter to Representative Morton D. Hull, of Illinois, author of the Hull amendments, offering him legal business, was a form letter sent to 20,000 attorneys. Mr. Paton had previously denied that any such letter had been sent.

"I wish in addition," said Senator Glass, "to offer a resolution for investigation of certain rumors. It has been

Strike at Passaic Virtually Is Ended

Passaic, N. J., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—A bitter struggle, which for more than a year wrought havoc in the textile industry of this district, was virtually ended today when workers of the New Jersey worsted mills of this city and of the Gera mills, of Garfield, accepted the concessions granted by both plants.

Of the number that walked out on January 25, 1926, 1,109 workers remained and these voted acceptance of the terms, 1,064 to 45. The mills promised to reemploy the workers as rapidly as conditions will permit without discrimination because of their membership in any union organizations.

Keith, Pathe, Orpheum Merger Is Under Way

San Francisco, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Reports that the Orpheum and the Keith-Albee vaudeville circuits and two motion picture organizations are negotiating a merger were confirmed here today by S. Lansburgh, counsel for the Orpheum circuit. The combined organizations were said in financial circles to represent an investment in excess of $100,000,000.

The Orpheum circuit extends from Chicago west, while the Keith-Albee circuit operates in the Eastern cities.

The Pathe Picture Corporation and the Producers Distributing Corporation, the latter organized by Cecil B. DeMille, are the motion picture concerns involved.

AIMEE TELLS LIFE STORY AFTER VOTE OF HUGE AUDIENCE

Many of 7,000 in Throng in Tears; 5,000 Turned Away at Night.

3,000 STORM STAGE TO GREET SPEAKER

Woman Is Knocked Down in Rush; Evangelist Exhausted by Handshaking.

As they say on Broadway, Aimee Semple McPherson "packed 'em in" and "turned 'em away" at the Washington auditorium yesterday and last night.

Twelve thousand persons stormed the auditorium last night, the greatest crowd in the history of the hall. Seven thousand persons got in and 5,000 were turned back.

Six thousand heard the evangelist in the afternoon, and at the conclusion of the sermon half of them besieged her on the stage, eager for a handshake and a blessing. One woman was knocked down, a brass railing was uprooted and a flower pot was overturned, and then Mrs. McPherson called a halt.

Scores of persons tried to remain in the auditorium after the day service, so that they would be sure of seats last night. But the ushers drove them out. They began to return at 6 o'clock, an hour and a half before the service started.

Audience Decides Topic.

When she was ready to start her "message" last night, the radiant evangelist asked her audience to decide what her topic should be.

"Shall it be 'The Second Coming of the Lord' or 'The Story of My Life'?" Mrs. McPherson inquired, and she asked them to show their preference by raising their hands.

Those who wanted "The Story of My Life" won by at least 2,000 hands. And thus "The Story of the Second Coming of the Lord" was put off until tonight, when the revival meeting will close.

In telling the story of her life, Mrs. McPherson was at the top of her form. Her eyes were alternately happy and sad, likewise her voice. When she told of the death of her first husband, Robert Semple, many in the audience sobbed.

Laughter on Inquiry.

A little later she launched a sally on the recent investigation into her morals, and the crowd roared. She had been talking about her Angelus temple in Los Angeles, and she described how she made a study of the radio before having a broadcasting station installed.

"I have always been interested in everything about radios," she said, "but never in radio operators."

The laughter that greeted this remark was louder than ever Will Rogers drew from the same stage.

Mrs. McPherson never mentioned the radio operator, Kenneth Ormiston, by Turks Ready to Sign New Pact With U. S.

Constantinople, Feb. 18 (By A. P.).—The negotiations which the American high commissioner, Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, has been carrying on with the Turkish authorities at Angora have reached a final successful stage, according to Turkish official organs, which say a treaty prolonging the present commercial agreement with the United States will be signed within a few days. No confirmation of this has been received at the former American embassy.

The press praises the moderation of the Turkish government in the face of the American Senate's rejection of the Lausanne treaty.

DYNAMITERS NEARING IMPRISONED FOXHOUND

Carcass of Reynard, That Led Dog Into Cave Trap, Is Found.

CANINE'S YELPS HEARD

Woodruff, S. C., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—By the light of kerosene lanterns and electric flashlights, rescue squads using dynamite and drills, redoubled their efforts tonight to rescue Ring, Vandy Kelly's fox hound, imprisoned 50 feet underground in a limestone cave since last Thursday night, when he followed a fox into the opening.

Joyful yelps from the hound, as he heard voices, and the finding of the carcass of the fox, its neck broken, where Ring had taken hold, spurred workers to extra efforts today.

"I am going to get my dog out of there, dead or alive," Kelly said, as he prepared for further blasting tonight.

Kelly's hound was leading a pack running a sight race last Thursday night. Ring was only a few jumps behind Reynard, when he went into a limestone crevice and the hound followed.

Kelly and his brother and the neighbors went home, thinking the dog would have no trouble getting out of the hole. When the hound did not appear the next morning the brothers found Ring was trapped 40 or 50 feet

Girl's Relatives Seize Alleged Abductor

Elizabeth, N. C., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Helen Mettrey, 12-year-old daughter of a Syrian merchant, was back at home tonight and a man giving his name as Richard Weston, 35, was in jail awaiting hearing on charges of abduction in connection with the girl's disappearance last night.

The child was found today at the home of relatives in Norfolk, Va., after members of her family had scoured this section for her. Weston was arrested by police after being brought here from Belcross by members of the Mettrey family, who said they picked him up there. Police said Weston admitted having taken the girl to Norfolk last night, claiming he did so at her request. He will be given a hearing tomorrow.

Jealous Wife Kills Vienna Opera Tenor

Vienna, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Trajan Grosavescu, tenor of the Vienna national opera, was shot dead by his wife in a fit of jealousy at the moment the couple were entraining for Berlin where the singer was to fill an engagement.

Grosavescu was most popular with the Viennese public. He sang many roles with Marie Jeritza, the Austrian operatic star.

AVIATORS ARE HURT BY FALL IN VIRGINIA; 3 DEAD IN COLLISION

Marine Plane Plunges Into Dense Woods as Pilot Faints.

CRASH, 150 FEET UP, FATAL TO ARMY MEN

Machines Meet in Air Near San Antonio; Victims Are Killed Instantly.

Fainting from a cause as yet unknown, Second Lieut. Jesse Harmon, marine corps, while flying a De Haviland plane at 10:45 yesterday morning, lost control of it and crashed 500 feet into a dense woods a mile west of Occoquan, Va., with his passenger, First Lieut. Vernon M. Guymon, marine corps. Both were seriously injured.

Harmon suffered concussion of the brain and scalp lacerations, and Guymon a fractured jaw and two fractured ribs. Both men were badly shaken and, according to Brown field officials last night, neither was yet able to explain the accident. Harmon had regained consciousness at the Quantico marine corps hospital, but was unable to remember anything about the accident.

Guymon recalled, they said, after taking off from Brown field, they had been in the air about an hour and were flying low when Harmon appeared to faint. Before the plane could be righted it crashed into the trees.

Guymon Rescues Pilot.

Guymon, still conscious, extricated Harmon from the wreckage and carried him to a nearby road, where, stopping a passing automobile, they were driven to the Quantico hospital.

A board of officers is now investigating the cause of the accident. Harmon's condition is yet unexplained, the altitude at which he was flying being too low to have produced unconsciousness, officers say.

Second Lieut. Harmon, whose home is in Eastover, S. C., was born in Rickland, S. C., in 1902, and was appointed to the corps in 1923, receiving flying training at Pensacola, Fla., in February, 1926, and being assigned to Quantico, Va., on completion of his course last November.

Served in France.

First Lieut. Guymon's home is at Murray, Utah. He was born at Rexburg, Idaho, in 1899, and enlisted in the marine corps in April, 1917, serving with the Seventy-ninth company, Sixth regiment, in France, being discharged in 1919, commissioned a second lieutenant in 1921 and promoted in 1922. He completed his course at Pensacola in November, 1926, and was transferred to Quantico in November.

Lieut. Guymon, with Miss Olita McCoy, of the Cordova apartments, had just left Miss Nannie Garlington when she shot herself in her apartment at Corcoran Courts Saturday morning.

Army Planes in Collision.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Lieut. Benedict A. Coyle, Cadet John W. Green and Private Rudolph C. Bartel were killed when two airplanes collided at an altitude of about 150 feet at Camp Stanley late today and crashed to the ground.

Another air accident late today near Fort Worth caused the death of Quincey Burnett, former Fort Worth police captain, and probable fatal injuries to John C. Goggins, civilian aviator. The plane in which they were flying crashed on a ranch.

Lieut. Coyle and Private Bartel were taking off in a Douglas O-2 plane to return to Kelly field when the accident at Camp Stanley happened. Cadet Green was flying alone in a D-H training plane and was firing on the target range. Apparently neither pilot saw the other ship before the crash. Both planes hurtled down in a tangled mass of wreckage and the flyers were killed instantly.

Lieut. Coyle is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mabel Coyle, of Kelly field. He enlisted in 1917 from Massachusetts. Cadet Green is survived by his mother, Mrs. Agatha Green, of Chicago, Ill. Private Bartel is survived by a sister, Mrs. L. W. Lozen, of Detroit, Mich.

New York Heiress To Become Teacher

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Another New York heiress to millions is turning from a life of leisure for a career of her own. Miss Elisabeth R. Morrow, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, will become a teacher this fall in the Dwight school for girls in Englewood, N. J., where she was once a pupil.

Miss Morrow's father is a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co. He is chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees of Amherst college, from which he was graduated in 1895, in the class with President Coolidge. Mrs. Morrow is a trustee of Smith college.

Death Ends Woman's Eight-Day Slumber

Baltimore, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Mary C. Hamill, who slept for eight days after her family said she had taken a headache remedy, is dead. She was aroused only once, briefly, during the period.

Physicians at Baltimore City hospital were baffled as to the cause of her coma and death.

Wide Desolation in Wake Of California Storm; 24 Die

Two Other Great Disturbances on Way; 13-Inch Rainfall, Snow and Gales Hit Wide Area; Thousands Flee; San Diego Cut Off; Cities Flooded.

San Francisco, Calif., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—A panorama of widespread death and destruction, prostrated wire communications, great landslides over rail and highway, and rainfalls so tremendous that they astounded even the most seasoned weather observers, today made up the wake of the greatest storm that has visited the Pacific coast in its history.

At least twenty-four dead, scores injured and huge property damage, the extent of which could not be estimated because of wire conditions, remained as evidence of the vastness of the disturbance in California.

Out of the air came the latest information today. Radio messages from San Diego to Hollywood told that ranchers near the former city were fleeing from their homes to higher levels because of the continuing downpour. San Diego was virtually isolated, while the Mission valley was said to be under from 5 to 10 feet of water.

The San Diego postmaster appealed to naval officers at the destroyer base to provide mail transportation by sea to San Pedro.

Government engineers proposed dynamiting of the Santa Fe Railway bridge across the San Diego river to prevent the stream, swollen by torrential rains, from sweeping through a residential section of the city.

The greatest toll of human life came in the Sierra Nevada mountains 75 miles east of Fresno, where a snowslide buried a camp of the Southern California Edison Co.

There are 22 in the hospital at Big Creek, of whom five are expected to die. Five bodies have been recovered and there are five known dead whose bodies have not been recovered. Three others missing are thought to be dead.

Workmen attempting to recover bodies were called off today because of the danger of further slides.

Near Whittier last night a Union Pacific train went through an undermined steel trestle over Puente creek,

STEPHENS' DEMOTION PLANNED IN CHANGES IN CITY SUPPLY BILL

Will Get $5,400 Position Under Successor in Corporation Counsel's Office.

DISTRICT MEASURE AMENDED IN SENATE

Members Ask Why Official Is Retained, If Inefficient as Alleged.

Corporation Counsel F. H. Stephens will be demoted and possibly one or two of his assistants dismissed in a general reorganization of the city's legal establishment, according to expressions in the Senate yesterday in connection with the consideration of the District appropriation bill.

There seems to be a general understanding between the commissioners and the senators having to do with District affairs that if the appropriation bill makes it possible Mr. Stephens will be given a subordinate position paying $5,400 a year as compared with the $6,000 which he now receives, and a new corporation counsel will be appointed at a salary of $7,500 a year.

The bill was amended, however, at the instance of Senator Phipps, of Colorado, so that the appointive power will remain in the hands of the commissioners. As reported out by the committee, the appointive power of the new office would have been vested in the President.

This was challenged, however, by Senators Fess and Willis of Ohio, the latter reading an editorial in The Post, that unless the commissioners had the appointive power the attorney would not be responsible to them or for their policy. Senators Bruce, of Maryland, Copeland, of New York, and Bratten of New Mexico, joined with the two Ohioans. Senator Phipps sought to handle the purpose sought by the change gingerly, saying there was dissatisfaction with the present legal establishment and that the commissioners themselves felt that there should be reorganization. He made it plain, however, that the commissioners' approval was given to him "second-hand."

Counsel Called Inefficient.

When the senator seemed to be reluctant to discuss the matter in detail, Senator Jones, of Washington, arose and said, "There is a general impression that the present corporation counsel is absolutely inefficient and this provision seeks to remedy the situation." Senator Phipps then explained that the bill was so arranged that Mr. Stephens could be given a $5,400 position.

Senator Bruce wanted to know, "Why, if this man is incompetent, the commissioners do not get rid of him. They have the power. I am opposed to passing a bill for one man in this manner."

"But that's the trouble," said Senator Jones, "they won't do it."

The Maryland senator then observed, "Then, maybe this man is not incompetent after all. If he is and the commissioners will not remove him they are insensible to their duty."

"I think there is considerable force in that," Senator Jones agreed.

Then Senator Phipps and the others got together and agreed that the expressions would serve to stimulate the commissioners and that the same purpose would be served by leaving the appointive power in their hands.

It is believed that in the reorganization one or two of the assistants will have to be dropped if the $5,400 a year place is to be provided for Mr. Stephens. There was an allowance of approximately this amount in the House bill for a new attorney to prosecute condemnation suits. But the Senate committee eliminated this allowance and agreed that while the new office should be created it should be done by reorganization of the staff.

In the comparatively brief time in which the Senate had the bill before it, it approved all items as reported by the committee, with the exception of the change in the corporation counsel provision, down to street and road improvements. Here Senator Bruce took up the Maryland contingent's fight for the surfacing of Thirty-eighth street from Alabama avenue to Suitland road and Suitland road from Thirty-eighth street to the District line.

Bruce Fights for Item.

This is one of the two items described by the House subcommittee handling the bill Maryland real estate projects but which the Maryland delegation put through. The Senate committee eliminated it. Senator Bruce was fighting to have it reinserted and had called for a roll call when the Senate went into executive sessions.

Items approved were general expenses, care of the District building, assessor's office, license bureau, collector's office, auditor's office, corporation counsel's office, coroner's office, markets, highways department, sewer department, trees and parking department, chief clerk, engineer department, central garage, municipal architect's office, public utilities commission, board of examiners for steam engineers, department of insurance, surveyor's office, traffic director, free public library, register of wills, recorder of deeds, contingent and miscellaneous expenses, employment service, historical places, emergency fund, and refunds of erroneous collections.

The bill will probably be completed today.

Naming Corporation Counsel By President Is Protested

A protest against the provision in the appropriations bill which would take the power of appointing the corporation counsel for the District from the commissioners and give it to the President was sent to Congress yesterday by the Merchants and Manufacturers association.

The letter protesting against the provision was signed by Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, president of the association, and was addressed to Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, chairman of the subcommittee on appropriations for the District.

The proposed provision is "inimic to the best interests of the District and will deprive the commissioners of one of their inalienable rights," the letter says. The move is characterized as another outcrop of the growing tendency to bureaucratic government and will take away one of the few remaining rights of the people of Washington, according to Gen. Stephan.

TRADE BODY NAMES DINNER COMMITTEES

Mondell Will Be Speaker at Commerce Chamber's Anniversary.

Committees for the twentieth anniversary banquet, which will be given by the Washington Chamber of Commerce February 24 at the Mayflower hotel, were announced yesterday.

Former Representative Frank W. Mondell will address the gathering. A feature will be group singing. Music sheets will be distributed to all present, and Harry Evans will be song leader. The Red Arrow quartet of the Pennsylvania railroad, from Pittsburgh, will sing the numbers they will later broadcast from station WMAL. Mlle. Marguerite Weighell will dance. President William Mather Lewis, of George Washington university, will be master of ceremonies. Charles Dunn, cartoonist for Nation's Business magazine, yesterday made sketches for the program.

The committees announced are: Publicity, Jerome Fanciulli, chairman; S. E. Burgess and Harry S. Evans. Program, Harry S. Evans, chairman; Bernard A. Baer, A. H. Rogers and Joseph D. Dreyfuss. Seating, Henry C. Cole, chairman; A. H. Rogers, Bernard A. Baer, William B. Hardy and W. McK. Stowell. Decorations, Oscar A. E. Oehmler, chairman; Benjamin Carew, E. L. Davis and J. S. Hornback. Tickets, C. Melvin Sharpe, chairman.

Jury Finds Miss Quinn Died of Asphyxiation

Asphyxiation as the result of scalding caused the death of Miss Ann Florence Quinn, 24 years old, who was found dead in the bathtub of her apartment in the Earlington, 3033 Sixteenth street northwest, Wednesday night, a coroner's jury reported following an inquest at the District morgue yesterday. Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt issued a certificate of accidental death.

Miss Quinn was found with her head under the hot water faucet, clutching a curling iron in her hand. Her hand and body had been severely burned by the electricity and it was at first believed that she had been electrocuted. Witnesses yesterday testified that the voltage carried by the iron was probably insufficient to cause death. Dr. Herbert Martyn, deputy coroner, testified that scalding water from the faucet had run on Miss Quinn's head and face, causing swelling of the throat, which choked her.

Woman and Baby Hurt in Taxi Crash

Mrs. George A. Campona, 35 years old, 1430 Chapin street northwest, and her 16-month-old son were injured yesterday afternoon when the taxicab in which she was riding was struck by a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car in front of 734 Fourteenth street northwest.

Mrs. Campona and her baby were taken to George Washington University hospital and treated for slight lacerations on the face and shock. The taxicab, police reported, was driven by L. A. Orndorff, 923 North Carolina avenue southeast.

Woman Locked Out, Summons Firemen

Finding herself locked out of her apartment at 4510 Georgia avenue northwest, Mrs. Jack Biscar yesterday afternoon called on members of No. 24 engine company for assistance in opening the door.

Mrs. Biscar told members of the fire department she was getting ready to take her baby daughter for a ride, when the telephone on the first floor of the apartment house rang. When she returned to the apartment she discovered she was locked out.

Woman Wins $18,000 Traction Suit Verdict

Miss Mabel P. Sneed, of the Y. W. C. A., was awarded $18,000 damages against the Capital Traction Co. yesterday by a jury in circuit court No. 1 for injuries she says she sustained November 16, 1923, while attempting to board a car at New Jersey avenue and C street northwest. She sued for $50,000. The case has been on trial for a week.

The injuries complained of were alleged to have been caused by the entrance doors, which are worked by the conductor with a lever. Miss Sneed remained on her cot in the courtroom throughout the trial. Attorneys Newmyer, King & Jacobson appeared for her. It is likely that Attorneys Hogan, Jones & Phelan, counsel for the street car company, will demand a new trial.

FAILURE TO APPOINT CLAYTON REGRETTED

Dahlgren Terrace Group Believes President Should Heed Public Wish.

The action of President Coolidge in appointing a "person other than William McK. Clayton to the post of people's counsel" for the public utilities commission was regretted in a resolution adopted last night at a meeting of the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens association. The association met in the Social Oyster clubhouse.

The President should pay more attention to the wishes of organized citizenship, the association held, and it adopted the resolution with a unanimous vote. The association also asked several changes in the zoning regulations and approved the action of the Senate in including an item of $600,000 in the appropriation bill for the purchase of the Patterson tract.

A resolution vigorously opposing the bill to abolish the residential requirement for appointment of District officials by the President was adopted. President A. W. Barnes presided. James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, spoke on organized citizenship.

C. S. Dewey Honored By Illinois Society

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Dewey last night was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the meeting of the Illinois State society, at the Washington club, 1010 Seventeenth street northwest. He addressed an audience of approximately 200 persons on "Illinois and the Doings of Illinois People in the Capital."

A musical program was one of the features of the evening. Laurence E. Murray and Mrs. Malette Spangler sang solos, and readings were given by Mrs. Elliot Schutz. A. R. Bailey, vice president of the society, presided in the absence of the president, Victor Martin, and introduced the speaker. Following the address and musical there was a dance.

Cigarette Ignites Bed; Man Seriously Burned

While smoking a cigarette in his bed yesterday, Edward Duffel, 54 years old, 1408 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, set fire to the bed clothing and was seriously burned. His wife and daughter ran to his rescue and extinguished the flames.

Duffel was taken to Emergency hospital suffering from severe burns on his body. His condition is serious. He told physicians, they said, that he was smoking and believed he went to sleep and the cigarette fell from his mouth.

Woman Takes Poison At Husband's Home

Mrs. Annie Heath, 41 years old, of 3641 Eleventh street northwest, is in the Emergency hospital in a critical condition from poisoning, said by police of the Sixth precinct to have been taken with suicidal intent.

Mrs. Heath, according to police, went to the home of her husband, at 410 Sixth street northwest, about 9:30 o'clock last night, wrote a note saying she was taking the poison because of ill health and then drank half the contents of a bottle. Police say Mrs. Heath and her husband are separated.

Woman, Held in Drug Case, Released on Bond

Miss Andree DuBoise, 25-year-old New York night club hostess, who was recently indicted on the charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act, was released from the District jail last night under $10,000 bond.

Miss DuBoise was arrested February 7 by narcotic agents and Detectives Saunders and Warfield with Jacob Soloman, 35 years old, of New York, who is in the District jail charged with the same offense.

BELL GIVEN CHANCE TO EXPLAIN PROPOSAL

Citizens' Federation Wants to Hear About Landscape Beautification.

Lieut. Col. Bell, engineer commissioner, yesterday received an invitation to address the Federation of Citizens Associations Saturday night on his proposal to hire a landscape designer as a special assistant of the municipal architect to beautify school grounds.

The education committee of the federation has twice reported unfavorably on the project, and twice the federation, by a close vote, has delayed final action instead of accepting the committee's recommendation. At the last meeting of the federation, instead of refrring the subject back to the committee, as had been done before, laid it over until the coming meeting and voted to ask Col. Bell to state his case.

It is expected that Col. Bell will undertake to show the delegates that the plan will not mean a curtailment of school playground facilities or activities, but rather an extension of them and, at the same time, introduce the cultural effect of beautiful exterior school surroundings into the school life of children.

AIMEE TELLS LIFE STORY AFTER VOTE

name. The district attorney in Los Angeles, Asa Keyes, tried to prove that Mrs. McPherson and Ormiston were staying in a "love cottage" at Carmel-by-the-Sea during the time the evangelist said she was kidnaped and being held for ransom in a Mexican shack.

One important chapter was left out by Mrs. McPherson in the story of her life last night, and that was the chapter dealing with her second marriage. About two years after the death of Robert Semple, she was married to Harold McPherson. They were divorced your years later. No mention of either the marriage or the divorce was made in her story.

Born in Canada.

She told of her birth on a Canadian farm, how her mother dedicated her to the Lord; told how the mother taught her stories of the Bible instead of nursery rhymes, and how she used to recite these stories at the age of 5. Then she went to high school and, among other things, studied the theory of evolution. The result was she came to doubt that there was a God.

Then she met Robert Semple, an evangelist, who was holding a revival near her home. He not only redeemed her but married her. Together they went to China to win souls for God. There Semple was taken ill and died, leaving a young widow who a month later became a mother.

Returning to this country, Mrs. McPherson became an evangelist on her own. She started out with a tent and ended with Angelus temple, said to be one of the largest churches in the world.

Referring to the investigation involving her and Ormiston, Mrs. McPherson declared that the collapse of the case marked the end of the greatest persecution against religion in modern times.

In opening her sermon Mrs. McPherson encouraged her auditors to applaud if they wished.

"'But, sister, cheering in church!' some people exclaim," she said. "And I tell them why not? They cheer at a baseball game."

Answering criticism against women evangelists, Mrs. McPherson declared that "Woman brought sin into the world, and why shouldn't she be allowed to drive it out?"

Many well known persons attended the revival meeting last night, among them Engineer Commissioner J. Franklin Bell, Representative Richard Yates, of Illinois, and Representative William D. Upshaw, of Georgia.

Great Religious Fervor.

The religious fire which Mrs. McPherson kindled Tuesday was burning with even greater intensity at yesterday's afternoon services. The crowd sang with greater fervor and seemed more easily swayed than before.

An interested spectator was Swami Yogananda, the Hindu philosopher and lecturer, who, like the Los Angeles evangelist, has a knack of "packing 'em in." The Hindu sat in a box, and his long black hair and pink robes gave a picturesque touch to the scene. There was a look of undisguised admiration on his swarthy face as he watched Mrs. McPherson.

In her sermon yesterday Mrs. McPherson spoke of the "March of the Bible" and interspersed this with the story of the "Rose of Sharon" and the "Lillies of the Valley."

Mrs. McPherson will preach another sermon at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Washington auditorium. Her final appearance will be tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Invitation for Radio Talk By Evangelist Withdrawn

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Charles D. Isaacson announced his resignation today as director of radio station WRNY of the Hotel Roosevelt. He said in response to questions that cancellation by owners of the station of scheduled talks, on his invitation, by Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, was only "infinitesimally responsible" for his resignation.

Mrs. McPherson was scheduled on Isaacson's invitation to speak Friday, Saturday and Sunday, but the invitation was withdrawn yesterday because owners of the station considered it "bad policy" to permit her use of the facilities for broadcasting.

THIN LINE OF VETERANS ATTEND G. A. R. BANQUET

Only 400 Members in Capital, Whereas Last Year There Were 600.

MORE PENSIONS PLEDGED

The local survivors of the thin blue line proclaimed a victory over time at the annual reception and banquet of the department of the Potomac, G. A. R., last night at the Raleigh hotel. Facing a losing battle against inevitable fate and conceding that their numbers must fall in the unequal contest, the veterans of '61 nevertheless pointed to the United States flag and declared that as long as it lives they shall live, for the flag, they recalled, owes its present life to the men of the Grand Army.

The banquet was attended by good cheer, despite the fact that one speaker recalled "we can never meet again with as many in attendance as are here tonight." Only a handful of veterans were present among the 200 persons in attendance, the others being sons of veterans, guests and members of the Woman's Relief corps, the auxiliary of the G. A. R.

There are now, it was said, only 400 members of the Grand Army remaining in the District. At the time of the annual banquet last year there were 600, and only a few years ago, it was recalled, there were 2,000.

Representative John M. Robsion, of Kentucky; W. I. Swoope, of Pennsylvania, and Henry R. Rathbone, of Illinois, declared that it is a national duty to insure the veterans and the widows of veterans comfort in their declining years, and gave assurance that every effort would be made to put the pension bill through.

Mr. Rathbone recalled the assassination of Lincoln. His father, he said, was in the box as a guest of President and Mrs. Lincoln. Dr. Charles V. Pettys, who was toastmaster, will retire as department commander at the election of officers this afternoon at the G. A. R. hall.

History of Obelisks Told Local Engineers

There originally were approximately 65 obelisks in Egypt, and of these 11 today are in Rome and 3 others are in London, Paris and New York, F. G. Jonah, chief engineer of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, stated last night in an address on "The Story of the Obelisks" before the Washington Society of Engineers, meeting in the Cosmos club.

Jonah told of the equipment used in constructing such massive monuments and the engineering skill displayed in overcoming the difficult problems involved. The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides. Approximately 125 persons attended. F. B. Sheetz, president of the society, introduced the speaker.

SOUTHWEST CITIZENS MEET BREMERMAN

New Captain Joins Association After Introduction by Inspector Headley.

Albert J. Headley, recently reappointed police inspector, last night introduced Capt. C. H. Bremerman, who was promoted to take Inspector Headley's place as captain of the Fourth precinct, to the Southwest Citizens association meeting in the Fairbrother school, Tenth and E streets southwest. Capt. Bremerman joined the association following the meeting.

After congratulating Capt. Bremerman, Inspector Headley gave a resume of his work in the Fourth precinct, which Roberts Strobel, president of the association, and George Yeatman asserted had brought a marked improvement in the conditions of Southwest Washington and especially cast of Four-and-a-Half street.

The association adopted a resolution reaffirming their indorsement of William McK. Clayton as people's counsel, stating that a grave injustice had been done him. The association requested that a branch library be placed at Sixth and D streets southwest, and opposed the elimination of the three-year residential clause for commissioner appointments. The president ordered a letter sent to Senator Arthur Capper to that effect.

Potomac Power Co. Acts for Office Site

The Potomac Electric Power Co. is said to be negotiating for purchase of land at the southwest corner of Fourteenth and G streets northwest, on which to erect a lhrge office building for accommodation of its own employes.

Removal of the offices from their present location will be made necessary by the Federal building program in the triangle between Pennsylvania avenue, Fifteenth street and the Mall.

Lunchroom Owner Bankrupt.

Norman Foster, proprietor of a lunchroom at 801 Tenth street northwest, was adjudged a bankrupt yesterday by Justice Bailey in Bankruptcy court on a voluntary petition. Through Attorney H. Grossman, the debts were listed at $4,620 and the assets at $410.

Realty Broker Sues For $60,000 Damages

Libel is charged against the Griffith Coal Corporation and the Capital Construction Co. in two suits filed yesterday in circuit court by Samuel J. Solomon, 1522 K street northwest, real estate broker and builder, who seeks to recover a total of $60,000 damages.

Through Attorneys Tedrow, Sterling & McCaslin, the plaintiff says that on February 12 the Griffith Coal Corporation filed in the circuit court a notice of a lien upon his property for an alleged indebtedness of $2,047. On February 4, it is alleged, the Capital Construction Co. sued Solomon in the municipal court to recover $696.06, alleged to be due on a promissory note. There was no justification for either of these suits, the plaintiff states. He asks $50,000 from the Griffith Corporation and $10,000 from the Capital Construction Co. Both suits adversely affected his credit, his property and his business integrity, it is alleged.

OFFICER, WHO FIRED ON COUPLE, RESIGNS

Fairfax County Man and Woman Companion Escape Death.

Louis Coyner, member of a prominent Virginia family and an employe of the county treasurer's office in Fairfax county, Virginia, narrowly escaped death Tuesday night when he was fired upon by Marshall Carter, special county officer, in the vicinity of Fairfax. Carter, who says that he failed to recognize Coyner, has offered his resignation.

A woman companion who was with Coyner also narrowly escaped being struck by bullets fired by the officer. Coyner, supposing the man to be a highwayman, sped into town, where he was later overtaken by Carter. The officer, in explaining his action, said that he had not recognized Coyner and had shot at him when he failed to make known his identity.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson Farr, in discussing the incident last night, stated that Carter's resignation would be accepted, and so far as his office was concerned no further action would be taken. While no action will be taken by the Commonwealth's attorney, Mr. Coyner said he was yet undecided, that the matter was in the hands of his attorney and would not be decided until today.

Peru Awards Medal To Comdr. F.B. Freyer

Comdr. Frank B. Freyer, assistant to the judge advocate general of the navy, has been awarded the decoration of the Order of the Sun of Peru by the Peruvian government in recognition of his services to the Peruvian navy.

This decoration will be held in custody at the State Department until such time as he may be authorized by Congress to accept it. Commander Freyer organized the naval mission to Peru and served as its head from 1920 to 1923.

SCRAP OF PAPER IS SAID TO DENY TALE OF MAL DAUGHERTY

Would Place Jess Smith Here, Not at His Ohio Home, April 30, 1922.

EXCLUDED AT PRESENT; WRITER IS SENT FOR

Brother Declares That Harry Had No Knowledge of Financial Dealings.

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—A scrap of paper on which a government guard made a few almost illegible marks caused consternation in the Daugherty-Miller trial today.

Just before the government rested its case late in the afternoon Elizabeth Miller, telephone operator in the Department of Justice building, was called to the stand. There was a hubbub in the courtroom, for an inkling of what she was to testify had been given when Mal S. Daugherty, Washington Court House, Ohio, banker and brother of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, was testifying about a check for $2,125 which he deposited to his brother's personal account in the Midland National Bank, of which Mal is president.

Mal Daugherty said the check was given him at his home in Washington Court House the morning of April 30, 1922. Jess W. Smith, Washington Court House merchant and handy man to Harry Daugherty, gave it to him, Mal said, as part payment on a note for $2,500, which sum Harry Daugherty had loaned to Smith.

Buckner Springs Surprise.

The check, the government contends, represented proceeds of the sale of coupons on $100,000 of Liberty bonds which Richard Merton, as agent for the Societe Suisse Pur Valeurs de Metaux, gave the late John T. King, one-time Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, for aid in having $7,000,000 of impounded assets of the American Metals Co. transferred to the Societe Suisse. King was paid a total of $441,000, of which $391,000 was in Liberty bonds.

After Mal Daugherty had told of Smith handing him the check, United States Attorney Buckner asked him, casually, if he would be surprised to learn that Jess Smith had telephoned to the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta from Washington, D. C., at about the time on April 30, 1922, when he was handing the check to him in Washington Court House, Ohio. Buckner held the scrap of paper in his hand.

"I certainly would be surprised," Mal Daugherty replied.

"Very well," Buckner said. "Let's take up something else."

Given by Guard Here.

When Mal Daugherty had been dismissed from the stand, Buckner called Miss Miller. She identified the slip of paper as one given her by a guard in the Department of Justice building. It was dated April 30, 1922, but had been given her a day later by the building guard, who, she said, operated the switch board on Sundays and kept a record of the calls made.

This testimony was not adduced at the first trial. Harold Corbin, of counsel for Daugherty, vigorously objected to the admission of the scrap of paper, insisting that the government produce the guard. Judge Knox sustained the objection and the scrap of paper was not admitted. The government promised to produce the guard and issued instructions that he be found.

Virtually the whole day was consumed in cross and redirect examination of Mal Daugherty, who did not lose his geniality under a severe reexamination by Buckner. His testimony was excluded as evidence against Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, codefendant with Harry Daugherty.

Mal's testimony under direct and cross-examination was of a nature to show that his brother had no knowledge of the origin of moneys that the government traced to his accounts. The government had shown, directly and indirectly, that proceeds of coupons on $100,000 of liberty bonds, five $10,000 liberty bonds and $22,163, being proceeds of two $10,00 and four $1,000 liberty bonds, eventually arrived at the Midland National bank.

Shortage in Smith Fund.

It was explained by Mal Daughtery that the five $10,000 bonds were given him by Smith, a few days before Smith committed suicide, along with $4,000 in cash, a check for $3,000 to make up a deficit in a political fund for which Smith was responsible. This deficit, Mal said, amounted to between $60,000 and $65,000. The remainder of the deficit was never made up, he said.

The $22,163 cashier's check was given to King at the Seaboard National Bank after, in a round-about way, the six bonds had been sold for King by a broker who opened a special account, known as "No. 40," for King. This check, Mal said, was deposited to the "Jess Smith, extra" account, previously described a political account, but used to pay Daugherty's expenses at Washington.

Before resting its case, the government contended it had shown that King's "retainer fee" of $50,000 by check had been "split" with Jess Smith, that King had been shown to have kept $112,000 of the liberty bonds, that Jess Smith and Harry Daughtery divided $224,000 of the liberty bonds and that $49,000 of the bonds had been traced to Miller's banking and brokerage accounts.

Harry Daugherty Exculpated.

In the case of bonds traced to Harry Daugherty, only inferential evidence, the government said, was adduced. It depended, the government said, on its showing of intimacy between Harry Daugherty and Jess Smith, and the destruction and misplacement of bank records to convince the jury that Harry Daugherty actually received the bonds or proceeds thereof.

Mal Daugherty's testimony was of a nature intended to exculpate his brother. He said that Harry had never known that the bonds were Merton-to-King bonds, that Harry did not know Jess Smith had given bonds in payment of the deficit, until long after the payment was made, and that Harry Daugherty at no time knew his "man Friday" had given proceeds of the sale of coupons on the $100,000 block of the bonds as payment on a promissory note. In fact, Mal said, Harry seldom knew anything about actual transactions, depending upon him for reports of such matters.

When the government rested, court was adjourned until 2 o'clock tomorrow to give defense counsel time to make motions. The government took eight days to present its case. It called 47 witnesses, a number of them testifying more than once.

Second Daytona Bank Closed.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The East Coast Bank & Trust Co., capitalized at $100,000 and with a surplus of $100,000, failed to reopen its doors here today. The suspension was the second within the past two days, the American Bank & Trust Co. having closed yesterday.

SOFT COAL WAGE PROPOSALS HANDED TO SUBCOMMITTEE

Miners Ask 2-Year Contract on Principle That Cuts Can Not Solve Issues.

COMMISSION IS SOUGHT BY OPERATORS' CHIEF

Charges of Political Domination Are Raised in Debate Over Plans.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—A subcommittee of the joint conference of miners and operators of the unionized central competitive bituminous field tonight held in its hands the task of ironing out differences between conflicting proposals for a new wage agreement.

Following a spirited meeting today in which both sides vigorously defended their wage settlement proposals, the joint conference, without taking a vote on either plan, gave the matter to the subcommittee with instructions to conduct further hearings and bring back to the conference a unified proposal. The subcommittee will begin closed sessions tomorrow.

Offered today by President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, the miners' proposal asked the conference to draft a new wage contract for a two-year period based on the principle that wage reductions were inadequate to solve the problems of the industry. Existing ills would be brought before the joint conference which would continue in operation for the duration of the agreement.

Operators Urge Mediators.

The operators' proposal, presented by W. H. Haskins, Ohio operator, seeks a continuous wage agreement on a competitive basis with the nonunion soft coal industry of West Virginia and Kentucky. Control of the continuous negotiations will be placed in the hands of a commission. The commission will be composed of four operators, four miners and three mediators, the latter to be appointed by the Chief Justice of the United States, in event a disagreement arose over their selection.

Both sides repeated assertions that their proposals had not been drawn in an arbitrary or selfish spirit, but the idea of finding a common ground upon which to stabilize the bituminous industry.

Charges of political domination of settlements within the industry were heard during the session. Phil H. Penna, Terra Haute, Ind., operator, said collective bargaining in the coal industry had been a sham since 1915, and that politicians had dictated its course. This brought the question from President Lewis whether the commission asked by the operators would not leave the industry in the hands of politicians. Mr. Penna replied that he would not consider politicians eligible to the commission.

The operators' proposition to submit differences for final arbitration to the three mediators drew fire from the miners. It was charged that the practice would lead to "domination of the coal industry by politicians and an inevitable return to the dismal living conditions of unorganized miners."

Chief Justice Taft was mentioned by Thomas Kennedy, international secretary of the United Mine Workers, as a politician who would select politicians to serve as mediators.

Mr. Haskins retorted that if men like Chief Justice Taft were politicians, then the operators preferred to leave their decisions to these politicians rather than to those of the miners' organization.

Members of Subcommittee.

The subcommittee is composed of the following:

School Children to Give East Chicago New Name

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Next Monday the school children of East Chicago, Ind., will vote on a new name for the city. The election was to have been held tomorrow, but delay in printing the ballots made it necessary to postpone the vote until Monday. The names to be submitted are Lake City, Calumet Harbor, Indiana City and Tod. The last of these would be a tribute to Robert Tod, who owned most of the property now included in the city. The purpose is to stop confusion of its present name with Chicago, Ill.

The election will be one of the most unique ever held in the United States. The first proposal was that the voters hold a regular election, but Mayor Ralph P. Hale and the chamber of commerce hit upon the expediency of having the children cast the ballots and thus save the city about $10,000 in election expenses. The names receiving the fewest votes will be eliminated until one name gets a majority.

ANTI-MOSCOW PLOT IN BRITAIN CHARGED

Moscow Says Object Is to Cause Breaking Off of Relations.

Moscow, Russia, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—In a two-page broadside, illustrated with alleged facsmile letters the government newspapers Investia and Pravda publish what they describe as documentary evidence of an organized plot in England for the severance of relations with the soviets.

Behind the plot, it is asserted, are former czarist diplomats, white guardists, British oil magnates, fascist adventurers, newspapers—the Daily Mail is mentioned as one of them— Scotland Yard agents and even British churches.

The arch-villian is said to be Eugene Sablin, a former czarist diplomat, who, it is affirmed, maintains diplomatic relations with the British government through Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary; Lord Birkenhead, secretary for India, and others. A regular czarist diplomatic corps, aiming to overthrow the soviet government, is declared to exist in all the capitals of Europe, headed by Baron de Giers in Paris. De Giers was formerly master of ceremonies at the Russian court.

Doctors to Direct Drive on Quackery

Chicago, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Representatives of 42 State medical boards and members of the American Medical association today unanimously adopted a motion to lead in a new crusade intended to eliminate quackery and charlatanry in the healing arts. This action came as the climax to three day's discussion of illegal practitioners, licensing laws, medical education and hospitals.

By this action the Federation of State Medical Boards is pledged to use every effort to enlist the aid of governors, members of State legislatures, court officials, public health workers, the press, and leaders of public opinion in all walks of life in the war on the illegal practitioner.

LEITER PARTY ON LOGS AFTER YACHT IS SUNK

Craft Goes Down Near Mouth of Mississippi; Notables in the Group.

AWAIT RESCUE IN RAIN

New Orleans, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Joseph Leiter, of Chicago, and a party of friends spent several hours on logs near the mouth of the Mississippi river yesterday after his yacht, Emmie, struck a hidden snag and sunk.

In the party were W. B. Alford, of the DuPont Powder Co.; D. W. Fulton, vice president of the Ziegler Coal Co., Ziegler, Ill; John Dymond, of New Orleans, and the yacht's crew of two.

The yacht was bringing the party back to New Orleans from the Leiter hunting reserve, Chateau Canard, when the snag was struck. The Emmie went down almost immediately in 8 feet of water. It was about 600 feet off shore and members of the party were taken to the swamp that borders the river in a small duck boat. When they reached "land," which was covered by about 2 feet of water, they were forced to make themselves comfortable on logs while the crew went for help.

The party was picked up by a department of conservation boat and taken to Point La Hache.

All of the baggage was salvaged by means of hooks.

John Dymond, a member of the party, described the sinking of the yacht. "We had just reached Southwest Pass," he said. "At that place there is what is called a 'mat' to guard against enlargement of the pass. Pilings protect this mat. And we struck one piling which was acting as a sort of brace to the woodwork.

"We struck it at the bow, tearing a hole that looked to be about 5 feet long. We began to take water immediately, but had time to get everybody ashore—not far away—where there was a foot or two of water.

"We sat on logs in the rain—and it certainly did rain—and watched the Emmie turn over and sink.

"Then the engineer, Dewey Norton and Lewis Williams, the other member of the crew, took the duck boat which was what we had used to come ashore in, and paddled over to the Delta Duck club, where they secured assistance.

"We arrived at Point La Hache at 8 o'clock last night. None of the party is any the worse for his experience."

'CAPTIVE' IS WITHDRAWN FROM NEW YORK STAGE

Decision of Members of Cast Not to Appear Follows Raids by Police.

TWO OTHERS TO CONTINUE

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The manager and director, the stage director, the leading lady, another actress and one elderly actor walked out of the limelight today among the central figures in the police-raided, public-censored play, "The Captive." They said they no longer would appear in the play or try to put it on again in New York.

The withdrawal of Gilbert Miller as manager, George Kondolf, jr., as stage director, and Helen Menken, Winifred Fraser and Arthur Lewis meant the closing down of the show at the theater where it has been a big box office drawing card for several months. The players agreed not to appear again in their roles under any management—but several others, when asked to make similar promises, held back.

The closing of "The Captive" was interpreted as the first victory of the city authorities in their moral crusade along Broadway. However, the presence in the courtroom of Horace Liveright, publisher and producer, who announced he was negotiating with M. Bourdet, the Paris author, for American rights to the vehicle, was taken by some to betoken the fact that interest in the play has not died out, and that Liveright may produce it himself with some, if not all, of the actors of the first American cast, and dare the authorities to do their censoring.

Following upon the promise of the management to close immediately, the complaints against the two managers and the promise-making players were dismissed, while bail for the others of the cast was continued until they make up their minds on their own course of playing or not playing. They will be asked their decisions Friday afternoon in Jefferson Market court, where they were heard today.

Spokesmen for "Sex" and "The Virgin Man," the two other raided plays, announced that their productions would continue "at the old stand." District Attorney Banton added his statement that he would bend every effort to bring about a speedy trial of the management and casts of these two productions in special sessions.

Blanton and Dickstein in Spirited Tilt; Bloom Plans for Redress.

RINGSIDE VERSIONS VARY ON HEARING ENCOUNTER

Carew Proposes Medals and Chevrons; Upshaw Is Suggested Referee.

Despite the surface appearance of facetious treatment of the melee Tuesday before the House District subcommittee hearing the Lankford Sunday bill, there are strong indications that the matter may bob up in more serious vein.

Representatives Gallivan, of Massachusetts, and Carew, of New York, introduced resolutions to regulate fights among the members, and Mr. Gallivan insisted he had assurance from Speaker Longworth that his resolution would be referred to a special committee consisting of the three women members.

But there was a spirited tilt between Representative Blanton, of Texas, and Representative Dickstein, of New York, on the floor, during which there was an agreement that the two should meet in the gymnasium for pugilistic supremacy. The Texan seemed to consider this agreement in light vein, but Mr. Dickstein gave the appearance of being in earnest.

Bloom to Talk on Floor.

Over in his office, Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, party of the second part in the Blanton-Bloom setto, spoke cryptically and mysteriously of his plans, and of the various means of redress that are at his command. He did say definitely, however, that he was to bring the matter up on the floor and that he certainly planned to challenge the Texan's statement that he, Mr. Bloom, was aggressive in any way.

The Texan's version yesterday, related under pressure from Mr. Dickstein and to the disgust of Representative Beedy, of Maine, was that he had only sought to "restrain" Mr. Bloom. Eyewitnesses were of the impression that Mr. Bloom needed no restraining.

Mr. Blanton said he merely "grabbed Mr. Bloom's wrists" and held him.

"Who got up firs?" pressed Mr. Dickstein.

Meets Them Halfway.

"I met him halfway," the Texan retorted. "When a man starts at me I always meet him halfway."

It is this statement which Mr. Bloom is particularly anxious to challenge and eyewitnesses seem to agree that Mr. Bloom never got more than 2 feet, even in the ensuing scuffle, from where he sat. He was sitting at a place around the committee table far removed from Mr. Blanton.

Mr. Blanton denied vigorously reports of the fight which said he choked Mr. Bloom. He not only denied them in the House, but in the meeting of the House District committee. And on this point eyewitnesses seemed to agree that, while he did not choke Mr. Bloom, his sturdy arm was perilously near Mr. Bloom's Adam's apple.

At any rate, Mr. Dickstein assured the Texan that "you will not shove me around that way." This was when the Texan issued the challenge to "take you on at any time," which Mr. Dickstein accepted but which Mr. Blanton considered to be all in fun.

Reid Explains Fray.

Mr. Blanton had a champion extraordinary in Representative Frank R. Reid, of Illinois. At the District committee meeting, Mr. Reid spoke as follows:

"One Sol Bloom, of New York, came in and attempted to run our committee. Mr. Blanton took care of himself and of the committee and the action taken last night in favorably reporting this bill (the Sunday bill) was a direct result of Mr. Bloom's interference." Representative Houston, of Delaware, objected to the manner in which Mr. Reid referred to his fellow member, asking if he was not speaking in a "disrespectful way of the gentleman from New York.

"He is one and not two," said Mr. Reid. "I take exception to another member of Congress trying to run our committee."

The feature of Mr. Carew's resolution for regulated bouts would be the issuance of medals and chevrons to the participants in finish fights, while Mr. Gallivan would make Representative Upshaw, of Georgia, the referee at a salary of $7,500 a year.

Mr. Carew's measure has a prohibition against the women members taking advantage of the legalization of fighting without first getting the "consent and personal cooperation" of the respective presiding officers of the House and Senate.

Will Rogers Holds Knockouts Needed In Congress Fights

Special to The Washington Post.

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 16.—Two of my congressional friends had a fight in Congress yesterday, Sol Bloom, of New York, and Blanton, of Texas. That's three fights in there in three days, and nobody has been hit yet. If their political sight is as bad as their aim, we better call for a new election. What this country needs is legislators that can both knock each other out for good. That's our only salvation.

MARGIN OF 55 VOTES CLAIMED FOR FARM BILL

Haugen Measure Backers Are Seeking Roll Call Before End of Week.

CLASH EXPECTED TODAY

(By the Associated Press.)

Confident of victory, House farm leaders supporting the McNary-Haugen relief bill yesterday whipped into shape plans for the final drive toward a vote on the measure in identical form to that already approved by the Senate. A vote is expected before the end of the week.

Although several barriers have been set in their course, they were so certain that the bill would be passed by the House that virtually all speculation was directed to the size of the majority and to the attitude of President Coolidge.

Representative Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, one of those leading in the fight for the proposal, predicted that the House would give it a majority of 55 votes, while a poll conducted by other advocates of it fixed the margin at 70.

Aswell to Start Fight.

Sidetracked to give other legislation right of way, the McNary-Haugen bill will be taken up today, with a skirmish expected, on a motion by Representative Aswell (Democrat), Louisiana, to substitute the declaration of policy in his farm relief measure for that in the McNary-Haugen bill. He has announced that should this move succeed he would immediately offer his bill as a complete substitute.

The most serious attack upon the bill is expected to come, however, when Representative Crisp (Democrat), Georgia, offers as a substitute the Curtis-Crisp bill, which at one time this session was credited with having substantial support in the House.

MEXICAN OIL BAN SHOWN TO SENATE IN KELLOGG LETTER

Provision of Law Seems to Prohibit Concessions to Foreigners, He Says.

ONLY 4 U. S. CONCERNS APPLY FOR PRIVILEGES

These Either Do Not Produce Petroleum or Have No Titles, Secretary Writes.

(By the Associated Press.)

Attention of the Senate was directed by Secretary Kellogg yesterday to a provision of the Mexican constitution which "seems to prohibit" the granting of oil concessions to foreign companies.

The communication added that only 4 of the 47 American oil concerns in Mexico, or of 58 including 11 in which there is an American interest held through Mexican companies, had applied for the concessions required by the Mexican petroleum law.

The four exceptions either are not producing oil or do not own fee titles in Mexico, Mr. Kellogg said, while the remainder of the 58 concerns listed control 90 per cent of the oil-producing lands of Mexico acquired before May 1, 1917, and produce about 70 per cent of all oil in Mexico.

Companies Named.

The Secretary, in a letter to President Coolidge, transmitted by the White House to the Senate in response to a resolution by Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, said that the four companies which had applied for concessions were the Penn-Mex Fuel, Texas-Petrolene and Asphalt, East Coast Oil and New England Fuel Oil companies, but he added that he had not been advised whether they had been granted them.

"In this relation," said Mr. Kellogg, "I may point out that article 27 of the Mexican constitution of 1917 seems to prohibit the granting of such a concession to a foreign corporation, and that this interpretation of the constitution finds support in the opinion of the attorney general of Mexico, published in the Diaro Official, December 8, 1917, wherein he held that, in view of the constitutional provisions referred to, alien corporations shall in no event acquire lands, waters, and their appurtenances in Mexico."

Mr. Kellogg declined to make public correspondence with oil companies having interests in Mexico because it might involve "forfeiture or serious prejudice to their rights."

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon February 16 and adjourned at 5:20 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

Operating under cloture rule and after speeches by Senators Frazier and Wheeler, passed conference report on McFadden branch banking bill, 71 to 17. It now goes to President.

Passed joint resolution making $10,000,000 immediately available for eradication of European corn borer.

Adopted partial conference reports on War Department's legislative, and State, Justice, Commerce and Labor appropriation bills.

Nominations included Ezra Brainerd, jr., of Oklahoma, to be member Interstate Commerce Commission; William R. Castle, jr., District of Columbia, and Francis White, Maryland, to be assistant secretaries of State; Oliver D. Burden, New York, United States attorney, northern district of New York.

Senator George, of Georgia, Democrat, described Vice President Dawes as "directing genius" of movement that brought about vote on farm relief legislation.

Began consideration of District of Columbia appropriation bill.

Senator Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, introduced resolution for investigation of charges that group of bankers had raised fund of $100,000 to influence legislation in connection with Hull amendment to McFadden bill.

Bill introduced by Senator Watson, of Indiana, to regulate interstate commerce by motor vehicles operating as common carriers on public highways.

Joint committee on territories adopted resolution declaring care of lepers in Philippines matter for "private rather than governmental aid."

Before foreign relations committee, Jose Miguel Bejarano, of Mexican chamber of commerce, New York, charged United States is directing financial and economic boycott against Mexico "far more deadly than armed intervention."

Dr. Albert Putney, director of political science, American university, told foreign relations committee administration was misled by improper translation of Nicaraguan constitution, and that under correct translation this government had no authority to recognize Diaz or land troops in that country.

Favorable report ordered by foreign relations committee on resolution of Senator Borah, of Idaho, requesting President to negotiate treaty with Mexico, extending life of mixed claims commission so as to adjudicate present controversy over Mexican oil and land laws. President transmitted from State Department report on oil lands and concessions in Mexico, in response to resolution.

Conference report on radio control bill made unfinished business.

Confirmed Samuel H. Thompson to be collector of customs at Pittsburgh, and long list of postmasters.

HOUSE.

Met at noon February 16 and adjourned at 4:55 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

Passed bill to confer United States citizenship upon certain inhabitants of Virgin Islands and extend naturalization laws thereto.

Passed bill to prescribe literacy test to certain voters in Alaska.

Considered and passed various bills on private calendar.

President transmitted estimate for $245,000 for new ventilating system for House chamber.

Blanton, of Texas, and Dickstein, of New York, challenged each other to fist fight; other members participated in verbal encounter and Messrs Carew, of New York, and Gallivan, of Massachusettts, introduced facetious resolutions designed to provide rules and regulations for congressional fisticuffs, challenges, bouts and fights.

Debate on Senate farm relief bill under five-minute rule will be resumed today.

Census committee agreed to vote tomorrow on Fenn bill to reapportion House membership on basis of 1930 census.

Readjustment of salaries in customs service was under discussion by ways and means committee.

Banking and currency committee considered legislation and held hearings on proposed Federal reserve pension bill.

SENATE MAKES RADIO BILL ITS BUSINESS

Final Action Expected in Time for President to Appoint Board.

(By the Associated Press.)

With opposition apparently pretty well flattened out, the conference report on radio control legislation was made the unfinished business of the Senate yesterday without debate on a record vote.

Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, who has led a fight to send the legislation back to conference, declared he had no intention to obstruct this or other bills between now and the end of the session, but that he desired to again speak briefly on the measure.

Final congressional action on the conference report is expected tomorrow at the latest, without resort to the cloture rule limiting debate. Leaders believe this will give the President ample time to select and send to the Senate before March 4 the names of the five men who are to make up the radio commission which would have complete control for one year and advisory control thereafter. After the conference report has been acted upon the Senate probably will designate the Boulder dam bill as its unfinished business.

HEALTH OFFICERS CLOSE NEW DENATURANT PLANT

Waste of Product to Mix in Poison for Raw Alcohol Taints Water Supply.

BAD TASTE IS FEATURE

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—A manufacturing plant at West Nyack which has been making a new alcohol denaturant for government use has been ordered closed by the New York and New Jersey health authorities following investigation of complaints that the plant's waste was tainting water supplies of Rockland county and part of New Jersey. Residents complained that the water had a "speedy taste."

The plant will not reopen until its waste has been diverted from the water supply which has been chlorinated to remove the taint.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—"Aldehol," made from the oxidation of kerosene, is the new alcohol denaturant which today caused the closing of the West Nyack, N. Y., plant where it was being manufactured, because the plant's waste was tainting water supplies.

Prof. Joseph H. James, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, developed "aldehol," which was adopted by the government as a denaturant for alcohol. The product, manufactured exclusively at the West Nyack plant, was to be used as a denaturant on and after April 1 next.

According to Prof. James "aldehol" is nonpoisonous, has a very disagreeable taste and a repulsive odor and is very sickening. His experiments with it, he added, show that when it is mixed with alcohol, it is practically impossible to renature the alcohol. Heretofore, much of the alcohol denatured with old formulas has been renatured for the bootleg trade.

Under official regulations, the new denaturant is to include "four parts by volume of approved methanol (wood alcohol) and .75 parts by volume of the compound or one similar thereto, known as aldehol, grade A."

killing one trainman and injuring others of the crew and one passenger.

A 7-year-old boy was drowned when he fell from a bridge near San Diego into a raging creek, while two persons lost their lives in traffic accidents caused by the storm in Los Angeles.

Rain fell constantly in southern California today and Escondido reported the tremendous total of 6.63 inches for the past 24 hours and 10.35 inches for the storm.

Between 4,000 and 6,000 persons were driven from their homes in the South Beach section of Venice.

While the storm was reported passing, the conditions that brought it to a head and filled it with pounding winds, cascading snowfalls and deluging rains still existed.

Forty-five oil derricks were wrecked and damage estimated at $150,000 suffered by oil companies in the vicinity of Maricopa, Fellows and Taft yesterday, while a second hurricane threatened today.

Advices from San Pedro said the Pacific Steamship Co. ship Admiral Evans would leave today for San Diego to deliver perishable food products consigned to the latter city, which was virtually isolated by land.

Approximately 20 blocks of the residence section of Anaheim and three times this area in Fullerton were under water. Troubles were added when 80,000 barrels of oil from an undermined tank at Atwood collapsed, sending the oil across the water to damage residences and orange groves.

The Union Pacific railroad announced that all of its lines out of Los Angeles were blocked at various points by water, washouts and mud. At San Fernando, the Southern Pacific tracks were buried under water.

Many residents of Laurel canyon, west of Hollywood, prepared to vacate their homes as a heavy downpour of rain threatened new landslides.

Coastwise shipping had its troubles, although only minor damage was reported. The bar pilot boat Adventuress was driven in to shelter from off the bar here today after the gale had torn away her foremast and a portion of her bow. The Matson liner Manoa, although escaping the brunt of the storm, was hit broadside by one giant comber that smashed in two starboard stateroom doors and flooded other staterooms as well.

Southern Pacific rail traffic between San Francisco and Portland was tied up 3 hours by a landslide in northern California, while the same company reported that an aviator put its wire communication between Pasadena and Los Angeles out of business when he crashed into a pole.

San Pedro reported a 60-mile gale today and the wind at Point Reyes, north of San Francisco, reached a velocity of 76 miles.

The United States weather bureau said the end was not yet in sight, although clearing weather might be expected for a day or so. Another great disturbance, well formed and of almost incalculable extent was rolling in from a point between here and Honolulu and there were indications of still another tremendous storm behind it.

Additional radio advices to Hollywood said the clubhouse and race track at Tia Juana were filled with mud and debris when the tracks of the San Diego & Arizona railway were washed out at noon.

Residents near Camp Kearney, north of San Diego, were marooned in their homes. Reports from Alpine said cottages there have been washed away and that lives were endangered, although no one is known to have met with injury.

More than 9,000,000,000 gallons of water were held behind Derrick dam, reports from there said. Of this total 5,000,000,000 gallons were deposited in the present storm. The precipitation at the dam for the past 24 hours was 5.32 inches with a storm total of 13.72 inches.

FLOOD PERIL SEEN IN IMPERIAL VALLEY

Congress Can Not Act Quickly Enough, Declares California Engineer.

The Imperial valley of California is menaced by the threat of a flood rivaling the disastrous torrent of 1906-7, which caused millions of dollars' damage, and required the combined efforts of the government, the Southern Pacific railroad and other interests to control, J. C. Allison, California engineer and representative of Imperial valley landholders, declared yesterday.

"Experts without exception join in the opinion that without immediate emergency relief the river may again break into the Imperial valley this summer," he said. "While the inundation of the country would be comparatively slow in such a disaster, the entire water supply would be destroyed for all of the cities and agricultural districts."

Allison declared that even if the Swing-Johnson bill, which provides for permanent protection, were enatced this week, the immediate flood peril would not be averted. Failure to take steps at the present time may render useless any later permanent construction at Boulder dam, he said, stating that the snow pack this year is the greatest in 20 years.

Big Block Is Sold Of Maryland Stock

(By the Associated Press.)

A large block of stock in the Western Maryland railroad, seized by the alien property custodian during the world war, has been sold to the bank of the Manhattan Co., of New York, representing other interests.

Howard Sutherland, alien Property custodian, said the consideration was $4,010,000. He declared he did not know for whom the New York bank company was acting. The stock, 55,000 shares of common and 19,070 shares of first preferred, was the property of the Deutsch Bank, of Berlin. Mr. Sutherland said that he had the written consent of the owners to sell. By refusing to sell the same shares one year ago, he said he had obtained approximately $2,000,000 more than was possible at that time.

$245,000 Is Asked For House Ventilation

(By the Associated Press.)

President Coolidge is of the opinion that the House needs ventilation and dehumidizing as much as the Senate, and more so.

He submitted to Congress yesterday an estimate of $245,000 to provide apparatus to give the House chamber more fresh air, although he asked for only $185,000 to similarly equip the Senate.

frequently stated about this building that a lobby was in operation interested in the banking bill. It also has been charged that in excess of $100,000 has been expended by certain bankers in behalf of the Hull amendments. These reports have gone so far as to say that the paid lobbyist of these interests, who has haunted the halls and lobbies of this body, has employed members of this Congress to make speeches in behalf of these amendments. In view of these reports, which I have reason to believe, I am offering this resolution.

"It has been definitely reported to me that this group of bankers and their agents paid the expenses of a number of bankers to the Los Angeles convention for the purpose of furthering their plans."

Close to Encounter.

It looked momentarily as if another encounter between Senator Glass and Senator Wheeler might be in the making. The Montana senator demanded recognition and Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, insisted that he be heard since he had been attacked. Senator Glass disclaimed any such intention and Senator Dill, who had the floor, did not yield until he had straightened out his radio bill.

"I read the letter from Mr. Paton into the record," said Senator Wheeler when he gained the floor, "and have it here now. There is nothing to indicate that it is a form letter. It seems significant to me that it was sent to Mr. Hull while the controversy over this bill was on and despite the fact that Mr. Hull has not practiced law for a number of years. It was either sent through the grossest ignorance or from some other motive. I did not know which and asked for an explanation. I am glad that this statement has been sent to the Senate.

"As for the resolution of the Senator from Virginia, I take it it was not aimed at me."

"Certainly not," said Senator Glass. "I may say that it was drawn ten days ago."

"While we are going into the question presented by the resolution I would like to go into the entire subject, said Senator Wheeler. I would like to know not only what expenses were paid to Los Angeles, but to other meetings of bankers, for it is my understanding that the expenses of small bankers were paid in a great many instances when the big bankers had some resolution which they wanted adopted. Let's go into the whole subject.'

"That is the purpose of the resolution," said Senator Glass.

"Well, then I hope it will pass," replied Senator Wheeler.

The Glass resolution provides for the expenditure of $2,500 and calls for a report by January 1, 1928.

STUDEBAKER'S BIG SIX SEDAN FOR SEVEN

The fastest selling 7-passenger sedan in the world

$2245 F. O. B. FACTORY

with the privilege of three color options

CREATED for America's executives, The President today enjoys the widespread recognition of big business. It outsells all other seven passenger sedans because it is the world's first car to combine custom luxury and commonsense economy.

Low-swung, lustrously lacquered, lavishly appointed, The President at $2245 is the symbol of Studebaker's One-Profit supremacy in achieving custom results without custom cost.

The President has a full-vision steel body; disc wheels; 4-wheel brakes; nickeled 2-beam acorn headlights; bumpers, front and rear; and silvered Atalanta, poised on its radiator like a jewel. A no-draft ventilating windshield (exclusively Studebaker) admits fresh air but excludes drafts and moisture.

It is powered with the quiet Studebaker L-head motor—first to beat the fastest transcontinental schedules of the crack Limiteds—equalled in rated horsepower by only seven other American cars costing from two to four times more!

You may duplicate the car and you can duplicate the price, but there is no other car except The President in which you can duplicate them both. Prove it yourself by driving The President today.

Compare these features with those of any other car selling at anywhere near its price:

1 Choice of three distinctive color combinations.

2 The famous Studebaker Big Six motor, equalled in rated horsepower by only seven American cars which cost from two to four times more.

3 Full vision steel body, fused by electricityinto one piece of steel—welded, not riveted.

4 Fully machined, dynamically balanced crankshaft.

5 Positive acting four-wheel mechanical brakes.

6 No-draft ventilating windshield, exclusively Studebaker, assuring fresh air without drafts or moisture.

7 Wide form-fitting seats, upholstered in broadcloth or fine mohair with broadlace trim.

8 Instrument board in two-toned lacquer with instruments grouped under glass, and indirectly lighted.

9 Silver-finish inlaid hardware.

The following extra equipment is included without extra cost: Nickel-plated bumpers, front and rear; Watson Stabilators; engine thermometer, clock and hydrostatic gasoline gauge on the dash; oil filter; automatic windshield cleaner; double rear-vision mirror; vanity case and smoking set; arm rests; toggle grips; dome light, automatically turned on when right rear door is opened; rear traffic signal light; emergency lamp on extension cord; full-size balloon tires; cowl lights and two-beam nickel-plated acorn headlights, controlled from the steering wheel.

JAPAN FAVORABLE TO COOLIDGE PLAN TO REDUCE NAVIES

Will Do Everything It Can to Aid the Work, Says Premier Wakatsuki.

OWN NAVY TOO SMALL FOR OFFENSE, HE ADDS

Ratio of 5-5-3 Is No Longer Applicable to Small Ships, His View.

Tokyo, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The Japanese government is strongly in favor of President Coolidge's move to reduce the naval armaments of world powers and will do everything in its power to aid in the work.

Premier Wakatsuki made this statement in an exclusive interview given to an Associated Press representative, in which he frankly and informally discussed Japan's position in regard to President Coolidge's proposal for a conference of world powers to bring about a reduction of naval armaments.

The Japanese cabinet, the premier said, was not hesitating in the slightest about accepting the invitation of President Coolidge to participate in the conference, but was simply studying the American memorandum for the purpose of forwarding to Washington a properly worded reply. This, he intimated, would be cabled within a few days.

"Our attitude in this matter of disarmament is not ambiguous nor is it cloaked in diplomatic technicalities," continued Premier Wakatsuki. "The day of closet diplomacy and secret treaties is past and Japan is not one of the last nations to discard antiquated methods of dealing with international agreements. As you Americans say, our cards are on the table. We are ready to discuss disarmament in any fair and equitable conference at any place in the world.

Admires Coolidge's Sincerity.

"I must express my admiration of President Coolidge's sincerity in proposing a new five-power conference. His human mind is one that Japanese thoroughly can understand. He obviously is not thinking of America particularly when he proposes a reduction of auxiliary naval strength. It is well known that America, the richest country in the world, can build ten times the number of auxiliaries that it is possible for any other nation to construct. Therefore, the President of the United States must be acting in the cause of humanity.

"Japan is not now nor has it been arming for war with any other country in the world," the premier said earnestly. "The figures regarding the strength of her army and navy are open to anyone to observe. Considering our geographical position, it is apparent even to the most casual naval expert that both our army and navy are at an irreducible minimum; that is to say, a minimum when compared with the strength of other nations.

"There is no new building program for our navy. The present budget actually calls for a program to rebuild those which have become useless or which may become so at certain periods. The conclusion must be reached by any fair-minded and right-thinking person that this country is not one to which an accusing finger in regard to naval reduction should be pointed.

Navy Not for Offense.

"Our navy is not one for offense. It is barely of strength to defend Japan in event of attack. With it we could not possibly go out and wage war against another nation. The naval figures speak for themselves."

Discussing Japan's relations with the United States, Premier Wakatsuki said:

"While there has been much loose talk about America and Japan being potential enemies, it is mostly the chatter of ignorant absurdity. Never was there a time in the history of the relations of Japan and America when the countries were closer together both commercially and politically. We have had divergence of opinion regarding immigration and other matters, but that does not make us enemies, nor forecast a future war between us.

"As the late Premier Kato told the Associated Press in his last interview, just before his death, America is Japan's best customer, and one does not fight one's best customer. We depend upon America for the greater portion of our commerce. And America is learning that Japan is not only her follower and imitator in things both political and social, but is actually her friend.

"We may quarrel about various things now and then, but husbands and wives do not always agree, although they may have the greatest underlying affection for each other.

Doubts 5-5-3 Ratio.

"Therefore, we view President Coolidge's armament proposal with approval, and hope that it will result in good for humanity. We shall insist upon the equity and fairness of any conference in which we participate, but we believe that these will be forthcoming in the present circumstances.

"It seems wrong that America will insist upon a five-five-three ratio for auxiliaries, and I personally believe that President Coolidge mentioned this in his memorandum simply to suggest a basis from which the conference should work.

"Times and conditions have changed greatly since the Washington conference when the five-five-three ratio was inaugurated (for capital ships). Now this ratio, it may be, cannot be continued in regard to auxiliaries. But, of course, that is a matter for naval experts of the proposed conference to determine.

"Japan, naturally, knows the proportion that is essential for her national security, and there is no reason why America and the other powers will not recognize existing facts.

"There are numerous difficulties facing the proposed naval parley—and right now some of them seem insurmountable—but Japan does not intend to become one of these difficulties.

"Our great problem in this country is economical, and every effort of my government has been to raise the standard of living and to reduce taxes. If we can reduce the navy further without endangering our national defense, it will mean a reduction of taxes that will be welcomed by our people.

"So we approve President Coolidge's proposal, and will do everything possible to aid America in her humane intentions."

NAVY ARMS PARLEY ACCEPTED AS ENDED

sion meets and that there would be opportunity for either France or Italy to execute a change of front and adopt the American proposal at any time they saw fit. As President Coolidge foresees failure on the part of this league commission to achieve any results, the opportune moment for giving fresh consideration to the American plan may come with the anticipated collapse of the preparatory commission's program, it is hinted.

But it is conceded that this is a forlorn hope, so far as the President's proposal is concerned. If the League of Nations can not effectuate an agreement on disarmament, the league members are not going to admit that a non-member nation like the United States must be called in to achieve one of the purposes for which the league is presumed to have been organized.

There are two questions uppermost in the minds of diplomats as a result of the unexpected developments which have featured the disarmament proposal. The first concerns the reason or reasons which prompted France to act so hastily. The second pertains to the purpose which President Coolidge had in mind when he invited the four powers to participate in the conference, knowing that both France and Italy would not be inclined to look favorably upon the proposal.

France's Action Interpreted.

According to one version, the French government made special note of the fact that no preliminary inquiry was made by the government of the United States as to whether France would welcome the proposal. This departure from the usual diplomatic procedure appears to have been interpreted by French statesmen as a move to force France's hand by not permitting her courteously and privately to request the United States to withhold the invitation for the present. In other words, France was given the choice of accepting the proposal or assuming a measure of responsibility for its rejection.

Under the circumstances, it is pointed out, the public announcement of the proposal and publication of the text of America's identic invitation to the Washington treaty powers assumed the form of a move on the international chess board so far as France was concerned. The French reply is understood to have been sent without delay because the statesmen of France believed it important to nip the plan in the bud before acceptance by Great Britain and Japan gave further impetus to disarmament hopes and illusions.

Speculate on Coolidge's Reason.

President Coolidge's reason for making the proposal to the powers at this time is a matter of much speculation, especially by those who have assumed all along that both Mr. Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg had every reason to believe that it would be rejected. The fact that Mr. Kellogg did not sound out the powers in advance is taken in some quarters as evidence that he was under no illusion as to how it would be received in Paris. On the other hand it is admitted that governments do not usually make important moves of this character without a reason. Because of this, subsequent developments will be watched by diplomats with the keenest interest.

Possibility of a three-power naval disarmament conference between the United States, Great Britain and Japan is not taken seriously, although discussion of this might be of value, it is explained, in making the rejection of the American plan by France and Italy appear less brusque. Obviously, France and Italy would each be presented with a naval bonus of great value if Great Britain entered into an agreement with other nations to reduce and restrict her naval armaments. No one seriously believes that Great Britain would agree further to limit naval armaments without corresponding agreement on the part of France. But the British, it is suggested, might not be averse to discussing a three-power disarmament program, provided such discussion could be turned to her political advantage at the expense of France and provided, further, that nothing definite in the way of actual reductions or limitations was brought about.

The Coolidge proposal will, however, have the advantage of placing America squarely on record as favoring disarmament. If the Geneva preparatory conference breaks up without achieving results, it will be difficult, in the light of the Coolidge proposal, to shift any of the blame on the United States.

Cuban Envoy Praises Work of U. S. in South

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The United States was pictured as a benefactor of the Latin-American races by Dr. Don Orestes Ferrara, Ambassador plenipotentiary of Cuba, at a luncheon of the Pan-American society today. Virtually all the development of Cuba is due to American influence, he said.

Queensland Flood Toll Is 27.

Sydney, N. S. W., Feb. 16 (By A. P.). The known death toll in the Queensland flood, caused by a disastrous cyclone which swept the Cairns district, near Brisbane, now amounts to 27. The property damage is estimated at nearly $10,000,000. Vast areas of sugar cane were damaged. Cairns, Innesfail and other towns are still isolated.

ROME WILL REJECT NAVAL ARMS PLAN; BACKS PARIS STAND

Italy's Reply Is Ready to Be Presented; Peril to Her Defense Is Seen.

LEAGUE POWER UPHELD; IS THE VIEW AT GENEVA

U. S. Neglects to Give Enough Importance to Europe's Relations, It Is Said.

Rome, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Italy's refusal to accept President Coolidge's proposal for a conference on supplementary naval disarmament is clearly foreshadowed in a semiofficial communique issued tonight. In this Italy is taking the same path followed by France and for practically the same reason—self-protection.

The reply itself, dealing directly with the American memorandum, has not yet been made public, but this is a matter probably of merely hours.

The attitude of the Italian government is explained in authoritative quarters in Rome as having been taken on the ground that Italy could not accept any limitation of her small ships, which are absolutely necessary for her own defense, in view of her economic position and the length of her coast line and the need to protect her traffic and also communications with her colonies.

Any other attitude, it is declared, would have been a renunciation of what is one of the chief points in the fascist program, readiness for any event, not for aggression, but for defense, and in order that Italy shall be accorded due respect.

Strengthened by French View.

This position is considered to have been strengthened by the refusal of France to accept the Coolidge proposal, for, however reluctant Italy may be to accept limitation of her fleet, she would be doubly so if France's navy were not similarly limited at the same time.

The Italian note is being put into final shape; it may be delivered tomorrow or at the latest Friday.

Commenting on the action of the government, the Tribuna says:

"Unlike the United States, Italy can not take a view of the question as it relates to the broad ocean. Entirely concerned with the Mediterranean and the great colonial interests connected with it, we must consider the problem from the more limited and more realistic Mediterranean viewpoint."

French Press Upholds Rejection.

Paris, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—"The French government's friendly and courteous reply, which at the same time is both firm and dignified, exactly reflects the sentiments of the nation," said Excelsior today.

The paper thus summed up the views of all the newspapers on the French answer to President Coolidge's proposal for limitation of naval armaments.

The Figaro said: "It is impossible to admit that our country, deprived of the guarantee pact which was to assure the peace of Europe, should not have the right to provide itself for its own security. The government, indeed, does not say that, but the entire French public thinks it."

L'Oeuvre, organ of a section of the radical party, asks if the United States, "sure of being beaten," will withdraw its delegates from the preliminary disarmament commission at Geneva.

"Nothing could show better," it says, "that they (the United States) are less anxious for general disarmament and peace than to assure to themselves at small cost supremacy on the seas."

Victory for League Power.

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Insistence upon maintaining intact the power and authority of the League of Nations, with scrupulous regard for the wishes of all the member states, both great and small, is the interpretation in league circles of France's reply to Washington in which she refuses to consider participation in a new naval conference limited to the five big naval powers.

Officials here, while favoring a five-power pact, believe that the United States, with its position of independence and isolation between two oceans, neglects to give sufficient importance to the relations either of mere friendship or open alliance existing between numerous countries in Europe, or to the difficulty one nation finds in adopting action on naval armaments without taking into consideration the desires of smaller countries, who are also interested in smaller warcraft such as submarines and destroyers.

France's reply is believed to leave the fate of the American proposal to the preparatory disarmament commission, where the American delegates will have an opportunity to argue the practicability of a conference of the big powers as the first concrete step toward general reduction of armaments.

The French memorandum, following Europe's refusal to accept the American world court reservations, is also regarded in league circles as another manifestation of Europe's belief that the United States must work through the league as a whole and not through its individual members, if she desires to cooperate effectively in Europe.

PROTEST FROM CHINA IS FILED AT GENEVA

moved up a column of troops from Kukien province and combined it with other nationalist soldiers which they found either impossible or undesirable for use in defending their capital, Hankow, against a northern advance now in prospect near there.

All indications indicate the forces of Marshal Sun still greatly outnumber the foe, but demoralization apparently has set in among his troops.

The bulk of the remaining Sun Chuan-Fang army apparently has withdrawn to the west of Hangchow for a last stand.

Foreign agents of the Shanghai municipality stationed at Hangchow for military observation were unable to communicate with Shanghai tonight. The Shanghai-Hangchow railroad has suspended passenger service due, it was understood, to the concentration of rolling stock at Hangchow in case Marshal Sun's troops find it necessary to fall back further in the direction of Shanghai.

The defeat of Sun revitalizes the question of the defense of the Shanghai international settlement in the event of his complete collapse and a Cantonese invasion. At present there are about 4,000 British troops in Shanghai, including the Punjabi units, and 2,500 sailors aboard ships in the harbor.

Available landing parties from American ships total 1,100 men. The question also is raised whether two brigades of troops now en route from England will be halted at Hong Kong, as Austen Chamberlain, British foreign affairs secretary, assured the house of commons would be done if the British-Cantonese agreement were signed and there were no further emergencies. The British-Cantonese agreement has not been signed and negotiations are understood to be still pending at Hankow.

Announcement today by spokesmen for Marshal Sun that he would decline the proposal of American Secretary of State Kellogg to make Shanghai a neutral zone disposes of one possible method of protecting the international city. The Cantonese, who also were asked by Secretary Kellogg to consider his suggestion, previously had indicated their disapproval of it.

London, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Feeling flared up spectacularly in the house of commons this afternoon over the Chinese situation. The liveliest demonstration was led by the laborites, who were concerned over Postmaster General Thomson's Croyden speech last night, in which he declared that a firing squad would be the answer to any one seeking to prevent the assembling of troops in case of war with China.

In his speech the postmaster had said with reference to alleged utterances of certain socialist leaders that they would do their best to prevent the assembling of British troops for service in China.

"If they do that, they will end up, and very properly, too, against a wall with a firing party in front of them. It is just as well that they should know that right from the start."

When the postmaster arose to answer a question in the house today, booing and derisive shouts marked the outburst, and from the labor backbenchers were cries of "Shoot him also; put him up against the wall."

So great was the tumult that the government minister could not make himself heard and was forced to resume his seat.

The first uproar came just after Sir Austen Chamberlain had diplomatically said there was no news of the Hankow negotiations. The Scottish contingent of laborites began to enliven things, and held the lead in the obstructive measures until the end. They were the last to ease off and eventually make for the tea rooms, along with everybody else.

U. S. NEED OF MONEY OFFERED TO EXPLAIN 2 FORD TAX AUDITS

"Superficial" System Used in 1919 to Speed Collections, Witness Says.

MELLON'S HAND SHOWN IN REOPENING CASE

New York Banker Says Secretary Had Asked Him to Testify for Government.

Tax returns of former minority stockholders of the Ford Motor Co., were given a "superficial" audit and accepted on that basis, without a thorough field audit because the government was so short of cash at the time it could not wait the several months required thoroughly to audit large tax returns.

That was the explanation of the government's procedure in first closing and, five years later, reopening the question of taxes paid by the stockholders on the sale of their 9,170 shares of stock to Henry Ford in 1919.

The explanation was advanced by Wilbur B. Swafford, chief of the income tax audit division, who was a government witness at the hearings yesterday before the board of tax appeals in the $30,000,000 tax suit. The "superficial audit" system had been ordered in 1919 for all tax returns of more than $100,000 to speed up collection of needed money, he said. Under the system, it was disclosed, tax payers were assessed whatever additional amount the superficial audit indicated they owed and the accounts were more carefully audited later. Where it was found a taxpayer had paid too much the government kept the full amount until the question finally was ironed out months later.

Field Audit Not Made.

Mr. Swafford explained that the returns of the Ford minority stockholders had been closed in this manner and had not been finally disposed of by a field audit.

Introduction of copies of returns marked to indicate they had been superficially audited brought protests from John W. Davies, Joseph E. Davies and Arthur J. Lacy, of counsel for the stockholders, who showed other stamp marks which they said indicated the returns had been subjected to a thorough field audit. Secretary Mellon, it was developed, abolished the superficial audit system two months after he was in office.

Paul F. Meyers, formerly in the Treasury and now engaged in private practice in Washington, and Albert Lewis, still employed in the Treasury, also were put on the stand by the government to show there was nothing improper in the reopening of the case.

Mellon's Name Introduced.

For the first time in the five weeks the hearings have continued, testimony was given yesterday showing Secretary Mellon had a personal hand in the reopening of the case. This has been charged repeatedly by Senator Couzens, of Michigan, one of the former stockholders from whom the government is trying to collect approximately $10,000,000 in additional taxes. The senator has declared the additional assessment was levied by the internal revenue bureau to punish him for his attacks on the Treasury.

Joseph A. Bower, vice president of the New York Trust Co., and formerly vice president of the Detroit Trust Co., appearing as a government witness, declared that he wished to make it clear that he appeared under force of a subpena and not as a voluntary witness. Secretary Mellon, Mr. Bower said, had asked him to testify as a government witness and he had refused because counsel for the stockholders already had approached him and asked him to appear for a fee and had shown him much of their confidential documents and information and he felt he could not properly appear after that as a government witness.

Small Loans on Ford Stock.

Mr. Bower was questioned only briefly by Alexander W. Gregg, chief of government counsel, and declared that because of a limitation on the sale of Ford stock in the by-laws of the only small loans on small amounts of company he would be willing to make stock.

Henry G. S. Noble, New York investment banker, formerly president of the New York Stock Exchange, also was asked about the sale limitation in the company by-laws and explained that the limitation prevented listing of the stock on the New York exchange.

John E. Oldham, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., a member of the firm of Merrill, Oldham & Co., Inc., added the weight of his judgment to that of other government witnesses who have testified that the $9,500 Talbot valuation, on the basis of which the stockholders measured their profits and paid taxes, was entirely too high.

Answering a long hypothetical question put by government counsel, in which he was asked to assume that all of the factors which made the Ford company stock valuable were established facts, Mr. Oldham placed the value of the stock at $5,500 a share. This was $2,250 a share higher than the highest value put on the stock the day before by government witnesses.

Auto Industry New in 1919.

The burden of Mr. Oldham's testimony was that the present extraordinary development of the Ford company could not have been fairly and accurately forecast in 1919. The automobile industry then was "a new industry" in which there was an element of danger, that the Ford was only one car among many, and the question of management had a great deal to do with the value of the stock, he said.

The market value of stocks and securities follow and do not anticipate earnings and dividends, he declared, and cited the history of the General Motors and a score of other companies, which was set forth in numerous charts he exhibited and explained. The hearings will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

Supreme Court Gets Woman Docket Clerk

The first woman docket clerk of the District Supreme court made her appearance yesterday when Miss Maud A. Rogers, of Lewinaville, Va., took up her duties at the equity docket counter to succeed William W. Mackall, resigned.

Heretofore Miss Rogers has been detailed to the financial division of the clerk's office. Prior to her employment in the clerk's office she was secretary to Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy. M. Lee Ashford, coworker of Mackall, will remain at the equity docket counter.

Commission to Inspect Park.

In line with its plan to beautify Meridian Hill park, members of the commission of fine arts will make an inspection trip there today, to see what work has been done and plan further development such as tree planting and gardens.

TROUBLE-?

A big, noisy factory with industry seethed, but the man at its head was visibly peeved, and the hard-working fireman was all in a stew, his steam pressure was falling, oh, what could he do? The hand on the pressure gauge downward rode, why couldn't the boilers carry the load? The President came down and in words very plain, said that if ever it happened again, he'd fire the fireman—his anger was great. Then up spoke a voice through the factory gate—"Don't blame your fireman, his problem is old. Your trouble is simply inferior coal. I heard what you said and there's one thing I know. Give GRIFFITH a trial and your trouble will go." The President did, and now it is true that his boilers "pop off" every moment or two.

DOUGHNUTS
your sons will fondly remember

I DON'T know why almost every man recalls his mother's cooking by the doughnuts she used to make—but he does.

Doughnuts seem to be one sure way to the heart of every boy from six to sixty.

Here are three of my favorite recipes for doughnuts about which your sons will tell their sons with fond recollection. Deep fried in Crisco they are rich, yet digestible—never a bit greasy. And, remember, at the proper frying temperature Crisco fries without smoke or unpleasant odor—without waste, too; for you can use the same Crisco for frying over and over again.

Doughnuts

½ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons Crisco
1 egg
½ cup milk
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon clove
⅛ teaspoon mace
½ teaspoon salt

Cream sugar and Crisco together. Add well beaten egg and milk and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, cinnamon, clove, mace and salt. Add to the first mixture and mix thoroughly. Turn out on slightly floured board and roll to ½ inch thickness. Cut with a doughnut cutter and fry in deep hot Crisco (340 to 375 degrees F.) until a delicate brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar before serving.

This recipe makes 24 doughnuts.

Raised Doughnuts

⅔ cup sugar
3 tablespoons Crisco
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup scalded milk
1 yeast cake
2 tablespoons lukewarm water
5 cups flour
2 eggs
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Add sugar, Crisco and salt to the scalded milk. When lukewarm add the yeast cake mixed with warm water. Add enough flour to make a sponge (about 2 cups). Set in a warm place to rise. When light add well beaten eggs, nutmeg and enough flour to make a soft dough. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Knead until free from large air bubbles.

Roll out on a slightly floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut with a doughnut cutter, cover and set in a warm place to rise again until double in bulk. Put them top side down in the deep hot Crisco (340 to 375 degrees F.). Fry on one side, turn and fry on the other side. When a delicate brown remove from fat and drain on unglazed paper. Just before serving sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

This recipe makes 30 doughnuts.

Jelly Doughnuts

Follow recipe for Raised Doughnuts. After the second rising, roll out on a slightly floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut with a cooky cutter. Put one teaspoon currant jelly in the center of one round, moisten edges with water and place another round on top. Press edges lightly together. Cover and set in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. Fry in the same way as Raised Doughnuts.

This recipe makes 24 doughnuts.

SHIPSTEAD AS NATION BUILDER.

It was in 1821 that Central America cut loose from the yoke of Spain. For the past 106 years there have existed in that territory bounded on the north by Mexico and on the south by Panama, five free, separate and independent republics. It was not long after the Caesarean operation which brought about the birth of Guatemala, Honduras, Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, that the quarrelsome youngsters began to talk about organizing themselves into a union, or confederation. They actually got together in a happy family, and for a year or two the world was laboring under the delusion that there was such a country as the "United States of Central America." But the union did not last long; by 1830 there was not a vestige of confederation left. About twelve years later another attempt was inaugurated to unite the republics into a "union one and indissoluble." The attempt proved abortive, as they were unable to decide among themselves which of their statesmen should boss the job of running the combination.

Then for about 50 years, or until 1894, the juvenile republics enjoyed themselves in separate households, attracting little attention from the outside world except when they staged a revolution, which, by the way, was often enough to keep the various "armies" in condition. In 1894 there was actually formed a union. For a short time the United States believed that it had a healthy republic on the edge of the Caribbean sea as a neighbor. But like its several predecessors this union expired of an attack of infantile political paralysis.

Once more, in 1921, seven years ago, on the anniversary of the departure of the representatives of the Spanish crown from the soil, another "United States of Central America" appeared in the political offing. Like all its predecessors, this latest creation of a nation was not properly designed. It fell apart and is still in five pieces, separate and distinct from each other.

However, it must be noted that all these attempts at creating a strong nation out of less than half a dozen weak republics have been made by those republics themselves. No architect from abroad has ever been called upon to help the struggling people, nor has a great nation builder like Mussolini, Lord Clive, Bolivar, Napoleon or Washington ever offered aid and encouragement.

But a new day has dawned for these unfortunate peoples. A state builder with superlative qualifications has appeared, ready and willing to furnish the cement which will unite the five distracted republics in bonds that will be proof against time and fate. He is Henrik Shipstead, our own Henrik. His resolution was introduced last Tuesday. It authorizes the President to invite the five republics to send plenipotentiaries to Washington "to a conference to consider plans for a confederation of Central America."

No one knows what these "plans" are, but they will be unfolded in due time by their only begetter. All that the envoys will have to do is to sign on the dotted line.

It is fortunate that the Senate contains such a rich variety of genius. The statesmen there assembled find that the problems of the United States afford too narrow scope for their constructive talents. The whole boundless universe is not too large for their operations. Senator Shipstead deems it only the idle occupation of a summer's day to compose the differences of Central America. One of these days, when he feels really energetic, he may settle the Chinese squabble, or lay out a plan for perpetual abolition of war.

WAS HE RIGHT?

Prof. Henry Steenbock, of the University of Wisconsin, three years ago discovered that compounds of plant and animal tissues are susceptible to the ultraviolet ray and may be made to develop calcium through the working of this ray. In the building of bone and tissue of the body, calcium or lime is an essential. Rickets, one of the scourges of babyhood, and possibly some of the anaemia of later life, is caused by a deficiency of this essential. Prof. Steenbock's discovery makes it possible to put this so-called fourth vitamin into ordinary food in quantities sufficient to prevent rickets and other diseases.

The discovery is of great commercial value, so much so that it led to a purchase offer said to involve some $2,000,000 by the manufacturer of a proprietary cereal food. To the scientist, however, the corporation represented selfish, alien hands, so rather than have his discovery exploited commercially he has given the rights to the University of Wisconsin in an endeavor to advance the well-being of humanity.

A divided public reaction may be expected to follow. There can be no question whatsoever regarding the ethics of the gift, but the economic side is another matter. Prof. Steenbock, like other teachers, is not a wealthy man. He has made a discovery, however, which demonstrates his ability. Two million dollars would have enabled him to drop his teaching, construct a well-equipped, modern laboratory, and devote the rest of his life to further research in his chosen field. At the same time the newly discovered product could have been given wide distribution. Who can say what Prof. Steenbock might have accomplished working in his own laboratory unharassed by the necessity of earning his living?

THE DISARMAMENT QUESTION.

France declines to negotiate with the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Italy for the further limitation of naval armaments. The reasons given by Minister Briand for declining President Coolidge's proposal will doubtless be regarded in France as both clever and convincing, but they do not state the whole case. If M. Briand had bluntly stated that France's sea strength was below the point of national safety and that she proposed to increase naval armament up to the safety point, his reply would have had a better effect in the United States.

M. Briand is unquestionably in earnest when he insists that the disarmament question should be dealt with by the league of nations, and in its totality, rather than by groups of nations considering separate elements of national defense. France and her allies dominate the league of nations on the negative side; that is, the league can do nothing without their consent. If disarmament as a whole can be kept within the jurisdiction of the league, France can always exercise a veto over any proposal, whether it touches armies, navies or air forces.

The sage foreign minister of France must have smiled to himself when he penned the observation that the league of nations is founded upon the principle of the equality of nations, thus making it necessary to consider the interests of all the navies in dealing with minor vessels. No one knows better than M. Briand that the league of nations recognizes two classes of nations, one class consisting of heavily armed great powers and the other minor countries with small armies and less navies. The great powers direct the league and take pains to prevent any recognition of the principle of equality. Small nations are not permitted to fight, as witness Greece, Bulgaria, Lithuania, et al., but great powers members of the inner ring of the league can do as they please, as witness Britain in China, France in Syria and Morocco, and Italy at Corfu.

But M. Briand may not have felt at liberty to declare that France intends to build more submarines to offset Britain's cruiser building, in order to make sure that French communications with Morocco and Algeria should never be cut off. French relations with Italy, moreover, are not such as to make it judicious to disclose France's naval program. Therefore M. Briand seized upon the explanation that Mr. Coolidge's proposal would seriously interfere with the exertions of the league of nations and would disregard the principle of the equality of nations upon which the league is based.

Inasmuch as the majority of Americans know that the league denies the equality of nations and is now engaged in a humbug conference pretending to seek for disarmament while actually blocking it, no harm is done by M. Briand's substitution of a specious for the real reason for France's refusal to enter a conference that might compel the nations to show their hands. Americans know that France must have greater naval strength or live in insecurity. The Mediterranean is no longer the Mare Nostrum of either France or Italy.

Italy's reply to Mr. Coolidge's proposal will have the same meaning as M. Briand's note, whatever the superficial excuse may be for declining to enter the conference. Italy must increase her naval strength if she is to be safely independent. Neither France nor Italy can build battleships to advantage, but they can defend themselves with submarines and air forces. They have a right to develop either form of defense to the extent required by the national interest and safety. Italy has the same veto power in the league of nations that is possessed by France. Therefore, so long as the league of nations alone is in charge of disarmament inquiries, both nations are safe, for there will be no limitation of armaments.

Will Great Britain and Japan join the United States in a tripartite conference for limitation of minor ships? There is no hope of accomplishing anything by such a conference, in view of the attitude of Italy and France. Britain will not agree to a limitation upon cruisers while France and Italy are free from any limitation upon submarines. Japan has already declared that her naval strength is not greater than her defense necessities.

Despite the apparent futility of Mr. Coolidge's proposal, it is of value in two particulars. First, it advertises the fact that the United States is in earnest when it proposes limitation of armaments; and second, it helps to bring out the actual situation in Europe. Rightly interpreted, the French and Italian replies disclose that the league of nations is being used, not for disarmament but to prevent disarmament, and that France and Italy intend to increase their naval strength in the Mediterranean. They are in duty bound to do so, and it is none of America's business.

The United States will have delegates to the fake conference at Geneva, beginning on March 21, and there is no reason for assuming that this government will be kept in ignorance as to the true situation in Europe.

THOSE TREE MUTILATORS.

Some of the citizens' associations of the District have joined in a demand for punishment of the vandals who mutilated so many of the trees along the routes of the double-deck buses. It might be well for these public-spirited citizens to proceed further and demand a thorough investigation as to the part played by the employers of the men guilty of the vandalism. To say that these employes acted upon their own initiative is absurd.

Two years ago, when the New York corporation was negotiating with the owners of the bus franchise, representatives of the New York people approached Commissioner Rudolph with a request that he authorize the trimming of the trees along the route of the buses' operations. At that time Sixteenth street was the only thoroughfare contemplated to be used by the corporation. Mr. Rudolph declined to sanction any interference with the shade of the street. Later an appeal was made to Superintendent Lanham for his support. The corporation representatives assured the superintendent that they had no desire to injure the trees, and that while they were willing to pay any expense attached to the desired trimming operations they were also willing that the work should be done under the direction of the superintendent. Mr. Lanham would not agree upon any cutting operations except such as might improve the symmetry of the shade.

Neither at that time nor at any subsequent period was anything said which indicated that the corporation thought of "trimming" the trees which line Thirteenth street, which is recognized as the most artistically shaded thoroughfare in this city of beautiful shade trees.

The men who hacked and mutilated those trees were undoubtedly acting under instructions. Public property has been destroyed for private gain by a gang of "public-be-damned" vandals. The District government is in duty bound to prosecute the instigators as well as the perpetrators of this outrage.

THE M'FADDEN BANKING BILL.

After one of the longest and most stubborn fights ever recorded in Congress, the McFadden banking bill has been passed and forwarded to the President. The Senate had no difficulty in passing the bill on its merits, when the filibustering methods adopted for other purposes were out of the way.

The McFadden bill grants perpetual charters to the Federal Reserve banks, thus establishing the system beyond the accidents of politics. It authorizes the extension of branch banking under certain fair conditions. It completes the legislation necessary to give the United States a sound fiscal system adapted to modern needs.

The enactment of this bill is a notable triumph for the chairman of the House committee on banking and currency, Hon. Louis T. McFadden, of Pennsylvania. With remarkable tenacity and ability, in spite of discouragements of all kinds, Mr. McFadden piloted this measure through Congress, supported by the patriotic members of all parties. The law that bears his name is constructive statesmanship of the most valuable character.

"WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOR."

Just how the United States authorities are to get out of the dilemma resulting from the seizure of a few thousand bottles of champagne, without laying themselves open to the charge of unfair discrimination, is a problem which Gen. Andrews is called upon to solve.

The Ambridge is a vessel owned by the Shipping Board, chartered to the American Diamond Line. The Ambridge had just obtained her clearance papers from the collector of the port of New York and was laying alongside her dock in Hoboken, prior to sailing for Philadelphia, when one of the snoopers of the prohibition unit smelled a rat in the coal bunkers, which turned out to be 4,200 bottles of champagne. That it is an excellent variety of that joyous liquid is evident from the fact that it is officially reported to be valued at $50,000, or around $12 per bottle.

Under the law the vessel in which the contraband was hidden is liable to seizure and sale. But the Ambridge is already owned by the United States, and the government can not seize itself. Moreover, nothing is to be gained by selling the ship. The Shipping Board is willing enough to sell the craft, but thus far has received no satisfactory offers. Still, if this particular ship is not treated as any privately owned vessel would be treated under similar circumstances, Representative LaGuardia, or Tom Blanton, or some other guardian of the Constitution will have an opportunity to inflict more oratory on the public through the Congressional Record because of the failure of the Department of Justice to administer the law with the utmost impartiality.

What is Gen. Andrews to do? Will he demand that the Shipping Board be fined, the proceeds to be turned over to the prohibition unit, with one-half to the informer? Or will he waive all demands for penalties, on the ground that Uncle Sam is the offender? And what will become of the champagne? It would be a shame to destroy this medicine, which is badly needed at all hospitals. Since it belongs to the United States, why not have it distributed to Walter Reed and other hospitals where disabled veterans are often in need of medicinal stimulants?

MOTOR CAR EXPANSION.

In 1926 the General Motors Corporation produced and sold at retail nearly 1,216,000 cars, exceeding the previous year's record by 388,000. Sales, excluding all intercompany items, reached the astonishing total of more than $1,050,000,000. The statistics unquestionably refute much of the calamity howling regarding the motor industry which has been prevalent for some months.

Almost coincident with the publication of the General Motors statement, a former sales manager for the Ford Motor Co., testifying in the Ford stock tax hearing, made the statement that there never will be a saturation point for automobiles, and that the market is just beginning to open up. He foresees more than 30,000,000 machines in operation in the United States by 1935, one for each family, together with an intensive development of the European, Asiatic and South American fields. The little manufacturers will consolidate rather than be eliminated by expansion, and it is safe to predict that in the next five years the automobile business will expand more than it has over the last five years.

In view of past experience such consolidation and expansion would not be a bad thing for the public. The large motor corporation can make a good motor car and sell it at a small profit. Against this, however, stands the fact that the American public likes distinctiveness, difficult to obtain in large scale production which turns out cars as alike as two peas in a pod. The desire for an automobile different from the one owned by one's neighbor has been of advantage to the small manufacturer. By capitalizing it, he has been able in some cases to sell a product inferior to that made by the large corporation.

The spirit of optimism has returned to the automobile manufacturer. He is producing a more beautiful, a finer and a less expensive product, which the American public is purchasing in large quantities. In addition he has discovered virgin sales territories abroad, ready for the magic touch of exploitation. It is quite probable that 1297 will be a greater record breaker than 1926.

There were no casualties in either chamber. So history repeats itself. Yet it has a way of varying a little with the years. In 1841, when the question of veracity rose in dramatic fashion between Representatives Wise, of Virginia, and Stanley, of North Carolina, these hot-blooded Southern gentlemen were allowed to fight it out on the floor, to the great delight and applause of their colleagues. Now there is always a sergeant-at-arms or some peacemaker around to interfere. Congress is not what it used to be when the House was less tamed and before the Senate became one of the most comfortable and exclusive "clubs" in the world.

How Congress Buys Votes

By A FORMER SENATOR

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congressional ethics regarding the general subject of political expenditures graphically illustrate the theory of that school of philosophy which contends that morality is wholly conventional—a state of mind rather than a code of fundamental precepts governing human conduct.

This legislative attitude is neither new nor novel. It is old as democracy, and perhaps older. But it is aptly illustrated by the activities of the Sixty-ninth Congress, whose moral sense has been rudely jolted by the misconduct of senatorial aspirants for primary nominations in Pennsylvania and Illinois. In Pennsylvania Senator Pepper and his friends expended nearly $2,000,000; Senator-elect Vare and his friends nearly $1,000,000 and Gov. Pinchot nearly $200,000 upon the State electorate in contesting for the prize, and Mr. Vare won. Mr. Frank L. Smith, Republican, and Mr. George Brennan, Democrat, spent relatively less in Illinois. Representing different party organizations, both were nominated, but Smith won in the subsequent election. Disclosure of these facts gave the Senate what threatens to be a permanent shock. It has, nevertheless, concentrated its wrath upon the two winners, Gov. Pinchot, whose disbursements exceeded those of Senator Newberry, of Michigan, in 1918, and whon ran with the hares at the primaries, has been hunting with the hounds since his defeat, while the indiscretions of Pepper and Brennan are rapidly passing into oblivion.

Messrs. Vare and Smith are not alone in the vote-getting business. Congress is an ancient and formidable competitor, possessed of an immense advantage. Vares and Smiths must needs spend their own money and that of their friends in promoting their political fortunes, but Congress draws freely upon the vast reservoir of the public revenues and upon national credit lying beyond it. They debauch the electorate with their own money; Congresses and the legislatures do it by statute, with the public funds, hence it is lawful per se. No risks are taken, and therefore no aftermath of embarrassment. What is our pension and bonus legislation but the exchange of public money for soldiers' votes?

What are our rivers and harbors bills, public building bills and all others of the pork variety, but "votive" tributes to compact minorities organized to raid the Treasury? And last, but not least, what is the pending Haugen-McNary bill, ostensibly for farm relief, but a surrender of the national legislature to the compact forces of an agrarian minority strenuously demanding an initial appropriation of $250,000,000 as an alternative to its political displeasure? The demand failed last year. It now renews its assault with an apparent certainty of success because its forces are augmented by a compact with the cotton planter and tobacco grower, with whom the coveted spoils are to be shared.

Here is a trinity of power before which many senators heretofore in opposition are obsequiously kotowing. Their previous objections to the bill were both sincere and genuine. They were based upon irrefutable principles. They are as irrefutable now as they were last spring, yet they are silenced in large degree by the coalition of wheat, cotton and tobacco.

The scheme is as fantastic as Plato's Ideal Republic. It defies economic law and all human experience. Even if it were capable of practical administration and within constitutional warrants of power, it would carry the government far afield from its legitimate functions. But it is a vote-getter, and as such easily commands the majority of the legislative branch of the government, which instinctively appeals for its conduct to many like precedents of its own establishment.

Between the candidate who uses his own fortune to secure political advancement and the legislative majorities devoting the public moneys to the same purpose, there is no difference in principle or in morals, unless it be that the latter is the more reprehensible.

C. S. THOMAS

LOOK AT THEIR TEETH.

One of the prominent Democrats mentioned for first place on the ticket, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, will undoubtedly be ruled out if the age question is considered by the next Democratic national convention, comments the Hartford Courant. If nominated and elected next year, he would be within about three months of 70 years old when inaugurated in 1929 and a reelection would make him close to 74 at the beginning of his second term, to say nothing of the fact that he would be almost 78 on his retirement. Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, alert mentally and vigorous physically at 65, would be 67 at inauguration in 1929 and 75 at the end of his second term in 1937. Former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, born October 31, 1863, will be 65 by March 4, 1929, and 73 by March 4, 1937.

As far as age goes, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, and Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, are mere boys compared with the veterans mentioned, the former having been born in 1876 and the latter in 1873. Either executive could have eight years in the White House without really being in the old-age class at the end of that period.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Congress and the District.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a taxpayer I am a little anxious to know what Congress will do in the future in paying its part of the expenses of the District. It is acquiring large allotments of valuable real estate, which have in the past paid their part in the way of taxes. The sessions of Congress add largely to the District expenditures, yet of late years there has been a growing disposition on the part of the members to shift more and more of the burden upon the individual taxpayer. The accumulation for government use of vast tracts of valuable tax-paying real estate makes it incumbent on Congress to pay a much larger share of the District expenses than is now done.

A TAXPAYER.

Right and Wrong.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The hiss of scorn should be directed against the thoughts expressed in your column of Post-scripts today that "The only hiss that counts in this world where might unhappily makes right, whether you like to think so or not, is the one caused by a machine-gun bullet," by every truth-loving reader of The Post who knows that might and right are both made by God, and all the might in the universe, of which this world is a part, can not make right one little wrong.

J. E. J.

316 Second street southeast, Washington, February 15, 1927.

Thanks, Mr. Thorndike.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For more than a quarter of a century I have been a close reader of The Post, especially of its editorials. What I admire in The Post is its intense Americanism; its lofty tone in dealing with public affairs; its independence in commenting on the acts of Congress and the administration. It is never servile. When it believes the administration is pursuing the correct policy it does not hesitate to hold up the hands of the President. When it differs with him it is in a frank, manly way. Its editorials are always strong in their presentation of arguments, always logical, always based on knowledge. It has always stood for maintaining the dignity of the United States in dealing with other governments.

Let me say that in my judgment The Post has earned the thanks of all Americans by the straightforward manner in which it has treated the foreign policy of Mr. Coolidge, especially as to Nicaragua. Our position among the governments of the world makes it imperative that our administration should take a firm and unyielding stand for the rights of American citizens in other lands. Any other course would be to place us among the nations that forget the manhood of its own people. As American citizens we are proud of the position our nation has won in the world—the foremost place of those who have a right to be heard. The League of Nations, nor the World's Court can help us. We must stand alone, defender of our own rights.

A. THORNDIKE.

Water Transport.

Chicago Daily News: The farmer is deeply concerned in the policy of steady, scientific development of water transport. Therein lies a partial solution of his grave problem. He justly complains of high freight rates, but those rates can not be reduced arbitrarily, or without regard for the rights of the railroads and their employes and the rights of investors in railroad securities. Waterway development will reduce freight rates without injuring the railroads, for industry and commerce are advancing by enormous strides and the country soon will need all the transportation facilities it is in position to construct and improve.

Women's Dress Section, Third floor.

What We Mean by Specialized Fashion Service

—not only to find smart fashions grouped conveniently on one floor—but to find fashions individually styled for individual types, ages and sizes.

For instance, there are the Women's Dress and Coat Sections for women who wear regular sizes, the Special Size Section for women who wear larger than regular sizes, the Little Women's Section for small women who demand the sophistication of women's clothes, but who are proportioned on smaller lines; the Walnut Room, our exclusive shop of finer frocks—although that offers, too, an individual service in the matter of selecting a wardrobe for the debutante—or the bride and her bridal party.

The French Room, devoted exclusively to imported millinery; the Misses' Sections, devoted to fashions—including coats, suits, frocks, sports things and millinery for Misses.

And these, with the lingerie, blouse, sweater, sportswear, costume slips, negligee, home frock and shoe sections—make up an entire floor of Apparel and Accessories for Women and Misses—Third floor.

William Dufour, of New Orleans, and Mrs. William A. Phillips.

Small—Yost Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Anita Yost, daughter of Mr. William Henry Yost, to Mr. Richard Kerfoote Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Small, of Silver Spring, Md., took place last evening at 8 o'clock in St. Mark's church, the Rev. W. H. Pettus and the Rev. Gerald Barry officiating. The church was decorated with Easter lilies, palms and forsythia.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Edward Yost, wore a gown of white moire combined in velvet with a sleeveless fitted bodice and bouffant skirt scalloped at the hemline and edged in silver. Marking one shoulder was a large single rose of velvet and silver and her veil of Belgian lace was cap-shaped, arranged in coronet style, of lace and caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Adelaide Traband, of Marlboro, Md., was maid of honor, gowned in green taffeta made in period style with a sleeveless fitted bodice and full skirt. The dress was trimmed with a spray of shaded pink flowers at the shoulder and at the waistline, and the skirt, which was longer in the back, was edged in silver and faced with violet. She had a green georgette hat edged in violet and faced with flesh colored georgette, and in the back was a large silver bow, ending in streamers, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of spring flowers tied with a ribbon matching the gown.

Miss Elizabeth Lindsay, Miss Elsie Yost and Miss Myrtle Yost were the bridesmaids. They wore taffeta gowns in shades of coral pink, blue and lavender and fashioned, like that of the maid of honor, with shaded flowers at the shoulder and waist and the skirts edged in deep tulle borders with taffeta flowers applied on the hemlines, which were graduated longer in the back. There were shorter underskirts, scalloped, of crepe de chine, which showed through the tulle borders. They had hats of georgette in colors, matching the gowns and faced in contrasting shades and trimmed with large side pompoms of tulle, with long tulle streamers caught under the chins and falling over the left shoulders. They carried old-fashioned bouquets of flowers tied with ribbons in colors corresponding to the gowns.

Mr. Fred R. Binger, of Marlboro, Md., acted as best man for the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Walter Armstrong, Mr. Frank H. Small, jr., and Mr. George C. McClain, jr.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents at 1502 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, when the house had an arrangement of spring flowers.

Miss Mollie Yost, aunt of the bride, wore a gown of black georgette and lace trimmed in old-fashioned gold ornaments and a flower marking one shoulder. Mrs. Richard Small, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of dark blue satin black crepe heavily beaded and having a gold flower on one shoulder. Mrs. William E. Yost, sister of the bride, wore a gown of bois de rose crepe elaborately embroidered in a design in beads. Mrs. William P. Irvin, a cousin of the bride, was gowned in black velvet, and Mrs. R. E. Otterback, also a cousin, was in a tiered gown of coral pink embroidered in rhinestones and the tiers finished in a deep crystal fringe. Mrs. Govin Tolson, sister of the bridegroom, wore gray georgette fashioned over a slip of peach-tinted crepe and trimmed with a peach flower on the right shoulder.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Small departed on a wedding trip, the latter traveling in a green crepe satin dress, a small tan grosgrain hat, silver muskrat topcoat, and cherry colored patent leather and kid slippers. Mr. and Mrs. Small will be at home after March 15 at the Maryland Courts apartments.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chenworth, Miss Helen Chenworth and Miss Margaret Chenworth, of Wilmington, N. C.; Miss Alice Countess and Miss May Countess, of Baltimore; Mrs. Clarke Hardcastle, of Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Radley, of New York, and Mrs. Boyd Eddy, of Williamsport, Pa.

COMING TO THE THEATERS

NATIONAL.

The French Foreign Legion, the endless, gorgeous, giant sand dunes of the Sahara, a famous missing sapphire, hundreds of desert warriors sweeping on horseback to attack a lonely fort manned by 40 men, practically all in mutiny—there you have just a glimpse of the romance and thrills contained in "Beau Geste," which starts in its second big week at the National theater with a Sunday matinee at 3 p.m., playing twice daily, at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. Seats for the second week are on sale at the box office today.

No greater effort was ever put into the making of a motion picture. This romantic, thrilling screen mystery story, adapted from one of the most popular novels in years, represents a larger undertaking than even "The Ten Commandments," which was also produced on a colossal basis.

Ronald Coleman, Alice Joyce, Noah Beery, Mary Brian, Nell Hamilton, Ralph Forbes, Norman Trevor, William Powell, Victor McLagen are featured, but there are scores of others nearly as prominent.

"Beau Geste" is a mystery story of the French Foreign Legion on the deserts of Africa that will tighten your very skin with excitement. It tells of three young Englishmen who disappear from home after a famous sapphire, "The Blue Water," belonging to their aunt, is stolen. All this leads to a remote fort on the Sahara and the ever-feared attack of an Arab host.

In the morning the fort remains uncaptured. Every man is at his post—dead. The commanding officer, with a French bayonet through his heart and an amazing confession concerning the theft of "the blue water" clutched in the hand of a dead soldier, bith lie on the roof.

Herbert Brenon, who directed the picture, and the 2,000 men who appear in it, lived on the sun-scorched Arizona desert for three months making exterior scenes.

Maj. Percival C. Wren is the author of "Beau Geste," and the book has already gone far in excess of any of the best sellers ever placed on the market.

BELASCO.

Local theatergoers will have an opportunity to welcome a long list of favorites at the Belasco theater next Monday evening when Lee Shubert, in association with Edwin Carewe, presents "The Heaven Tappers," the three-act drama by George Scarborough and Annette Westbay.

The principals have long attained distinction. Among them are Ann Davis, Charles Waldron, Louis Bennison, Joseph Brennan, Lulie Warrenton, Thomas Gunn, J. C. Kline and others.

"The Heaven Tappers" is a frank melodrama, concerned with the exploitation of religion for gain, and set in the Blue Ridge mountains. The protagonists are a band of crooks who pose as evangelists and who hoodwink the mountaineer moonshiners until—the climax.

The action is swift and powerful, but softened by romance interspersed with comedy.

Mr. Shubert has equipped the play with a scenic investiture that runs into thousands of dollars—the five settings of the play being unique and lavish. The first act takes place in a penitentiary cell, then moves into the blue hills of Kentucky.

Following the local engagement "The Heaven Tappers" will be presented on Broadway.

COLUMBIA.

Preparations are being made at Loew's Columbia theater for the Washington premiere, beginning next Sunday afternoon, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's story of the marine corps, "Tell It to the Marines," a big, special production made with the cooperation of the United States marine corps with Lon Chaney in the principal role, supported by Eleanor Boardman, William V. Haines and Eddie Cribbon, as well as thousands of real United States marines who participated in the picture.

High officials of the marine corps cooperated with the studio in the filming of this picture, which was filmed aboard battleships, in marine barracks, on the field with the marines in maneuvers, and in battle, and which traces the career of a young marine from the time he enters the service until his discharge.

A vein of romance runs through the story, with Eleanor Boardman as a navy nurse and William V. Haines as the new recruit to the marine corps. Lon Chaney, however, in the role of a hard-boiled top sergeant of marines, whose rigid discipline makes a man of the hero in the end, has one of the most interesting of the hundreds of roles of his career.

RIALTO.

Warner Baxter, Lois Wilson, Nell Hamilton, Georgia Hale, William Powell, Hale Hamilton, George Nash, Claire Whitney and "Gunboat" Smith, compost the all-star cast in the picturization of F. Scott Fitzgerald's famous novel "The Great Gatsby," which is the feature picture at the Rialto, starting Saturday.

It tells the story of Jay Gatsby, a mysterious figure in Long Island society. His house is the rendezvous of pleasure and excitement seekers. Through it wanders lonely figure, friendless and "just a good fellow"—the host. He lives for but one thing—the girl he left behind on going to war. Married to another man, Gatsby believes she still loves him.

What happens when Gatsby meets her and is able to make her forget her husband, only to come down to earth when the husband accuses him of actions he can not deny, brings the picture to an unusual and powerful climax.

A special stage presentation and auxiliary short reels will complete the bill.

STRAND.

The Strand theater, beginning Saturday of this week, February 19, will present "In Funland," with Irvin B. Hamp and Lew Lewis holding the high spots in comedy throughout the show; also in the cast will be Earl Root, Kathleen Butler, Paul Rush, Rene Vincent, Bilee Lamonte, Florence Drake and the Equity chorus doing their stuff in fast stepping. "In Funland" is a happy-go-lucky musical comedy in fifteen gorgeous scenes, staged under the personal supervision of the famous Broadway producer, Mr. Leo Stevens. Good dance specialties will be interpolated by the members of the chorus, while Miss Rene Vincent will render solos of up-to-date popular selections. On the screen will be Douglas Fairbanks as "The Black Pirate." This is rated as the fastest moving story Fairbanks ever portrayed, the action starting with the blowing up of a ship and maintaining an explosive tempo throughout.

Arthur Manvell will offer as an overture "I Adore You," from "Sweet Lady," and the usual comedies and Newsreels will round out the program.

POLI'S.

"The Greenwich Village Follies" comes to Poli's theater on Sunday night for a week's engagement. There will be matinee performances on Tuesday and Saturday. This is the seventh and newest of these handsome and hilarious shows.

This program is lavishly punctuated with hilarious episodes. Of the 26 scenes, no less than 18 are antic in design and conception. Travesty, satire, burlesque, caricature, pantomime and jocose exercises in song and dance make up the comic farce, "Moving In," "The Spy," "Efficiency," "The Window Cleaners," "Faded Flowers," "Then, Now and Sometime," "The Sincerest Form of Flattery," "Go Ahead and Sing" and "The Trickster" enumerate the sketches contrived for comedy.

The company engaged in these gay exercises is numerous and expert. Chief among it are Tom Howard, Irene Delroy, Vlasta Maslova, Sam Hearn, Evelyn Hoey, Joe Penner, Bailey and Barnum, Elsbeth Holman, Kendall Capps, Joe Lyons, Arnold Gluck, Bayard Rauth, Ruth Conley, Evelyn Page and Douglas Carter.

In the ensembles are to be found the "Sixteen American Rockets," a dancing unit made up of young beauties who have been drilled and rehearsed in collective dancing for the past two years. The sixteen dance as one, and with a precision and dexterity that is always commendable.

B. F. KEITH'S.

George Choos, producer of many spectacular vaudeville acts, brings to B. F. Keith's theater next week as the headline attraction "Miss Hastoura" in "High Art," with Walter and Elizabeth Reddick, Alice Hayward and Gordon Bennett. Featured in the act are the six Adelaide and Hughes girls. The entire production has been staged by J. Hughes, with the music by Gene Lucas.

The world famous female impersonator, Bert Errol, is featured for the week, presenting modes and melodies of 1927. Mr. Errol brings a wardrobe of all new Paris creations.

A special comedy feature will be offered in the person of Jim McWilliams, known as "The Pianutist." Comedy and music go into the make-up of his offering.

Next in line will appear the English comedian, Will Hay, the scholastic humorist, who will be seen in the "Fourth Form of St. Michael's." He is assisted by Bert Platt and Cy Laceby.

"Two Boys and a Piano" is the way Brooks and Ross herald their offering. They are singers of note and should prove a big addition to the week's offering.

Bert Ford and Pauline Price will bring along the thrills for the week with their "Dancing on a Silver Thread." Other acts will be announced later and the usual screen features will complete the bill.

PALACE.

At Loew's Palace for the week beginning next Sunday afternoon the feature will be "Hotel Imperial," starring Pola Negri, and declared to be the greatest portrayal Miss Negri has ever brought to the silver sheet. It is a love drama, played against the spectacle of the world war, with the fate of armies and a girl's sweetheart's life depending upon the sacrifice of her reputation.

James Hall appears as the hero, a young Hungarian cavalry officer whose detachment is trapped in a Galician village and who is forced to pose as a waiter to escape capture by the Russians, while the Russian general makes love to the servant girl who has befriended and shielded the young Hungarian. The sudden death of a spy and the suspicion that the pseudo waiter has killed him bring this thrilling romance to a climax in which the girl, by complete sacrifice of her reputation, saves the man she loves and becomes the heroine of the crisis.

The stage attractions of the Palace program next week will include Adler, Well and Herman, "the California humming birds," and M. de Jari, famous European tenor, late of Earl Carroll's "Vanities." The overture, organlogue, Topics, Magazine and other house features will be added.

METROPOLITAN.

"McFadden's Flats," one of the greatest laughing hits in the history of the American theater, will be the principal attraction at Crandall's Metropolitan theater next week, beginning Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Charlie Murray and Chester Conklin in the costellar roles. It is an elaborately produced and splendidly acted eight-reel First National special production, in which the stars are supported by such eminent players as Edna Murphy, Larry Kent, Aggie Herring, DeWitt Jennings, Dorothy Dwan, Cissy Fitzgerald, Dot Farley and Leo White. The plot development of the famous old farce has been retained intact but has been elaborated upon extensively and conspicuously modernized.

The length of "McFadden's Flats" necessarily results in the partial curtailment of the supplementary features which will augment the Washington's birthday program. A new issue of the Metropolitan World Survey will be shown, and as an added feature of extreme novelty will be projected a cinematographic tidbit, bearing the title "Not Too Mad." This is a brief camera subject based on an entirely new idea.

The musical program for the holiday week will be another contribution in concert form by the Metropolitan symphony under the conductorship of Daniel Breeskin and will embrace also the usual interpretative scores for the accompaniment of the pictured subject.

"McFadden's Flats" relates to an intensely amusing and at the same time thoroughly human story of triumph and despair in the "downtown" sections of a large city.

EARLE.

Three offerings of exceptional merit are included in the vaudeville portion of the Washington's birthday program to be presented at the Earle theater next week, beginning Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The headline attraction for the holiday week will be supplied by "Janet of France" in association with Byron Hawkins, William Rand, Mack Ruber and Miki Martine in "Toot Sweet," a skit by Johnny Cantwell, staged by Harry Crawford. The farra added attraction will be contributed by Kathleen O'Hanlon and Theodore Zambuni, remarkable character dancers. This act is further distinguished by the Argentine orchestra, which accompanies the terpsichorean numbers, and in addition offers syncopated interludes of a clearly Argentinean type. The third of the triumvirate of special attractions is none other than Washington's own blackface comic, Harry Joison, brother of Al, who bills himself as the operatic blackface comedian, and by the excellence of his voice and the cleverness of his travesties of famous operatic numbers, justifies the description.

Other important diversions will be offered the holiday crowd by Don Valerio and company, in an act of unusual merit on the wire. Valerio is recognized as Italy's premier wire dancer and appears in this instance assisted by Ella Hajek, danseuse. Eddie Jerome and Bill Ryan, "Those Red Hot Boys," will be heard in a quick succession of syncopated songs, accompanied by themselves on banjo and guitar.

The photoplay feature for next week at the Earle will be "Nobody's Widow," in which the stellar role is played by Leatrice Joy, supported by Charles Ray, Phyllis Haver and a distinguished cast.

GAYETY.

The highlights of "Sporting Widows," John G. Jermon's Columbia burlesque which is to entertain Gayety theater audiences during the coming week may be discovered in the following analysis. There are seventeen scenes, nineteen musical numbers, eleven complete changes of costumes by the pretty choristers, a book written by I. B. Hamp; lyrics and melodies by Ruby Cowan, who has endowed burlesque with mesmerizing strains through many seasons, and the picturesque staging of the ensembles by James C. Fulton, whose activities in this direction have won admiration on numerous former occasions.

reaches unusual values in our

February Home Furnishing Sale

WE planned this sale to be an unusual one, which would carry a strong, double appeal—one in which the beauty and craftsmanship of the furniture are as persuasive and alluring as the low prices are dominant and compelling in their attraction. How well this has been accomplished, you will realize when you inspect the beautiful examples made by our own Oneidacraft and Master Craftsmen Factories. Some are reproductions of authentic masterpieces, others adaptations of fine models to modern requirements. All, regardless of their low price, are items of furniture which are a real pleasure to own. Do not fail to visit this sale, no matter where else you may go. We want you to make your own comparisons of these goods, with those offered elsewhere.

ADM. VOGELGESANG, ILL 3 MONTHS, DIES

Commanded Scouting Fleet; Had Been Chief of Mission to Brazil.

Rear Admiral Carl T. Vogelgesang, commandant of the scouting fleet, light cruiser division, and assigned to the U. S. S. Trenton, died late last night at the Naval hospital, following an illness of three months. His wife, and a son, Shepard Vogelgesang, who arrived in this country Tuesday night from Italy, were at his bedside.

Born in North Branch, Calif., in 1869, Admiral Vogelgesang was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1890. Following his appointment as ensign in 1892, he was promoted through the grades to the rank of rear admiral in 1922. He served on the Bancroft in the Spanish-American war, was navigator of the Louisiana in 1907, and the following year commanded the Mayflower.

In 1917 Admiral Vogelgesang was appointed chief of staff of the Asiatic fleet, and in 1918 was chief of the naval commission to Brazil. He has since served as chief of staff of the United States fleet, commandant of the New York navy yard and the Third naval district. On November 27, 1922, he was named chief of the United States naval mission to Brazil.

University of Virginia, Va., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—An earthquake of large magnitude was recorded on the seismograph at the University of Virginia here last night, beginning at 8:39 and continuing until 10:07 o'clock. It was indicated that the tremor was in a northeasterly direction, but the distance could not be determined.

Faenza, Italy, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Prof. Bendandi's observatory here recorded what was termed a catastrophic earthquake today, its epicenter at an estimated distance of 5,270 miles. The shocks, beginning early in the morning, continued four hours.

Tokyo, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The government observatory reported tonight that it had recorded a heavy earthquake off the Kamohatka peninsula of Asia, north of Japan. It started at 10:30 this morning and continued four and one-half hours. The shock was only slightly felt in northern Japan.

CALIFORNIANS SERVED 600-POUND PRUNE PIE

Hoover Cuts Pastry, Baking of Which Mrs. Walter Johnson Directed.

The largest prune pie ever baked was served last night at the annual dinner of the California State society at the Hamilton hotel. The pie, which weighed 600 pounds and measured 5 feet across the top, was carried to the serving table by eight waiters.

The serving knife was wielded by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. He was assisted by Mrs. Walter Johnson, wife of Washington's pitching ace, under whose supervision the pie was baked. After the several hundred members of the society had been served with the pie, the same eight waiters carried it away. Their load apparently was not materially lightened. The pie was made with prunes from the California ranch of Representative Arthur M. Free. The dinner last night was given in honor of Representative Richard J. Welch, who was unable to attend, however, and Harry Englebright, "baby" members of the California congressional delegation.

Representative Harry Barbour, of California, advised newly elected members of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" Congress not to become alarmed by recent fistic encounters between members of Congress. Other speakers included Repersentatives Englebright, Clarence F. Lea, Arthur Free, Philip D. Swing and Thomas Flaherty. James H. MacLafferty was toastmaster.

Press Club to Hold "Lame Duck Night"

Senators and representatives who on March 4, the termination of the present session, automatically will sever their connections with Congress will be honor guests of the National Press club this evening, when "Lame Duck Night" is celebrated.

The event will be in the nature of a farewell party for the retiring statesmen. Guests will include Senator James Wadsworth, of New York, chairman of the committee on military affairs; Senator John M. Harreld, of Oklahoma; Senator Richard P. Ernst, of Kentucky; Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin; Representatives James M. Magee, of Pennsylvania, and Representative Napoleon Tincher, of Kansas.

Hoover to Preside At Booth Lecture

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will preside at the lecture of Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army, Tuesday night in the Washington auditorium. Music will be furnished by the Headquarters Marine band.

Clad in tattered clothes, Miss Booth will deliver her well known address, "In Rags," outlining her early work among the poor in large cities. Although admission to the auditorium will be free, reserved seats may be obtained in advance at Salvation Army headquarters. The lecture will be the first delivered in Washington by Miss Booth.

Reed Will Address Dod Noon Club Fete

Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, will address the fifth annual senior night to be given by the Dod Noon club, an undergraduate social club of the Catholic University, tonight in the McMahon hall, on the university campus.

The Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the college, will introduce Senator Reed, and Edmund Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will preside. A program has been arranged which includes a one-act sketch to be presented by the University Dramatic association. The glee club will take part in the program.

Transit Co. Sued for $10,000.

The Washington Rapid Transit Co. was sued yesterday in Circuit court for $10,000 damages for alleged personal injuries by George H. Emch, 5306 Thirteenth street northwest. Through Attorney J. H. Bilbrey, the plaintiff says that on December 26, 1926, his automobile was struck by a bus at Taylor street and New Hampshire avenue northwest.

SCHOOL SITE ASKED OF WELFARE BOARD

Erection of New Superintendent's Home Made Proviso of Land Deal.

The board of public welfare yesterday considered a request from the District commissioners for part of the grounds of the municipal tuberculosis hospital as a site for a public school.

It has been found imposible to buy a site in the vicinity under the 25 per cent limitation over assessed value fixed by Congress as the maximum purchase price for land for schools and playgrounds. Hence the commissioners' request.

The parcel desired is 100,000 square feet at the southeast corner of Fourteenth and Upshur streets northwest. At present the residence of the superintendent of the hospital is located on the plot.

The board voted to cede the land to the board of education for the purpose desired if an appropriation may be had to build another home for the superintendent elsewhere on the hospital tract.

Park Board to Hear Debate on Project

A hearing of property owners regarding the projected park adjacent the bureau of standards will be held by National Capital park and planning commissioners at its meetings tomorrow and Saturday, and Charles C. Colored Committee Alarmed by Crime

A joint committee on delinquency and crime among colored citizens of the District, alarmed at statistics of recent years as compared with those of a decade ago, at a meeting held last night at the residence of Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, directed its publicity committee to call the attention of colored ministers and welfare workers to present conditions.

The committee's bulletin, which was ordered released to conventions and group gatherings of all colored religious denominations, and to the interdenominational ministerial alliance, was signed by Mrs. Terrell, Garnet C. Wilkinson, G. David Houston, Lieut. Campbell C. Johnson, Robert J. Nelson, W. O. Walker and M. W. Jones.

Theta Upsilon Omega Has Founders Dinner

The annual founders day dinner of the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity of George Washington University was held last night at the Hamilton hotel to celebrate the founding of the fraternity in this city. Professor Elmer L. Kayser, secretary of George Washington University, delivered the principal address.

Members of the fraternity discussed plans for erecting their fraternity house in the recently proposed "Fraternity Row" near George Washington University. It has been suggested that all of the fraternities of George Washington University erect their fraternity houses side by side on a site near the institution.

House in Friendship Damaged by Flames

Fire of unknown origin last night damaged the home of James W. Rippey, of 116 Wooten avenue, Friendship, Md., to the extent of approximately $1,500. The blaze was discovered by Mr. Rippey about 9:30 o'clock in the parlor of his home.

Engine company No. 20, from Washington, aided the Bethesda fire company in fighting the blaze, which burned through to the roof. The house was a two-story frame structure.

WASHINGTON OPERA PATRONS THRILLED BY 'MASKED BALL'

Rosa Raisa Scores as Prima Donna in Chicago Company Presentation.

MARSHALL WINS PRAISE OF BRILLIANT AUDIENCE

Ensemble Work of Large Chorus Proves Distinct Part of Success.

Verdi's "The Masked Ball" was the opera sung by the Chicago Civic Opera company last night at Poli's theater as the opening of its two days of performances in the National Capital this season. A brilliant audience, headed by Vice President Dawes, who is one of the directors of the Chicago Civic Opera company, heard Rosa Raisa sing her way to another notch of operatic fame as the prima donna of an opera hailed as one of the masterpieces of the great Italian composer, although seldom heard in this city.

There are more than 200 persons in the list of principals and ensemble with the Chicago Civic Opera company this year, and last night's performance was staged with the utmost lavishness of detail and scenic effect. The company came here directly from Baltimore, where it sang Tuesday night. It completed last Saturday night a record run in Boston of two weeks, which drew $236,000 into the box office, a high mark for opera receipts in that city. The company is on its annual tour and will be heard in several American cities before returning to Chicago. Included in its list of patrons for the Washington performances were many social and official notables as well as prominent music lovers of the Capital. The Chicago Civic Opera company was presented under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

"The Masked Ball" was sung in Italian throughout and the competent orchestra was under the masterly leadership of Giorgia Polacco, a conductor well and favorably known in this city through other performances of the Chicago aggregation, which he has led here in other seasons.

Location Change Forced.

Because of Italian censorship Verdi was obliged to change the location of his opera after it was writtend and he fitted the scenes into Boston during colonial days in that ancient commonwealth. However American the outward appearance of the opera may be, it is typically Italian in type and abounds in ardent lovemaking and swift tragedy, and displays the mercurial temperament of that passionate people.

The theme relates the love of Richard, Count of Warwick, and colonial governor of Boston, for Amelia, wife of his secretary, Reinhart. As might be imagined this situation finally leads to the assissination of Gov. Warwick by Reinhart at a great masked ball to which the elite of the city had been bidden.

The opera first was produced in Rome in 1859, and had its New York premier in 1861. Caruso sang in one of its Metropolitan opera house revivals with a notable cast, including Destinn, Frieda Hempel and Amato, in 1913.

The dramatic as well as the vocal powers of Rosa Raisa were taxed greatly in her role of Amelia last night. The prima donna met each test with assurance and she gave a gripping, passionate interpretation of the hapless colonial lady swayed by conflicting storms of emotion. She acted with magnificent abandon and her singing was full of warmth, of emotion and the glow of unrestrained feeling.

Voices Matches Role.

Her opulent voice and her histrionic abilities matched the role exceedingly well and in her duet and quartet and trio work her gift of modulation and expression were most apparent. She exhibited tones of velvetlike richness, now soft and tender, then again rising to matchless power. The single word that best describes her voice is "heroic," and her vocalism, her trills, cadenzas and the colorature in general was of a rare quality.

The well controlled voice of Charles Marshall, cast as Riccardo, Count of Warwick, developed an artistic rather than the gusto effect so common a defect of operatic tenors. He won instant applause early in the first scene when he sang with telling beauty the romanza "La Rivedra Nell Estasi," one of the lovely moments of the opera with its "O dolce notte" measures an added delight. Since last heard here Mr. Marshall's art has broadened and improved and he gave a really creditable performance last night. The audience also enjoyed his rendition of the exquisite barcarolle "Di Tu Se Fidele," one of the memorable classics of grand opera.

Playing Madame Raisa a close second in effectiveness and operatic skill was Cyrena Van Gordon, in the part of Ulrica, the Gypsey. Miss Van Gordon has a contralto voice of mellow timbre, wide range and a real capacity for the vocal protrayal of emotion. The score does not give her much solo opportunity, but she made the most of her part from the dramatic standpoint and impressed her personality upon the audience in a unmistakable manner.

Duet is High Point.

Not soon to be forgotten either was the duet "Oh Qual Soave Brivido" between Rosa Raisa and Charles Marshall which was the vocal high point of the second act. Their voices blended harmoniously and the combined tone was a real delight, and the phrasing and diction were unusually fine.

In the "Masked Ball" the barytone has an unusually good role, and Richard Bonelli adorned it last night. He made a figure of interest out of Reinhart, the husband of Amelia. He was not only an acceptable vocalist but a splendid actor as well, which cannot be said of all operatic barytones. His aria "Alla Vita Che T'Arride" was one of the big songs of the opera and the audience rewarded his excellent singing of it with prolonged applause.

Washingtonians were interested in the appearance of Clara Shear as Oscar, the page. She had a sweet lyric soprano capable of coloratura effects and a captivating personality. Her two important solos, the rondo in act 1 and "Saper Vorreste," remembered because of the reputation Tetrazzini made in singing it, were well handled and she received an ovation after each of them.

Male Chorus Excels.

The work of the male chorus can not be commended too highly. It was one of the best choruses of this type heard in Washington for many seasons, while the corps de ballet in its incidental dances gave a terpsichorean exhibtion that was most charming and skilful.

Three old favorites of Chicago Civic Opera audiences, Virgilio Lazzari, as Samuel; Antonio Nicolich, as Tom, and Lodovico Oliviero, as a judge, gave the finished performance of their roles one has come to expect from this trio of operatic veterans, and a singer new to Washington audiences, Desire Defrere, as Silvano, deserves more than passing mention, while Louis Derman, as a servant of Amelia, did several very clever bits of character acting and sang acceptably.

The ensemble work of the large chorus was a good example of what such singing should be. In the first place it was a distinct part of the success of the opera and it was easy to see that each singer had a definite place in the personnel of the company and was not a temporary selection. Their training must have been at a master's hands and the general tone quality was excellent. Another thing which struck even the most casual observer was the ability of the ensemble to follow the phrasing of the conductor. In fact, it was a treat to hear such an opera chorus and the audience showed its pleasure again and again.

Orchestra Wins Praise.

And the orchestra. That too earned its place in the operatic sunshine of a successful performance. M. Polacco had it under definite control and it was induced into concrete achievement by the magic of the swiftly moving baton of the leader. From an orchestral viewpoint the music of Verdi's "The Masked Ball," like all that composer's scores, is intricate and takes a master musician to rightfully interpret it. There appeared to be no stumbling blocks for the orchestra last night, however, and the leader was obliged to respond to several ovations when he took his place on the leader's stand before several of the acts.

The mountings and costuming of the opera were handsome in the extreme and the opera moved with swiftness and without any unnecessary halts, due in part, of course, to the fact the company carries its own mechanical force as well as singers and musicians with it when on tour.

Chicago is to be congratulated on the fine production of its civic opera company, and Washington should be grateful that it was included on its annual tour this year.

Today the matinee performance will be "The Resurrection," with Mary Garden in the stellar role. There will be no other performance of the opera company in the city at this time.

Corporation Suit Dismissed.

The $70,000 damage suit filed February 14, 1924, against William B. Westlake, former president of the District Guaranty Corporation, by Fred B. Rhodes and David W. Fox, receivers for the corporation, was dismissed yesterday in Circuit court by the receivers through their counsel, Ralph B. Fleharty. The amount sued for represented alleged losses by the corporation under Westlake's management.

BROADCASTING TONIGHT TO BE MAINLY MUSICAL

Navy Band Orchestra and National Song Tour on Radio Program.

There will surely be music in the air tonight. With the possible exception of a talk by Dorsey W. Hyde, jr., secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, who will tell about "Washington's coming industrial exposition" over WMAL at 8:10 o'clock, almost everything else appears to be music. The Navy Band orchestra will broadcast a program through WRC at 8 o'clock, followed by the Kitt hour of music with Raoul da Costa, violinist, and Benjamin Ratner, pianist.

Anne Arlen, the singing violinist, and Mary Bessemer, pianist, will be heard from WMAL at 7:55 p. m. This precedes the broadcasting of the musicale from the lounge of the City club at 8:30 o'clock, presenting Mme. Marie Von Unschuld, pianist, Daniel Breeskin, violinist, and numerous other local artists.

Fitting into the scheme of the musical evening, WJZ will offer a new blue network feature, "Our Musical United States," at 8 o'clock tonight, which Washingtonians may pick up easiest from KDKA. It will be a sort of musical tour, starting in New York city with the playing of "The Sidewalks of New York." From there the radio audience will be carried to Princeton to hear "Old Nassau," thence in the direction of Maryland to listen to "Maryland, My Maryland" as a mixed quartet selection. The entrance into the Capitol will be made to the music of Sousa's "Washington Post March." Virginia, of course will be serenaded with "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" and thence the tour will continue South. The Radiotrons will be heard over the WJZ network at 9 o'clock.

Word received from Roxy clinches the fact that his forthcoming broadcasts will be heard through WRC.

"I can now definitely inform you," he writes, "that when we broadcast over the blue chain of the National Broadcasting Co., that WRC will be added to this chain, breaking a precedent established by this company.

"It seems to be intimated that it was up to me whether or not I wanted to come to Washington. Is there anyone who thinks that I would skip my old friends, and if you had known the battle that I put up, you would not doubt my desire to come through Washington directly. Even when it looked dark for a time, I managed to procure a line into Walter Reed hospital, which the company promised me, but now I am glad to announce that we shall be heard through WRC."

The first approved broadcast of any of the plays by Booth Tarkington will be given by station WMAQ at Chicago at 10 o'clock tonight. These will consist of two of his shorter and less known works, "The Trysting Place" and "The Ghost Story."

DE PINEDO HAS RIVAL IN FLIGHT OVER SEA

Uruguayan Will Make Dash Across Atlantic From Dakar, Senegal.

Rome, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, fascist ace, now on an air flight to South America, will have a rival in Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges, Uruguayan army aviator, who is about to start from Marina di Pisa on an air voyage that will carry him to Brazil and Uruguay.

Both men must cross the South Atlantic, and thus far de Pinedo holds a decisive advantage, provided the weather continues favorable to Premier Mussolini's air envoy. De Pinedo reached Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, yesterday and was completing preparations today for his departure from Port Natal, Brazil, 1,750 miles across the ocean.

Maj. Larre-Borges, starting at dawn tomorrow, will touch at Malaga, Las Palmas, Canary Islands, and Dakar, Senegal, Africa, and will make his dash across the Atlantic from Dakmar to Pernambuco. The Uruguayan government is officially backing Maj. Larre-Borges' flight.

Buenos Aires, Argentine, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—La Nacion has received word from Bolama, Portuguese Guiana that the Italian aviator, Commander de Pinedo, was unable to get away tonight on his flight across the Atlantic. For two hours, the dispatch says, he ran his plane the whole course of the harbor at Bolama, but was unable to rise owing to engine trouble.

Germany in Economic Straits, Koehler Says

Berlin, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Finance minister, Dr. Heinrich Koehler, presenting a total budget of 2,500,000,000 marks in the reichstag today, said the general economic situation in Germany was extremely serious. Although indicating that the recent 500,000,000 mark internal loan will be used to extend credits to industry, Dr. Koehler warned against a continuation of the government's policy of subvention whereby numerous agricultural, religious and industrial undertakings have been aided from the public treasury.

He defended the general army budget of 697,000,000 marks as "unavoidably large." Of the total budget, 350,000,000 marks are for reparations.

"I see no possibility at present that Germany will be able to raise the reparation load contemplated by 1929, despite the best intentions," he said, deploring the effect of the heavy war reparation burden on Germany's economic situation."

Colored Group Seeks Milholland Busts

A campaign was started last night by a committee of colored citizens to obtain a bronze bust of the late John E. Milholland to be placed in the library at Howard university, by reason of his friendship for oppressed of all races. Similar busts will be placed also in the libraries of important institutions for education of colored people in other parts of the country.

The local committee is composed of Judge James A. Cobb and Neval H. Thomas, associates of Mr. Milholland in work of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People; Mrs. Amanda Gray-Hillyer, president of the Howard Women's club; Dean Lucy D. Slowe, Mrs. Robert G. McGuire, Nolan A. Owens, and Dr. Emmett J. Scott, chairman. Opportunity will be given all who wish to contribute.

Alexandria Policeman Badly Hurt in Crash

Charles Stewart, 30 years old, a policeman on the Alexandria police force, was injured badly last night when his motorcycle and an automobile driven by Conrad Walden, of Baltimore, Md., were in collision at Cameron and Washington streets, Alexandria.

Stewart was taken to the Alexandria general hospital suffering from an injury to the spine. Walden was released on $500 bond for appearance in police court this morning.

C. A. Carry Dismisses Suit.

Edgar B. Chiswell, who filed two suits against Charles A. Carry, Anna Carry and Mary C. Diddens, executors of the estate of the late Albert Carry, to recover a total of $14,000 alleged to be due on account, dismissed his suit in Circuit court yesterday through his counsel, R. H. McNeill. The matter has been settled out of court, according to the order of dismissal.

Starred

The bright-eyed vivacity and striking beauty which made Miss Kae Coughlin a brilliant child star in motion pictures has flowered into even greater charm in her young womanhood. She, like many other celebrities of stage, screen and society, cherishes her complexion loveliness with Black and White Cleansing Cream. Much lighter than cold creams, this exquisitely textured cream melts at a touch, coaxes every impurity from the pores and leaves the skin fresh and silky as a flower petal. You can get Black and White Cleansing Cream from 80,000 dealers, in the generous 25c packages, or in the big 50c ones, which hold more than twice as much.

Miss Coughlin, who lives at 222 Riverside Drive, New York City, says: "This delightful cream is my best beauty aid because it cleanses my skin so thoroughly it simply won't allow blackheads or other blemishes to form. My complexion gets better every day I use Black and White Cleansing Cream."

If your dealer doesn't have the Black and White Beauty Creations you want, send his name to Plough, Dept. 62, Memphis, Tenn., and you will receive FREE a copy of the Birthday and Dream Book, containing many interesting things about beauty, dreams and fortune telling.

DYNAMITERS NEARING DOG TRAPPED IN CAVE

from the mouth of the cave. They discovered the entrance blocked by a shift of rock.

A shaft was begun over the place from which barks could be heard, but the limestone gave way only under dynamite which could be used in small charges because of fear of injury to the dog. A strand of barb wire, inserted in the cave early today, because entangled in the fur of the fox and its body was pulled out.

Using shovels and picks, rescue squads then opened up the passage to where the fox was, but found it blocked beyond that. About 20 feet away Ring yelped when he heard voices. The dynamite squad was moved from the shaft and began the slow work of tunneling around a large boulder which evidently had dropped after Ring had proceeded further into the cave.

Vandy Kelly said he already had bought $500 worth of dynamite exhausting the supply in Woodruff. More explosives were on their way from Spartanburg.

Hundreds of persons from Woodruff and Spartanburg, 20 miles away, watched the blasting operations during the day. Volunteers were numerous.

First reports that the body of the fox had been found caused gossip to spread over the country side that the animal had rushed out of the hole and had been taken alive.

LEGION MEN WARNED OF SHYLOCK CHARGES

America Generous to Other Debtor Nations, Fish Tells Jasper Post.

American Legion members were warned not to be overcome by the propoganda that America is a shylock nation and were told to remember that America had a major part in winning the world war, by speakers at the Sergeant Jasper post American Legion dinner held last night at the Army and Navy club.

The veterans were told that America had been especially generous to the debtor nations by Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York. Maj. Gen. Amos Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service, admonished them to be proud of their country's record in the world war. National Vice Commander J. T. Simms, of the American Legion also spoke. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau prophesied that the spirit of peace raging through this country would bring war unless other nations change their attitudes.

Senator Cole Blease, (Demoncrat), of South Carolina, declared President Coolidge should be permitted to serve another term regardless of third term presedents if the people want him. Commander Charles H. Reilly, District department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, presented greetings from his organization. Joseph F. Beattie, chairman of the welfare committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, also spoke. Commander Carl C. Brown, of Sergeant Jasper post, acted as toastmaster. James W. Boyer, jr., was chairman of the committee in charge.

Two Named for West Point.

Milton A. Elliott, 3d, Friendship Heights, Md., and Henry Gordon Sheen, 2022 Columbia Road northwest, were designated by President Coolidge yesterday as candidates-at-large to take the entrance examination for West Point in March.

EPISCOPAL LIBERALS OPPOSE HIGH CHURCH

Provincial Conference Urges Society to Eliminate "Catholic Party."

Philadelphia, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Resolutions approving the creation of an organization that would strive to eliminate the so-called "Catholic party" within the Protestant Episcopal Church were adopted today by clergymen attending the Septuagesima conference of liberal churchmen of the province of Washington and parts adjacent.

A plan for creating such an organization was outlined in a paper by the Rt. Rev. Robert L. Harris, bishop of Marquette, Mich., which, in the absence of the bishop, was ready by the Rev. George Shepard Southworth, dean of St. Paul's, Marquette. The resolutions asserted that that part of the national church league represented at the conference favored the plan.

The paper depicted the "Catholic party" in the Protestant Episcopal Church was an "enemy within" and the discussion following it was so spirited that Bishop Garland, of Pennsylvania, said:

"Let us not forget that there are many on the other side who love the church as much as we, and that some in the Catholic party do not want the church to be Romanized. Let us present the truth in love, confident that in so doing the truth will prevail.

You can't fool your tank with price!

The carburetor in your car doesn't know how much you paid for the motor fuel you're feeding it. All it recognizes is quality.

Experienced motorists are as wise as their carburetors. They have learned that "cost per mile" is the only standard by which the price of a motor fuel can be judged.

On that basis—the only real basis—AMOCO-GAS is the most economical motor fuel today, as it has been for over eleven years.

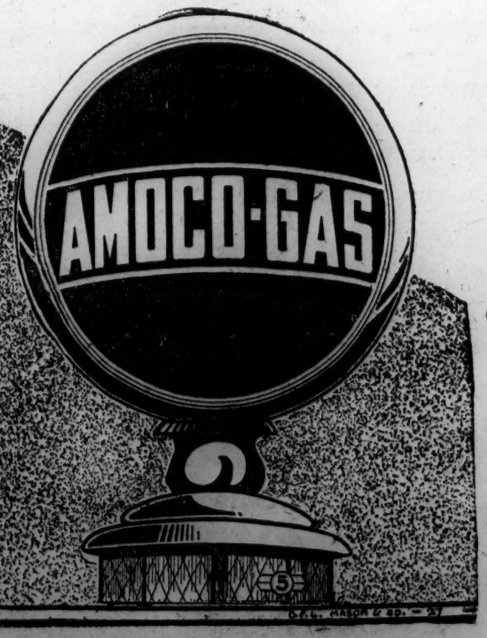

You know AMOCO-GAS. You know its record. You have seen a host of would-be imitations come and go. For, no other motor fuel contains so many of those elements which absolutely eliminate "knocks" and which produce more miles on the road for each gallon you put into the tank.

Wherever you go you'll find the Original Special Motor Fuel at the Green Pump with the AMOCO-GAS Globe. Wherever you buy it you'll get the same dependable, uniform product you have always known.

HOUSE BODY POSTPONES ACTION ON CLOSING BILL

Record Church-Going City, Underhill Declares; Crossing Measure Favored.

C STREET PLAN APPROVED

The House District committee yesterday postponed action on the Lankford Sunday closing bill and ordered favorably reported two bills already passed by the Senate authorizing the elimination of the Michigan avenue grade crossing in particular and all grade crossings in general. It took similar action on a bill to widen C street northeast, at the main entrance of Anacostia park and one granting relief to the Lucy Webb Hayes National Training School for Deaconesses and Nurses. They, too, have been passed by the Senate.

Representative Blanton, of Texas, was eager for full committee action on the Sunday closing bill immediately because The Post had reported that its passage by the House at this session was unlikely. The Texan apparently construed this as a threat rather than a news report.

The report was made on the fact that the committee is split on the measure and Majority Leader Tilson considers that there is not enough time to permit the District to bring up controversial bills in the House. The sponsor of the bill, Representative Lankford, of Georgia, has agreed that he does not hope to pass it at this session, and it dies with the close of the session.

Representatives Underhill, of Massachusetts, and Lampert, of Wisconsin, joined with Representatives McLeod, of Michigan, and Reid, of Illinois, in the opposition to the bill. Mr. Underhill said the committee is placed in a "silly and ridiculous" light for even considering the bill at this time, and furthermore he is against groups which bring every motion they conceive to Washington in an effort to first "try it out on the dog."

"The impression has gone abroad," he said, "that the city of Washington is an irreligious city; that the people here do not observe the Sabbath. There is no church in the city that has a vacant seat. There is no city anywhere in which the people are more regular and constant church attenders."

Mr. Lampert, giving his opposition to the bill, said, "For fair-mindedness or religious liberty I will not take a back seat for any member of the committee."

Representative Rathbone, of Illinois, joined with Mr. Underhill in an effort to get the committee to consider the insurance code bill, which it had agreed to do at its previous session. Representative Bowman, of West Virginia, finally brought the wrangling to an end by moving to adjourn.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Wash. Wednesday, February 16.—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Partly cloudy Thursday; Friday rain, with much colder in afternoon or at night; moderate to fresh southwest and west winds.

For Maryland—Partly cloudy and warmer Thursday; Friday rain, much colder in afternoon or night; fresh southwest winds.

For Virginia—Partly cloudy Thursday; Friday rain, colder at night; fresh southwest and west winds.

The disturbance that was over Nebraska Tuesday night has advanced to Lake Huron, Saugeen, 29.66 inches. Another disturbance is over Wyoming, Lander, 29.48 inches. Pressure is high from Nova Scotia southward to Bermuda and thence southwestward to the Gulf of Mexico, and pressure is high and rising rapidly over the Canadian Northwest, Battleford, 30.22 inches. During the last 24 hours rains have occurred in the Pacific States, the plateau, the lake region, and the Ohio valley, and the middle Atlantic and north Atlantic States, and Florida. Snows have occurred over the Canadian Northwest, the northern Rocky mountain region, and the northern plains States. Temperatures have risen in the lake region and the Ohio valley, and have fallen decidedly over Montana.

The outlook is for partly overcast weather, with rain in New England on Thursday, and for general rains on Friday in States east of the Mississippi river, changing to snow in the lower lake region. It will be warmer on Thursday in New England and portions of the middle Atlantic States, and much colder Friday afternoon or night in the lower lake region, the Ohio valley, and Tennessee, and Friday night and Saturday in the Atlantic and east gulf States.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Ask Her How She Got Thin

In every circle you see many people who have lost their excess fat. Probably some of your friends are among them. When you meet one ask how she reduced, and we think she will tell you Marmola.

The modern way to fat reduction is Marmola Prescription Tablets. It strikes at the cause of the trouble, which usually lies in a gland. No unusual exercise or diet is required. You simply take four tablets of Marmola daily until the weight comes down to normal. The way is easy, pleasant, prompt.

Marmola has been used for 19 years. Delighted users have spread the use by telling others what it did. Now people are taking a very large amount. And excess fat is disappearing fast.

Investigate Marmola. Fat is a blight to beauty, health and fitness. It adds years to one's age. Learn how easily countless folks eliminate it now.

Go try Marmola—you owe that to yourself. Its many good effects will surprise and delight you.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Time and Thought for Improvement

The value of science and research in industry is strikingly illustrated in the review of Swift & Company's business for 1926.

Things don't "just happen." There is reason and thought behind each move.

Housewives are turning to lighter beef because of certain definite developments in American life;

Premium Ham and Bacon taste the same in New York as in San Francisco because science has made that possible;

Variations in texture and moisture, and in proportions of fat and lean have been overcome by uniform standards of manufacture.

Science and research play an important part in solving the problems that rise daily. Just how these problems are worked out, together with many more interesting facts about the business, is set forth in the Swift & Company 1927 Year Book.

The Housekeeper

ONE of the questions that is held over from the cooking school follows:

"Does the stocking covered rolling pin have to be dusted with flour?" And why not? Would it seem that we could kneel in pie crust and not bring up any of the dough with us when our kneeling was over? The stocking covered rolling pin is treated in the same manner in which the unstockinged one is treated. The stocking merely holds the flour with which it is dusted and prevents it from being worked into the dough, thereby adding more flour than was intended should be in the mixture. Does this answer the question?

Saturday will conclude the passing on of the menus, and we shall return in earnest to the usual concerns of the day. The cooking school was a great pleasure was it not—even as much as we hoped it to be. Already readers are asking us about next year. Let us hope that it will be possible to bring the cooking school back, and with the same measure of pleasure and success.

Pastry.

2 cups flour.
1 teaspoonful salt.
½ teaspoon baking powder.
2-3 cup shortening.
Cold water to make stiff dough, about ½ cup.

Sift flour, salt and baking powder. Flake in shortening and add enough water to make a stiff dough. Divide in halves. Toss one part on well floured cloth or board, roll out to cover bottom of pie tin. Fill with pie mixture, wet edges, roll out second half and cut gashes and cover pie mixtures. Press edges together, trim off edges and bake.

Fruit Tarts.

Cover bottom of individual tins with pastry. Prick in several places and bake in a quick oven to a golden brown. Fill with desired fruit and cover with thickened fruit sirup. These may be served plain or decorated.

Napoleon Tarts.

Circular or rectangular pieces of baked pastry.
Cream filling.
Fruit jam.
Confectioners' frosting.
Circular or rectangular pieces of cake.

Cover piece of pastry with cream filling, arrange cake slice on top, spread with fruit jam, put piece of pastry on top and spread this with confectioners' frosting. This may be decorated or left plain.

Cream Filling.

¾ cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 eggs.
2 cups scalded milk.
2½ tablespoons gelatine.
¼ cup milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
¼ teaspoon almond extract.

Mix sugar and salt, add egg slightly beaten, and pour in gradually the scalded milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and a coating can be formed on a spoon. Add gelatine that has been soaked in the cold milk. Stir until dissolved, flavor and chill.

Neapolitan Cream Pudding.

Follow recipe for cream filling, adding ¼ cup shredded cocoanut, ¼ cup candied cherries, ¼ cup citron. Mold and chill, serve with crushed fruit.

Mint Jelly.

1 cup finely chopped mint leaves or 1 teaspoon mint flavor.
1½ cups boiling water.
2 tablespoons gelatine.
¼ cup cold water.
¼ cup vinegar.
¼ cup lemon juice.
½ cup sugar.
Green coloring.

Cover mint leaves with the boiling water and let steep ten minutes. Soak gelatine in cold water. Strain mint mixture into soaked gelatine. Stir until gelatine is dissolved; then add sugar, lemon juice, vinegar and salt. Cool; color a delicate green; pour into mold and chill.

Pineapple Delight.

2 tablespoons gelatine.
½ cup cold milk.
½ cup sugar.
1½ cups boiled rice, drained.
½ cup cubed pineapple.
1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Soak gelatine in cold milk, dissolve over boiling water, add sugar and rice. Mix ingredients, then add the pineapple and chill. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in the stiffly beaten cream. Mold and chill.

Thursday.

Croquettes Fritters
Tutti Frutti Pie
Fruit Tarts Rice Puddings
Neapolitan Cream
Boston Cream Pie Mint Jelly

Croquettes.

2¼ cups coarsely chopped meat.
1 cup hot thick sauce.
¾ cup crumbs for dipping enough fat for frying.
1 egg mixed with 3 tablespoons cold water for dipping.

Mix the chopped meat and white sauce. Spread on a plate to cool. When cool shape into croquettes or cutlets, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again, fry in deep fat. Flaked fish or boiled rice and cheese or mashed potatoes and cheese or boiled rice and nuts may be mixed with a thick sauce, shaped, crumbed and fried as croquettes.

Tutti Frutti Pie.

½ cup stewed apricots, drained.
½ cup crushed pineapple, drained.
½ cup stewed prunes, drained and cut in pieces.
½ cup seeded raisins.
1-3 cup sugar.
2½ tablespoons corn starch.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1 cup fruit juice.
Rind 1 lemon.

Mix fruit juices and corn starch, stir and cook until thick and clear. Remove from fire; add sugar, lemon juice and rind. Mix the fruit and stir in the cornstarch mixture. Line a pie tin with pastry; fill with the tutti frutti filling. Moisten the edges of the lower crust and cover with pastry that has been gashed in several places, press edges together closely, and bake in a hot oven 450 degrees F. about 45 minutes.

Timbale Cases.

2 eggs, slightly beaten.
1 teaspoon sugar.
2-3 cup milk.
1 cup flour.
¼ teaspoon salt.

Put ingredients in order given in a small deep bowl and beat until smooth. The timbale iron must be heated in the kettle of deep fat. Drain and wipe iron on clean paper, dip into the batter. Hold iron in the batter until the coating of the batter adheres to it. Fry in deep fat until crisp and brown. Drain on paper.

Apple Fritters.

2 apples cut in cubes.
1 cup flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
2 tablespoons sugar.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1-3 cup milk.
1 egg.

Mix and sift dry ingredients; add milk to the well-beaten egg, combine mixture, then add the apples. Drop by spoonfuls and fry in deep fat, dipping the spoon into hot fat between each spoonful. Drain on brown paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Oilcloth Becomes Clothing Material

Oilcloth, once used only for floor covering purposes, is now becoming a fashionable clothing material. London's West End stores are featuring a lightweight oilcloth in various colors for fancy dress attire, curtains and stage gowns but so far it has not been used for outdoor wear. Another floor covering, felt, also has been pressed into personal service and is being tried for the making of vanity bags.

What Are the Duties of an Executor?

Regardless of the responsibility your own particular instructions may place upon your executor, there are many technical steps to be taken involving considerable clerical work before the distribution you direct can be made.

Your Executor Must

—offer your Will for probate; prove that it was properly executed, and secure letters testamentary from the Probate Court; have the Will recorded in States where you own real estate; —ascertain and file a list of your heirs;
—take over cash, collect any life insurance or other claims payable to your estate;
—make careful record of all stocks, bonds and notes; watch for calls, rights, maturities, etc.; collect dividends and interest;
—list all assets, ascertain values and file an inventory and appraisement;
—supervise, manage or sell your business interests;
—make tax returns on personal property and income and pay taxes;
—prepare and file inheritance tax returns and pay taxes wherever your stock holdings may be incorporated; secure waivers and file with transfer agents;
—prepare and file Federal Estate Tax notices and returns; supply supporting papers for audit by Internal Revenue Agent and final determination of tax;
—verify and pay claims against the estate and pay legacies;
—follow the directions in the Will as to division of assets;
—submit a final accounting to the Court and secure its approval.

The American Security has had over 37 years' experience and is fully equipped to meet these requirements.

Those LUCKY Pullens!

by MALCOLM DUART

(COPYRIGHT 1926 BY EUGENE MACLEAN)

Names and situations in this story are fictitious.

THE STORY SO FAR

A newspaper item tells of a $880,000 reward offered by a Chinese general for the return to China of seven great diamonds, believed to have been shipped to America in a lacquered chest. Mrs. Fred Pullen, on Capitol Hill, has purchased such a chest, but her husband has sold it to two Chinamen for $1,000. Their pretty daughter, Julia, has quarreled with Sam Carlile, neighbor youth, and another suitor, a young lawyer named Parks, has asked Pullen if he can be the family attorney. As the last chapter ends, Carlile brings a parcel, addressed to Pullen in Sam's care. They open it, and inside is a huge, irregular, oblong diamond.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVII.

IT was Sam who first recovered his voice.

He said: "Zowie!"

Mrs. Pullen hovered over the jewel, her hands upraised, her lips parted. Julia's head was pressed close to hers.

"It's one of the Chinese diamonds!" Julia said.

Pullen's fingers closed over the gem and opened again. "It's one of them," he gulped. "but where—where in Tophet are the rest of them?"

Mrs. Pullen's hands came together, her fingers entwining as they met. "I'm not going to sleep a wink!" she announced, shakily.

Julia opened a bit of tissue paper in which the stone had been wrapped, and smoothing it out upon the couch, took the diamond from her father's hand and laid it in the center of the crinkled, white surface.

Moving closer to Sam, she stood back. Mrs. Pullen clutched her husband's arm and the four of them gaped at the shining jewel.

The boy's hand closed over the girl's. She appeared not to notice.

"Who on earth ever sent that here!" Sam wondered.

Mrs. Pullen now moved her gaze from the diamond to young Carlile. Her eyes already were opened as widely as the lids permitted, but a new light now began to shine in them. She started to speak, reconsidered, began again and suddenly cast herself at the youth and took him in her arms.

"Sam Carlile!" she cried. "You lovely boy! You've been doing this all along! I know it!"

In his astonishment Sam let loose of Julia's hand and now he stood goggling at the older woman as she lay upon his bosom, her face upraised.

"I knew it all the time! I felt it!" cried Mrs. Pullen.

"What did you feel?" inquired her husband, severely. He took one of her arms and tried to pull it from its close embrace of Sam.

She resisted. "It's Sam who gave us the diamond," she said, her face radiant. "And he brought us those other things—the necklace and all. And——" she stepped back and laid her hands upon her breast——"he's given us the furniture, too, and the car and everything."

Once more she moved forward, her intent to hug him again revealed by widespread arms, but Carlile sidestepped.

"Don't do that," he urged, clambering rapidly to the other side of the couch. "What are you talking about, Mrs. Pullen?"

"You know! You know!" She shook her finger at him. "It was you, Sam Carlile, who followed those Chinamen and got our diamonds back! And you've been selling them and buying nice things for us. You can't deceive a woman!"

Pullen and Carlile sought one another's eyes, helplessly. Julia, however, after a moment of amazed inaction, began to laugh.

"There, mama, you'll calm down pretty soon," she said, touching her mother on the shoulder.

"I won't calm down," declared Mrs. Pullen. "You shouldn't speak to your mother that way. Sam, did you sell all the rest of the diamonds?"

"I didn't sell any," he said. "I didn't have 'em."

"Yes you did." She bobbed her head in conviction. "You can't fool us, bringing packages that you claim somebody sent to you. Sam, have you hidden the other diamonds?"

"I never had 'em," he repeated, unhappily. "Mr. Pullen, you explain to her. Why, that would be the same as if I stole 'em. I wouldn't do such a thing."

Mrs. Pullen, however, refused to be

Carlile advanced another step. "You know, I love you, Julia," he said. She dropped her head, and twisted the ring on her finger.

subdued. Excited beyond measure by the giant gem, so mysteriously delivered, and by her new theory of Sam's activities, she overrode the youth and talked on.

"I can see it all," said she. "We'd never have had all these things if it hadn't been for you. It was wonderful, Sam, to get our diamonds back after those thieving Chinamen took them—"

"I didn't," muttered the boy.

"Maybe you didn't get them ALL back, but here's this one. How do you explain that?" She laughed with delight. "You can't fool me! And it was so delicate sending us things, one after another—Sam, I misunderstood you. I'm so sorry."

Pullen had made several fruitless efforts to break in upon her flow of words. Giving it up, he leaned back against the doorjamb, watching Carlile's face. At last he grinned when Mrs. Pullen touched upon her former misunderstanding of Sam. The youth looked at him, distressed, and Pullen winked a mischievous eye as he had done a few nights before.

Gradually the young man brightened.

"Don't you worry if you didn't get the rest of the big jewelry," Mrs. Pullen was saying. "You got this diamond back, and likely the Chinese general will give us a couple of thousand for it, anyway."

"Thanks for forgiving me," Sam said, wriggling in discomfort, but giving an understanding nod to Pullen. "It is too bad the others are gone, isn't it?"

"See? He confesses!" Mrs. Pullen cried. "You good, kind boy!"

In a few moments she bore Pullen away with her to the kitchen, carrying the oblong gem and the box and paper in which it had been mailed.

"Sam," said Julia, reprovingly, when they were alone, why did you let mamma think you'd caught those Chinamen?"

He climbed back across the couch. "Your father winked at me," he explained. "Besides, I couldn't do anything else. Your mother has it all fixed up in her mind—seems to make her happy."

The girl was standing by the stair rail and he moved nearer to her. "Julia," he went on, "I'm sorry you've got that diamond. It must be worth $100,000."

She lifted her eyebrows. "Why are you sorry?"

"Because you'll be rich," he said, "and you won't want to marry a poor dub."

He advanced another step, and she edged away from him. "I wouldn't marry any 'dub' who tells me what I've got to do and what I can't do," she said, though not fiercely.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I oughtn't to be jealous of Parks, but I can't help it. You know I love you, Julia." She drooped her head and twisted the ring upon her right hand. "Do you care anything about me at all?" he asked.

A slight stir at the end of the hall attracted their attention. Mrs. Pullen's head, which had been thrust through the kitchen door, swiftly drew back.

"She's listening!" exclaimed Julia.

Mrs. Pullen reappeared. "I was not listening," she said. "You oughtn't to get ideas like that, child." She now came toward them, holding the diamond in her hand. "I'm afr'd to let go of it," she explained. "But Mr. Pullen and I were discussing what we'd better do, and we wanted to talk to you about it, Sam, now that you're going to be one of the family."

"Goodness!" said Julia.

"Don't say things like that, Mrs. Pullen," urged the youth in alarm. "She'll get mad at me."

"No she won't. Only a mother understands a girl's heart, Sam. She'll be grateful to you as long as she lives for finding those diamonds for us. But what do you think we ought to do with this?"

She extended the precious stone in her open hand.

"I'd write to the guy who advertised—the chink general," said the youth.

"But probably he won't give us enough money," objected Mrs. Pullen. "Don't you think we ought to sell it?"

"It isn't ours, you know, mamma," said Julia.

"But goodness knows we've had enough trouble on account of it," her mother pointed out. "What with Chinamen running around, and burglars—it ought to be ours. What if we write to this general, and he comes and takes it away from us and won't pay anything?"

Carlile reassured her. "He can't do that," he said.

"But I'm afraid of Chinamen," complained Mrs. Pullen. "Julia, you'll have to take care of this. You take it to Mr. Murty in the morning and ask him what to do. I'm scared stiff to have it in the house—let him keep it for us."

"That'll be bully," Sam approved. "He's a lawyer, and he won't let the Chink gyp you."

Mrs. Pullen looked at her daughter with a meaning smile. "Mr. Murty has special reasons for being nice to Julia," she said.

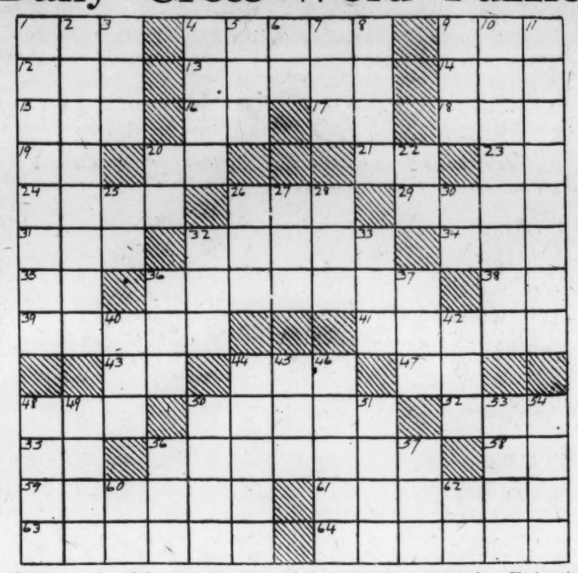

"What reasons?" asked Sam, instantly alert.

The girl smiled, and laid her hand on Carlile's arm. "Be quiet, Sam," she said. "Mr. Murty's 60, and all dried up, and cross as two sticks. He's smart, though."

"Pooh!" said Mrs. Pullen. "You don't understand men, Julia. He's interested in you. I can seet that. Probably he's in love with you, and is too timid to say it. Lots of men are that way, aren't they, Sam?"

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

Mr. Work, if addressed care of The Washington Post, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped, self-addressed envelope is necessary.

THE pointer for today is:

When the five-card suit does not contain two quick tricks it should not be bid unless the hand contains compensating strength.

A five-card suit headed by an Ace or by a King-Queen contains one quick trick. The King-Queen suit is a shade stronger than the Ace suit from the standpoint of general value, but from the quick-trick standpoint it is rated on the same basis. Neither should be bid unless the hand also contains one other quick trick, or more than the equivalent thereof. Taking up in order the illustrations given yesterday:

1. Sp.: Ace-Queen-x-x-x. Ht.: Ace-x-x. Di.: x-x-x. Cl. x-x.

It will be noted that in this hand the five-card suit contains more than one quick trick, but not two quick tricks; therefore it should not be bid without a side quick trick or the equivalent. The Ace of Hearts is a quick trick and, the hand haying more than the minimum two quick trick requirements, is unquestionably a bid of one Spade. It would be equally a bid of one Heart, one Diamond or one Club if the Ace-Queen-x-x-x were in either of those suits, and it would be just as much a Spade bid if the support were either the Ace of Diamonds or the Ace of Clubs.

2. Sp.: Ace-x-x-x-x. Ht.: Ace-x-x. Di.: x-x-x. Cl.: x-x.

This hand represents the minimum in suit-bidding. For many years bidding a five-card suit headed only by an Ace, with a side Ace and no other strength, was not advised by the leading authorities unless the suit named contained at least one other honor, but it has been found that passing with a hand like No. 2 (containing, as it does, two quick tricks and a five-card suit which may be established) is apt to result disadvantageously.

3. Sp.: Ace-x-x-x-x. Ht.: King-Queen-x. Di.: x-x-x. Cl.: x-x.

This hand unquestionably should be bid because it is stronger than No. 2. As was stated yesterday, a King-Queen, while rated as only one quick trick, is more valuable than an Ace.

Tomorrow's hands:

1. Sp.: Ace-Queen-x-x-x. Ht.: King-Jack-x. Di.: x-x-x. Cl.: x-x.

2. Sp.: Ace-Queen-x-x-x. Ht.: Queen-x-x. Di.: x-x-x. Cl.: x-x.

3. Sp.: Ace-Queen-10-x-x. Ht.: Queen-Jack-x. Di.: x-x-x. Cl.: x-x.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

I SAW a letter from a woman the other day directed to a friend as "Mary Smith," without any "Miss," and signed "Mrs. A. P. Snooks," or whatever the creature's name was. Of course, no lady's letter should be addressed like that, and if it were so addressed, at least the person signing it should not have added insult to injury by writing her own name with the title of "Mrs." in front of it. How often I find this mistake in letters I should hesitate to say!

I suppose there is no use trying to stem this particular tide, and yet I am always tempted to have one more try.

Signatures in this country are not written with Mr., Mrs. or Miss before them. Jane Brown, Emily Jones, Robert Gray. Those are signatures. If you are writing to people who do not know you, and therefore may be at a loss as to how to address you by letter, you write in one corner of your last-filled page, "Direct to Miss Jane Brown," at such and such a place. Or, "Address Mrs. John Jones."

With men there is not this confusion. Robert Grey, we know, is to be addressed as Robert Grey, Esq., if you follow the English, and (to my mind) proper form; or, Mr. Robert Grey.

I have heard men object to giving their title at all, even for purposes of address, but with public manners in their present state of ignorance, you can not take it for granted that anyone will know how to direct a letter to a gentleman any more than how to direct it to a lady. I hold with using the "Esq.," unless you are writing to a man and his wife, when, of course, you must write Mr. and Mrs. John Standish; but many people in America have not the background of bringing up that makes esquire seem natural. If, therefore, it makes them uncomfortable to use it they had better stick to Mr., even if it is less distinguished.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HOW LONG TO ISOLATE FOR SCARLET FEVER.

J. S. K. writes: If this is in order, I would appreciate your writing an article on scarlet fever, stating the length of time for quarantine, also on fumigation after quarantine is broken.

I am asking this because we have been having a small scarlet fever epidemic in our city, and personally, I do not feel that the quarantines have been for a proper length of time, varying from two to three weeks.

REPLY.

A quarantine of two to three weeks is too short. We all feel that a five weeks' quarantine or isolation period in scarlet fever is too long in most cases.

Since scarlet fever is becoming so mild, and since proper cases treated by antitoxin get well so promptly, it is very difficult, if not impossible, to enforce a long isolation.

But we have no scientific basis for shortening it. A recent report shows that the streptococcus which causes scarlet fever remains in the throat for a while after the disease has let up. Almost every case of scarlet fever becomes a convalescent carrier, and so remains for a short while, regardless of whether or not antitoxin has been given. Another recent report shows that nearly every case is still a convalescent carrier at the end of three weeks after the onset of symptoms. Since some cases treated by antitoxin appear to be well at the end of a week, this means that the ex-patient is still a source of danger two weeks after his recovery from the disease. Here then is some scientific testimony that three weeks' quarantine is too short in scarlet fever. But so far as I know there is none which shows what is too long, or what is about right.

Experience shows that there are some cases that are still infective more than five weeks after the onset of the disease. Most of these are cases in which there is continuing tonsilitis, enlarged glands, or suppurating ears.

We need some easily applied test under which we could turn some cases loose in two weeks, some in three and some in four and five, while some would be held for six or more weeks. Meanwhile there is nothing to do but to obey the law. The law always requires more than three weeks. Those in charge are anxious to change the law so as to make it lighter on the sick person. As soon as they can find a scientific basis for change that will make the law fairer to the sick and at the same time protective to the people, it will be changed.

Fumigation is not very important. It is more important to destroy all nose and throat secretions and pus daily, to keep everything clean, and at the end of the illness, to wash, scour and air thoroughly.

THE MAGIC OF SERUM.

H. D. B. writes: 1. Has scarlet fever serum been developed to a point where I can be assured of getting it if my child catches the disease? Our first boy had it at 10 months and while we were very successful in combating the regular fever stage (we used baths to reduce the fever, which I believe aids the heart), the complications were severe, especially in the ears. Mastoiditis developed and an operation was necessary.

2. Would the serum make complications lighter?

3. Why is measles so fatal in the city, while it is not even a serious disease in this town?

REPLY.

1. Scarlet fever antitoxin acts like magic in suitable cases. The disease is bad today, an adequate dose of antitoxin is given, and the disease is virtually gone tomorrow.

2. It is least serviceable in the cases with complications.

3. It may be measles is no worse in the city than it is in your town. Measles without complications is a fairly mild disorder. Measles with complications is a grave one. Measles is milder in some epidemics and more severe in others. Your next epidemic may be a severe one.

SCHEDULE FOR NIGHT WORK.

Troubled writes: My husband has been notified that he is to work from 11:30 p. m. until 7:30 a. m. and I am at a loss to know when and how to feed him, and he does not know when the best time would be to sleep.

REPLY.

Let him come home and eat breakfast with you and the children. He will then go to bed as the children go to school. At 4:30 he will get up and get some exercise before dinner, at about 6. After that he will spend several hours in recreation and rest. Just before going to work let him eat a moderately heavy meal, like the usual breakfast, with coffee.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

Of course, the straight-haired girls never believe it, but their sisters with extremely curly hair have the more difficult problem to suit their coiffures to the present mode. What is to be done with kinky, crinkly, fuzzy hair that won't lie down and conform itself to the present fashion of the small sleek coiffure? (And here be it whispered that men and boys have long suffered with this problem when they found themselves blessed with the waves and ringlets that their sisters might have preferred having. So let them listen, too.)

Very often, a tight curl that has no claims to chic can be modified until it becomes a smooth wave that is truly smart. But it takes persistent treatment and patient effort.

In the first place, the hair ought to be evenly thinned out all over the head if it is naturally thick and bunchy. This can be done, of course, by a hairdresser. Never is the hair cut out in spots; instead, there is an even thinning of the locks all over the head, a process which one can scarcely master by oneself. Very curly hair is seldom so sparse as not to be able to stand this treatment.

Merely dampening the hair usually sends it into more violent kinks than ever. A more successul method of training the hair is as follows. When combing it, dip the comb in cold water and run it several times through the hair. If you prefer to use your regular scalp tonic, that might be substituted for the water. Then put a little brilliantine in the palm of the left hand, rub the teeth of the comb over it, and proceed again to comb the hair. Repeat this until the hair is flexible and lies smoothly, then brush the hair very vigorously.

If your scalp needs a pomade, that can be applied when desired and also tends to make the hair more tractable. Every time the hair is arranged, make a practice of "setting" it with the fingers and leaving it in this fashion.

If these instructions are faithfully carried out, day after day, a great improvement in appearance will be noticed. The same treatment may be applied to a permanent wave that has, through some accident, unfortunately turned out to be too "permanent."

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Contacts.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I have been reading your column for some time and am very much interested in the many problems that are brought to you. I am sure a great many people have received light along the particular dark spot in their paths that has been bothering them.

So I am coming to you, just why, I do not know exactly, unless loneliness is the reason and perhaps after you read my letter you will say I do not even have that excuse.

My husband has been dead six years. During that time I have studied and entered the business world. I have a position that enables me to meet my expenses, and dress so that I do not appear exactly shabby, although I can not afford evening dresses, satin slippers, fur coats, nor can I afford anything more than a very occasional matinee, in the way of amusements, as I have a daughter and a son in school. Now I can hear you say, "Lonely?" and I can answer "Yes!" I have some women friends but when I get home at night there is usually something to be done as I make our clothes and so feel that I can not do much visiting. I have no gentlemen friends. Several of my friends have asked me why I do not marry again. I usually answer them all the same way, "I can't find anyone who wants me." But really I have not met any one who really interested me.

I have an optimistic disposition and can really see the bright side, and when things seem to be going wrong, I know there is a good God in heaven who watches over all of us and who has taken care of me and the children since we have been alone and has smoothed out the path for us. Still, there are times when I just long for some one visible on whom I could drop all my worries, or who would understand and sympathize. Selfish and lacking in faith? Perhaps I am, but I am only human and lonely. You will say "Surely you are old enough to have more strength of character than that!"

Perhaps I should have developed more than I have; perhaps that is why I am writing to you to get your opinion of me. If I were to show this letter to my friends—I dare not even think what their thoughts would be, but then there is none of them in the same position in which I am placed. If you could see fit to publish my letter, with a few words expressing your opinion, I would appreciate it very much.

Yours very truly, LONELY.

Your mistake is my feeling that those little things to be done should prevent your going out evenings. This is a very common and very grave mistake. Set two nights apart for the social side of your existence. It is because you have been neglecting this side that you are beginning to be a bit edgey, a bit pessimistic. See your friends, brighten your life as you would brighten a room that was bare and dark and filled with shadows. Gradually you will increase in attractiveness, be more high-spirited, and radiate the mysterious something that makes one person sought while another, lacking it, is shunned. After all, you know, we can't get a number on the phone without taking down the receiver, can we? The contact must be established, the effort must be made. After that—results. Start your contacts.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CONTENTMENT.

Give me of friends a few,
Books on a shelf or two,
My easy chair and the lights aglow,
And what care I that a storm may blow?

Just let the rafters ring
With songs which my youngsters sing.
Let their mother smile at the eventide
And what care I for the storm outside?

Let the home with love be warm
Untouched by an inner storm,
And I'll ask no favors from pomp or pride,
And give no thought to the storms outside.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Feels Experimental

By Jay V. Jay.

It's all very well to sketch designs on drawing paper, but Mitzi feels that her talent will really only be apparent when she has yards and yards of materials to play with. That's why you see her trying to choose between invisible checks and very visible flowers.

A Roman stripe on sheer crepe has tremendous possibilities. A new taffeta with little flower buds suggests frocks demure or quaint. "Do get an inspiration soon," begs Polly, "my arm is awfully tired, holding these things." As is proper for an artist, Mitzi pays no attention.

Eventually, though, even Polly admits that the materials have been put into frocks much to their advantage. "Do something now for this plaid," she demands. "I've always wanted to wear plaid and now you can do me something that will be becoming even though I'm short."

"That's an advanced course," Mitzi answers diplomatically, "I haven't studied that yet." In the meantime she has found a reversible material that will make a striking topcoat. Something very straight and plain, Mitzi thinks, because after all the cloth speaks for itself.

Informal Yet Formal

© VOGUE 8793

DEAR VOGUE—I want a dress that I can wear to dinner, or the theater, or not-very-formal evening bridge parties—all the occasions when a very grand and formal evening gown seems out of place. Will you suggest something for me? I have dark hair and an olive skin. IDA.

Here is a frock that answers your requirements—it is decidedly "evening," and yet it has none of the formality of the ball gown. Made in georgette or crepe romain, it is delightful because it is given movement by the draped bertha collar with its swinging ends, and the full godets in the skirt.

Since you are dark, any of the nasturtium shades—flames, yellow-orange, and so on, should be becoming. Or you may be one of the brunettes who look well in green, and, if this is so, the dress would be charming in a clear jade for spring and summer wearing. You may have satin pumps dyed to match your frock.

Advise Women

to adopt new hygienic method and retain freshness this way; true protection; discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of old-time sanitary pads; 5 times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends all fear of offending.

✓ As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Buy without hesitancy, and be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves the risk of old ways.

L. Bamberger & Co.

(Incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey)

6½% Cumulative Preferred Stock

Of the above $10,000,000 Preferred Stock, $2,000,000 has been retained by the management for themselves and employees.

Preferred as to dividends, and as to assets to the extent of $110 per share plus accrued dividends in the event of any liquidation, voluntary or involuntary. Dividends payable quarterly, cumulative from March 1, 1927. Redeemable in whole or in part at $110 per share and accrued dividends. The Corporation agrees on or before the 1st day of March, 1930, and in each year thereafter, to acquire by redemption or purchase at not exceeding the redemption price, out of surplus and net profits, at least 3% of the largest amount in par value of the Preferred Stock which shall ever have been issued and outstanding.

Common Stock (No Par Value)	500,000 shares	500,000 shares

Mr. Louis Bamberger, President, has summarized his letter regarding the Corporation and its Preferred Stock as follows:

HISTORY AND EXPANSION

"The Bamberger store is the largest department store in New Jersey. It was founded in 1893 by Felix Fuld, Louis M. Frank, and myself, as a co-partnership, and from the very date of its inception it has enjoyed remarkable success.

Building operations are now in progress which will, within a period of probably eighteen months, increase our present space to over one million square feet, and double our present facilities. Toward the cost of this addition, estimated at approximately $10,000,000, the Corporation has arranged a mortgage loan of $6,000,000, out of which it will pay off the present mortgage of $1,525,000.

NEWARK AS A RETAIL MARKET

Newark at the time this business was started was a city of about 181,000. Today it is a metropolis of nearly 500,000 people, exclusive of the surrounding cities and towns, and is the fifteenth city in the United States in population. Recent statistics give the number of its factories at 1678. The value of its manufactured products is estimated as over $500,000,000 annually and in point of their variety Newark stands eleventh.

The wider circle which this store serves consists of the nine northern counties of New Jersey, which have an estimated population of 2,700,000. With the opening of the Hudson River Vehicular Tunnel, which is now in the final stages of construction, we expect a great increase of population.

SALES, PROFITS AND ASSETS

Net sales, and consolidated net profits of the Corporation and its subsidiaries after interest, depreciation and Federal income taxes, as certified by Messrs. S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., Certified Public Accountants, in each of the past five fiscal years, and the number of times the dividend requirement on the Preferred Stock now outstanding has been earned in each fiscal year, have been as follows:

Year Ended Jan. 31	Net Sales	Net Profits as above	Pfd. Div. Req. Times Earned
1923	$21,975,361	$1,573,029	2.42
1924	26,163,936	2,079,100	3.19
1925	28,003,301	2,287,258	3.51
1926	29,952,279	2,394,457	3.68
1927	32,508,089	2,784,837	4.25

The consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation and its subsidiaries, as of January 31, 1927, as certified by Messrs. S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., giving effect as at that date to the recapitalization of the Corporation, shows net tangible assets of $19,058,415, or over $190 for each share of Preferred Stock.

MANAGEMENT AND POLICY

The management will continue under the direction of my colleague, Mr. Fuld, and myself, who have been associated with this business since the beginning. There are also connected with the Corporation a group of important executives who have been with the business for many years. The business has always been operated upon a conservative but progressive plan. Our aim at all times has been to build a business of character as well as volume. This policy will be continued."

Price $104 Per Share and Accrued Dividend

We reserve the right to reject any and all subscriptions in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount applied for, and to close the subscription books at any time without notice. It is expected that delivery of temporary stock certificates or interim receipts (exchangeable for definitive stock certificates when prepared) will be made on or about March 1, 1927, at the office of Lehman Brothers, 16 William Street, New York, N. Y., against payment therefor in New York funds.

A letter from Mr. Joseph A. Wise, President, is summarized below:

HISTORY OF BUSINESS

Wise Bros. have been engaged in supplying milk, cream and other dairy products to Washington families for more than forty years, during which time the business has developed from selling to a few families the milk produced on two farms until today it supplies over 13,000 customers daily with the product of 200 farms.

STABILITY

Because of the fundamental nature of the dairy industry, securities of well managed dairy companies in the larger communities are entitled to a high investment rating. Since milk is so essential to life and good health, constant demand is assured. Because the entire output is sold each day, the business is free from inventory losses, and is conducted on virtually a cash basis. A striking illustration of stability is found in the fact that Wise Brothers' business has shown a profit during every one of the forty years of its existence.

EARNINGS

The net earnings shown below are after giving effect to economies resulting from this financing and eliminating certain non-recurring expenses. Deductions have been made for adequate depreciation and local taxes, but not for Federal Income Taxes.

	1921	1922	1923	1924	1925	1926
Gross Sales	$987,249	$1,095,011	$1,321,827	$1,450,460	$1,539,435	$1,754,698
Net Earnings	91,625	65,493	29,066	68,199	57,427	60,762

The net earnings for the above six-year period averaged $62,095.00, which is virtually 3 times dividend requirements on this issue.

It is estimated that, as a result of economies effected through this financing, net earnings for the current year will be in excess of $75,000, or more than 3½ times interest requirements on this issue.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of this issue of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock will be used to retire $150,000 of common stock, reducing the outstanding common stock from $500,000 to $350,000 to pay off all existing mortgages amounting to $25,500, and to provide additional working capital.

EQUITY

The Company owns, free of mortgage, real estate and plants (exclusive of its Martinsburg plant which represents an investment of $30,000) appraised by the Washington Real Estate Board at $205,000.00 and by Messrs. Farley D. Veale and J. McKenney Berry at $268,867.11. The Company also owns machinery, equipment, furniture and fixtures which cost $269,678.22, and which after adequate depreciation, is valued at $146,658.81. Net current assets are $111,583.26.

MANAGEMENT

All of the common stock is owned by the Wise Family and Mr. Raymond J. Wise will continue as General Manager.

The accounts have been audited, for the bankers, by Messrs. R. G. Rankin & Co. Legal details in connection with this issue have been approved, for the bankers, by Mr. G. Bowdoin Craighill, and, for the Company, by Mr. Edwin C. Brandenburg.

It is expected that permanent certificates will be ready for delivery on or about March 1, 1927.

Application will be made to list this Stock on the Washington Stock Exchange

RAILS BOUGHT FREELY AT ADVANCING PRICES

Gains in Carrier Group Extend to 6 Points; Industrials Also Active.

CALL FUNDS 4 PER CENT

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 16.—Buying of railroad shares was the outstanding feature of today's active stock market in which the turnover exceeded 2,500,000 shares. Both standard and nondividend paying carrier stocks were taken freely at advancing prices. Net gains in the group extended to 6 points. The industrials also were very active and some of them scored good net gains after a series of fluctuations, but at the close there were many more minus than plus signs in this division of the list.

Money renewed at 4 per cent and held there all day. The return flow of money to the banks following the February 15 payments was responsible for the return of easy conditions.

Almost two score of stocks were lifted into new high ground in the course of today, notwithstanding the more or less two-sided character of trading. The cut in car prices by Studebaker was seized upon as ammunition by traders for the decline and the whole motor group was attacked with selling orders, causing sharp loss of ground here and there, but good support appeared in the afternoon, stemming the tide of recession and causing a moderate upturn. At one time General Motors sold as low as 154⅞, then worked up to 157 and closed at 156, a net loss of 2 points. Mack Truck quit with a fractional gain, with all the rest of the group showing moderate recessions.

The movement in the railroad group was notable for both its vigor and its scope. At times securities of all other groups were elbowed aside to give traders in Wabash, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, New Haven, Canadian Pacific, Illinois Central, Atchison, Great Northern, Delaware & Hudson, Rock Island, St. Paul, Chicago Great Western, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Texas Pacific, Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette, and others, the center of the stage. Many of these carriers sold at new highs for the year.

Wabash led in activity with a turnover of 172,300 shares, closing at 66¼, a record high and gain of 1⅞. The preferred A shares also established a record high, closing at 87¾, up 2⅝. The steels, although not active, suffered in the profit taking movement, and as a rule, closed with fractional net losses. Baldwin Locomotive came to life and furnished fireworks in the industrial division, jumping 10 points to 188½, a new high record. Late in the session the price eased off, but a net gain of 9⅛ points was kept. International Harvester, after barely moving most of the day, shot forward more than 6 points in the final hour, reaching a record high at 161¼ and closing at 160¼, up 4¾ net. Activity in these two stocks stimulated some buying of other equipment shares.

Packing shares, sugars, oils, coppers and tobaccos drew a fair share of attention with losses and gains about evenly divided at the finish.

The first reaction of General Motors stock to the announcement of the sale of an additional $25,000,000 par value of preferred stock was downward. While the dividend necessary to take care of this additional preferred stock will be rather inconsequential in proportion to the yearly net earnings of General Motors, the street jumped to two conclusions. One was that if General Motors needs more cash, the chances of an extra dividend next summer are smaller than had been believed. The other was that, despite denials, the company was getting ready to take over some other concern, probably Mack Truck.

Heavy offerings of French bills, resulting in a fractional decline in rates on Paris, provided one of the features of the foreign exchange market. Sterling eased off fractionally, while lire received firm support. Argentine rates were lifted to a new high for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (By Associated Press.).—Helped by strength of rye, wheat rallied today from an early downturn. German reports were bullish as to rye, saying farm deliveries had stopped almost completely. Rye closed firm, ½ cent to 1⅜ cents net higher, with wheat irregular, ⅛ cent net lower to ⅜ cent gain; corn ¼ cent to 1@⅜ cents down, oats unchanged to ⅛@¼ cent off and provisions 2 cents to 15 cents up.

In connection with the notable trend of rye today, the fact was pointed out that if Germany needs anything like 20,000,000 bushels, as contended in some quarters, the supply available either from the United States or Canada is far from heavy. Another circumstance which attracted attention is that needs of other rye-consuming countries must also be taken into consideration. Inasmuch as wheat and rye together are the world's staple breadstuffs, the action of rye values led to good buying of wheat today whenever wheat prices declined.

Absorption of surplus offerings in wheat readily ensued, and gave a lively upturn to the wheat market just before the close. Talk of wheat export business under way at Winnipeg helped wheat to advance. Earlier the wheat market here tended downward, influenced by predictions of extra large shipments this week from Argentina.

Besides, weather conditions for the new domestic winter crop were regarded as notably auspicious and receipts in the Southwest were still of good volume.

Corn and oats were weak, cash demand being slow, with receipts more than ample for current needs.

Provisions advanced, largely because increases of Chicago warehouse stocks were smaller than expected.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—The cotton market weakened in today's late trading under liquidation by recent buyers and reports of increased Southern selling. Contract for May delivery sold off from 14.17 to 13.98 and closed at 13.99, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 10 to 12 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 3 points, with most active months higher on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool. There was a little more Southern selling, however, while there was also realizing or selling for a reaction after the advance of the previous day. Prices eased off several points after the call, March declining to 13.81 and October to 14.49, or 4 to 7 points net lower.

Trade buying and further buying here against sales in Liverpool absorbed these offerings readily, and the market steadied up during midday on covering by early sellers, who appeared to be impressed by reports of a continued steady basis in the Southern spot markets and the persistence of trade demand on declines. Contracts seemed comparatively scarce during midday, and the market recovered to nearly the opening prices on the more active positions.

The volume of business tapered off on the bulge, however, and prices weakened again later under a renewal of liquidation or realizing by recent buyers and rather more selling for Southern account, with March selling at 13.37, and October at 14.43. Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest.

Reports of more favorable and spring-like weather in the South have been a factor on the decline, although the weekly report of the weather bureau emphasized the wet condition of fields in the northern section of the belt and said harvesting of cotton remaining in the fields had been further delayed.

Exports for the day were 81,981 bales, making 7,242,930 so far this season. Port receipts, 31,205. United States port stocks, 2,798,502.

Jack Delaney Now 8 to 5 Favorite

Tradition of 'Good Big Man' in Maloney's Favor, However.

Frenchman May Let Bostonian Lead in Tomorrow's Bout.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Traditional supremacy of the "good big man" cast its shadow across the training ground of Jack Delaney today as he finished his final workout for Friday's $200,000 heavyweight battle at Madison Square Garden with Jim Maloney.

Pugilistic history has marshalled an impressive chapter of records to support the cause of Maloney. The triumph of the "good little man" has been an exception to the rule. But there have been departures, and among them have been the sensational triumphs of the 185-pound Jack Dempsey over huge Jess Willard and powerful Luis Firpo.

Championship conflicts of the last ten years were recalled by Maloney's backers tonight to justify their expectations of a Boston victory. Among them were Johnny Kilbane's quick defeat by Benny Leonard, Leonard's subsequent reverse at the hands of Jack Britton and Harry Greb's decisive victory over Mickey Walker.

The faith of Maloney's following was not reflected in the betting odds today however. Sentiment swung more sharply to Delaney, who jumped from a 6-5 to an 8-5 favorite. Money also was wagered freely at 1 to 2 that the light-heavyweight champion would knock out his heavier opponent.

Maloney's trainers have indicated that the Hub contender will wage the typical battle of the "big man," boxing in to the attack, and using his 25-pound weight advantage to wear down Delaney in the clinches. He plans a rough two-fisted offensive and has been concentrating on a right drive over the heart as the punch on which his hopes will be staked.

Contrasting sharply with Maloney's workouts against husky sparring mates, the Bridgeport boxer has played for speed. His daily tuneup sessions have been almost exclusively with flashy welterweights. Critics expect him to adopt a role of watchful waiting Friday night, permitting Maloney to do the leading and saving his terrific right for countering thrusts.

Colonials Win Over W. & M., 22 to 14

Carey and Goodson Lead in Defeat of Indians.

Score at Half, 12 to 7; Long Shots Fail Invaders.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S tossers are "right." At least they were last night when they exhibited their best form of the current season in defeating the William and Mary College team by a 22-14 score in the H street gymnasium.

The victory over American University earlier in the week must have been the tonic needed to bring out the best basketball of the George Washington team or maybe it was the work of "Legs" Goodson, recent addition to the club, which has accounted for the big change.

At any rate, the Colonials were "hot" last night and they knew it. The haphazard passing and long-distance shooting which has caused the lowering of the Buff and Blue banner on a number of occasions this season was conspicuous by its absence.

George Washington took the lead on the tap-off and remained ahead not by virtue of any luck shots but because they played better basketball than the Indians and would probably have matched the work of any team on their schedule. The Colonials led at half time, 12-7.

While all of the Colonials played well, it was the work of Jim Carey and Goodson which stood out. Instead of playing his customary back court game, Carey roamed the floor, ball chasing and shooting. His scoring contribution consisted of four field goals.

Goodson followed Davis, the big William and Mary center, like a shadow, finding time enough to drop in three baskets.

Hurlers Tired After Stiff Session

Schacht's Rib Broken in "The Kid's Last Fight" Here.

Nats' Lot of Recruits Among Best—Musicians in Game.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 15.—Despite the rigorous program of training under the supervision of Manager Bucky Harris and Coach Jack Onslow, none of the group of Washington's rookie pitchers has yet reported a sore arm, with the result that every succeeding workout sees a litle more speed put on the ball.

After some preliminary tossing to limber up, every one of the flingers, except Braxton, who arrived only yesterday, was allowed to let out a notch for a short stretch at this morning's drill and from all sides sounded the plunk of the ball landing in the big mitts—a sure indication that spring has "came."

The hardest work of the coaches and Manager Harris at this stage of the season is to keep the youngsters from traveling too fast. Each seems to think that he must start off in mid-season form and forgets that the squad pruning time is yet several weeks off.

Coach Onslow, however, has discovered an effective check on the desire of the rookies to try their speed, which every one of the lads admits is most efficacious. Instead of returning the pitches with a good throw, Onslow tosses it low, high, and all sides, the result being that much of their ambition disappears as a result of the muscle stretching and leg work necessary in retrieving the ball.

For 25 days before the Nationals arrived there was not a single drop of rain seen here, but the players drew a shower on their first day and another heavy downpour last night, making conditions underfoot unfavorable this morning. However, the boys were put through the whole program, including two extra games of volleyball.

Harris' team won two straight today, making it six in a row, and then Nick Altrock demanded a new deal, got it and led his team to victory in two out of three contests.

Several of the pitchers were so tired after these battles that they were excused from the footwork around the track, but most of them did their prescribed laps, and, in all, today's session was the most strenuous of any held so far.

Catcher John Berger arrived here this morning and was out in uniform bright and early. According to some of the players who have seen him perform, he has a better throwing arm than either Ruel or Tate, and is a nifty fielding performer, his main weakness being with the bat.

Will Rogers was a visitor at the Nat camp this morning. He took the occasion to get in a little rope practice and proved quite a competitor of the Nats as an attraction. Quite a number of fans turned out for the team's drills and at one time this morning Rogers had weaned away almost all of them.

President Griffith announced this morning that he and Bennie Tate, Bill Morrell and Horace Lisenbee had completed all contractual arrangements. These three har practically come to terms with the club, but had postponed the actual signing of the papers until they could obtain personal interviews with the Nat owner.

It begins to look now as though "The Kid's Last Fight," staged at the Earle theater at Washington last week, by Altrock and Schacht, was on the up and up. Al went to see a doctor this morning who told him that one of his ribs was slightly fractured. All of which proves that some fights are on the level.

Some of the rookies may not be the best pitchers, but they are mighty good musicians and there is some talk of the formation of a "simp-ony" orchestra. McEvoy sings well and can play both a violin and saxaphone—but not all at the same time. Van Alstyne operates a mean piano and Mangum is a yodler and makes a ukelele-banjo talk, while Burke is a wizard at tickling a three-string "uke."

With Altrock leading and Schacht doing the drum work all that is needed is a couple of wind-jammers.

Dutch Ruether, former National, was a visitor here today, coming over from St. Petersburg, where the Yankees will start training shortly.

Considerable work was done by the city officials on the diamond this morning. The bald spots in the infield were sodded, while the base paths were ploughed, rolled and given a top dressing of clay.

SHENANDOAH ROUTED BY AMERICAN

Sawyer's Sensational Shooting Features 40-15 Victory.

RECOVERING from the shock of its recent defeat at the hands of George Washington, the American University basketball team flashed some brilliant basketball last night to rout the Shenandoah College five, of Shenandoah, Va., 40 to 15. Two of American's mainstays, Banta and Birthright, were absent from the line-up at the start due to minor injuries, but the revamped team functioned in fine form and the issue was never in doubt.

Schloss dented the scoring column with a neat peg from the side court shortly after the initial whistle, and then Capt. Sawyer, with his flashy shooting, took the game into his own hands. Six successive times the speedy American captain netted the sphere, three of which were of the sensational variety, to give his mates a 14-0 lead in the first 10 minutes of play.

Ream broke the ice for the visitors with a long looper from center, but Kessler and Schloss retaliated with some fancy tossing under the net. A pair of baskets by Mason and Payne in the waning moments brought the count of the visitors up to 8 points against 20 for the Methodists.

The final half proved to be a scoring bee for the local collegians, with Kessler and Schloss prominent in the passwork. Banta and Birthright were sent into the fray for a few minutes workout, but the former found time to chalk a trio of two-pointers in quick order.

Asher, Oelschlaeger Lose on Florida Links

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Being joint medalist of the qualifying round failed to give Clyde Asher, of Washington, and A. E. Oelschlaeger, New York, much of an advantage. Both men were defeated in the first round of the St. Valentine's tournament match play today, Asher falling before L. P. Christenson, Westchester-Biltmore, N. Y., in a match that went 20 holes, and Oelschlaeger lost to Leslie Edgecombe, White Marsh, Pa., 3 to 1.

Harry Evans, the defending champion, won handily from J. D. Hoag, Salisbury, Long island, 6 to 5, in another feature match.

Jim Maloney Quit Working To Try Fight Game Again

If He Has Any Defects Friday Night Delaney Will Find It Out, Pegler Opines. Haunted by K. O. by King Solomon.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The employes at the city incinerator have a quaint old proverb to the effect that many a silver spoon is found in the ash can and many a cracked plate, too. This suggests the case of Jimmy Maloney, the Boston fish hostler, who will fight Jack Delaney in the Garden Friday night, provided that neither of the boys develops a case of diplomatic charley horse in the meantime, which is no fantastic idea at all, considering the fact that the bout would draw nigh into a million dollars in a ball yard a few weeks hence, but can't draw more than $200,000 in the Garden.

Just now there is no way of knowing whether Jimmy Maloney is a bit of jewelry found among the rubbish or just an item of rubbish himself. Certainly he was in the rubbish a few months ago, for he had been socked on the jaw and knocked absolutely frigid by a very inferior prize fighter named King Solomon and had retired to go to work.

To say that a prize fighter has retired means nothing, but to say that he has gone to work is a very different thing. It is true that Jimmy Maloney didn't go in for work in a very serious way. It was not hard enough work to result in social disqualification among the prize fighters.

He merely became a night watchman, the latest of a long line of badge-wearing, club-swinging Maloneys. But he was an ex-prize fighter with a low opinion of himself as a prize fighter, and a great many people concurred in this opinion.

But after a time work, even in its mildest form, became distasteful to Jimmy and he came back to the ring. This time he had a new manager, a man named Dan Carroll, who had been a sergeant cop in Boston himself.

Do you recollect a touching story that ran in the papers a couple of years ago about the attempt of Jack Kearns to shanghai another fellow's fighter away? It seemed that Kearns told Jimmy Maloney that if he would quit his manager and go with him he would make Jack Dempsey retire and bequeath the title to him.

The name of Maloney's manager was Johnny McGrath and he was regarded as a sort of chump because he had never taken the trouble to tie his man to him with a contract. Well, Maloney went straight to Johnny McGrath, told him the story and with tears squirting down his face, stuck out his hand and said: "Johnny, old pal, I told him I would not throw you down for all the dough in the world."

Well, this is the same McGrath who isn't managing Maloney any more, so something seems to have marred the only really beautiful friendship in the prize fight profession.

It was while Maloney was under the management of Johnny McGrath that Jimmy Maloney was hit on the chin by King Solomon. Jimmy hit the floor in one lump and didn't come to for ten minutes. In the meantime Johnny had convinced the referee that Solomon's blow landed after the bell ended the round and the referee had awarded the fight to Maloney on a foul.

When Maloney came to, McGrath told him he had been fouled and Jimmy leaned over the ropes to the press coop and said, "He fouled me, fellows; he hit me way low."

But, anyway, Maloney began to look like junk to the Boston customers who couldn't get over the idea of a Boston Maloney being knocked out by anybody named Solomon, even by a low punch on the jaw. So the customers lost interest in Jimmy Maloney and at last he quit the ring by mutual consent and took up work in a mild way.

Well, eventually, this Carroll came along and saved him from this folly and since then Jimmy Maloney has been making a fortune. He licked Arturo De Kuh, Franz Diener, Harry Persson and Tiny Herman and he is supposed to be another Dempsey, although it is swinging pretty far out into space to say that because none of these fellows could fight much except Persson, who was just fair.

This bout with Delaney should demonstrate whether the object that Dan Carroll found in the rubbish is something valuable or just a cracked platter. If there's a crack in Maloney, this Delaney will break him up.

Royalty Sees British Star Knock Out Rival

London, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Teddy Baldock, young English flyweight, who recently completed a boxing invasion of the United States, knocked out Johnny Brown in the third round of a fifteen-round bout at Albert hall tonight.

The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, attended the bout.

German Tennis Stars Facing Busiest Season

Berlin, Feb. 15 (By A. P.).—The German Tennis association is preparing for the busiest season of international play in thirteen years. The readmittance of Germany into the international tennis federation and the certainty of German competition in the Davis cup play have brought a big increase of invitations for international matches.

The association expects to send a team of at least two men and two women to Wimbledon.

Franklin and Ptomey Battle Here Tonight

Billy Franklin, of New York, and Willie Ptomey, all-service middleweight champion, will clash in the headline attraction at the Aloysius club tonight. Five other matches have been carded, including a return bout between Sylvan Bass, of Baltimore, and Harry Groves, of the Mohawk club, in which Groves will seek revenge for the decision Bass received over him at Hagerstown a short time ago.

Other bouts scheduled are: Benny Toothman vs. Joe Piscatella; Billy Steers vs. Jack Lowry; Frankie DeAngelo vs. Sammy Moreno, and Walt Jenkins vs. Jack Denham.

Siren Jeopardizes Jack Dempsey's Job

Los Angeles, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Jack Dempsey may lose his position as deputy fire marshal, to which he was appointed three months ago, as a result of an investigation begun today by the Los Angeles police commission to determine under what authority the former heavyweight champion equipped one of his automobiles with a siren and red lights.

Dempsey declared, following the opening of the investigation, that he has not used the fire siren on his car since it was installed after his appointment as a deputy fire marshal.

Both the Los Angeles fire chief and the chief of police said they had not given the boxer permission to equip his automobile with siren and lights such as used by police and fire cars.

Six-Day Bike Races Attacked as "Inhuman"

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Six-day bike races, threatened as "inhuman" by a city ordinance, were defended here today as "an American institution" by Tex Rickard's cycling manager, John M. Chapman.

Answering an assertion of Alderman James F. Kiernan, sponsor of the measure, that only "low-type patrons" attend the marathons, Chapman offered a list of prominent spectators at recent races. Included among the names were those of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Mayor Walker, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Douglas Fairbanks and Will Rogers.

Twice daily Madison Square garden is aired and general conditions at the grind have been pronounced as of the best by experts. Chapman said in answer to a criticism by Kiernan that the all-night assemblage of spectators causes "an insanitary and possible verminous condition."

Kiernan's ordinance would limit distance bicycle races here to a period between 8 a. m. and midnight and would prohibit any rider from continuing in an event for more than 3 hours during any 24-hour period.

Wickhorst to Coach Iowa Eleven's Line

Iowa City, Iowa, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Frank H. Wickhorst, captain of the United States Naval Academy's team last fall and the selection of many authorities as an all-American tackle, has been signed as assistant football coach at the University of Iowa. He will report September 15 and will act as head line coach.

Penn State Nine Plays At Hilltop April 18

Meeting Georgetown at Washington, April 18, and the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, April 16, as well as most of the other leading Eastern colleges, Coach Hugo Bezdek of Penn State has arranged an impressive baseball schedule well able to tax the ability of his veteran team.

A training trip of seven days early in April will watch the Nittany Lions against six North Carolina and Washington institutions yet to be announced. Battery men have already begun training for the strenuous Southern trip, but the rest of the squad will not report until weather permits.

Diener to Box Scott, English Champ, Mar. 4

Berlin, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Franz Diener, who forfeited his title as German heavyweight champion by staying in the United States longer than the prescribed time, and who barely succeeded in scoring a point victory over the Dutch heavyweight, Piet Vanderveer, several night ago, will soon have another chance to show the homefolks what he learned about fighting in America. He is signed to meet Phil Scott, heavyweight champion of England, in Berlin, March 4.

It probably will be April before Diener will be called upon to fight to regain his crown against a contender to be named by the boxing commission after an elimination tournament.

Germany to Make Bid For Olympics in 1936

Berlin, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Deprived by the war of a chance to stage the Olympic games, Germany is going to make a strong bid for the 1936 games. The German Olympic committee has voted to authorize President Dr. Otto Lewald to present the invitation to the International Olympic committee with the assurance that the country's financial position and the revival of enthusiasm for sports guarantee first-class competitions. Italy is regarded as the most dangerous rival for the honor.

A public appeal for funds to send athletes to the 1928 games at Amsterdam will be started soon. The reichstag finance committee has promised to appropriate 150,000 marks this year and 300,000 marks next year to help defray expenses, but it is estimated that twice that sum will be needed.

TALBERT DEFEATS REDDY.

Fred Talbert won the pocket-billiard match at the Arcadia last night from William Reddy by a score of 100 to 73. His high run was 24. Tonight's match will be between Edward Tindel and Fred Reynolds.

C. U. BEATEN, 37 TO 21, BY FORDHAM

3,500 See New York Team Lead, 21 to 5, at End of Half.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Fordham University's basketball quintet gained sweet revenge tonight for one of its two defeats this season when it decisively conquered Catholic University, of Washington, 37 to 21. The game was played in the Maroon Gymnasium before a crowd of 3,500.

Catholic University was one of the two teams to score over Fordham this season, the other being Manhattan, but the defeat at the hands of the Washington five was the more disastrous for it came after the Maroon had scored eleven successive victories. As a result Coach Kelleher's men were out to even matters decisively. The coach discarded his usual method of starting his second team, using the regulars until the result was no longer in doubt.

This first team was remarkably effective in the first half, piling up an advantage of 21 to 5 before the whistle sounded. As the teams played evenly in the second session—each scored 16 points—it was the opening period that decided the battle.

The visitors threatened to repeat their 31-23 victory by rushing the Maroon off its feet in the first few minutes for three points, but they did not tally again until the final second of the first half. Fordham, meanwhile, was rushing through the Catholic team with amazing regularity, with White and Dougherty doing most damage.

In the second half, likewise, the visitors were first to score, but again the Maroon attack got under way, until with three minutes left, Coach Kelleher sent in the reserves with the count standing at 35 to 15.

With the substitutes on the floor, Harvey and Foley, of the visitors, added six points to two for Scanlon. White and Dougherty were the high scorers for the Maroon, with ten points each. Foley and Harvey who were the main factors in the previous victory over Fordham, were comparatively harmless tonight.

Fordham's record for the season is now sixteen victories and two defeats.

Mitchell Wins Twice In Pocket Billiards

Three matches were played in the handicap pocket billiard tournament at the King Pin parlors last night, W. H. Mitchell playing in two and being returned the winner in each contest.

In his first match he defeated M. H. Johnson (105) by a count of 85 to 67. Mitchell played from a handicap of 85. In his second match he defeated L. W. Collins (85) by a still better margin, 85 to 56.

The third match of the evening brought together Charles Stickney (100) and J. Maynard (85). Stickney ran out his required 100, while the best Maynard could cluster was 74.

Tonight Cohen plays Smith and Thomas meets Larman.

Lieut. Col. Margetts Named Polo Chairman

Lieut. Col. Nelson E. Margetts, general staff, has been named chairman of the army central polo commmittee that will supervise polo throughout the army and will organize teams to represent the service in national tournaments, it was announced at the War Department yesterday.

Others assigned to the committee are Maj. Willis D. Crittenberger, cavalry, secretary-treasurer; Lieut. Col. E. H. DeArmond, field artillery; Majs. Henry W. Baird, cavalry; C. L. Scott, quartermaster corps; Cortland Parker, general staff, and Robert E. O'Brien, infantry.

The army will enter a team in the open championship, which is the senior tournament played in America, this year. It holds the following titles: British-American army, intercircuit, junior and twelve goal team championships.

Chicago and New York Women Lead Golfers

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Miss Virginia Van Vie, Chicago, and Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, New York city, today loomed as outstanding favorites in the annual Florida woman's golf tournament over the Palm Beach Country club course. Miss Van Wie, medalist and present title-holder, further defended her crown in defeating Miss F. Stifel, Wheeling, Va., 7 and 6, in the most decisive victory of the day.

In the lower bracket Miss Gottlieb, winner of the Miami Beach woman's tournament last week, advanced to the semifinal rounds by eliminating Mrs. H. C. Phipps, Westbury, L. I., 1 up.

Mrs. Austin Pardue, the former Dorothy Klotz, Hibbing Minn., beat Mrs. Norman Toerge, Long island, 1 up at the nineteenth hole.

In another hard-fought match Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., defeated Mrs. J. E. Davis, New York, 2 to 1.

Tomorrow Miss Van Wie will oppose Mrs. Pardue, while Miss Gottlieb will meet Miss Quier.

"Charges Ridiculous" Says Aquatic Official

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Joseph Reilly, New York aquatic official, today described as "ridiculous" the charges of Pete Wendell, Omaha coach, that he exercised a dictatorship over the recent national A. A. U. swimming meet in Buffalo, N. Y.

"This meet was attended by seven members of the national committee," he said, "and every decision that they rendered was by unanimous vote after careful consideration."

Wendell, he explained, had opposed semi-final heats in the backstroke event because the father of Corinne Condon, eventual winner, objected to his daughter swimming three times.

"But the other members of the committee pointed out that the contest was a very open one, due to the death of Sybil Bauer, and that at least eight girls must be considered serious contenders." Reilly said there were twelve girls entered and the committee felt that if only heats were held with the winner of each to qualify, one or more of the strong contenders might be shut out of the final. Mr. Wendell apparently was won over by this logic, and when a vote was taken the entire committee agreed on semi-final heats."

CROUCH WINS OVER GREEN.

Everett Crouch defeated Carl Green, 100 to 47, in the pocket-billiard tourney at Scanlon's parlors last night. Bert Watt will oppose Frank Hissey in tonight's match.

ADAMAS, FIELDS UP, WINS AT MIAMI IN GAME FINISH

Julie Scores In Opening Event

High Game Outruns Juveniles; Cerulean Just Lasts.

Rosetta Stone Winner of Sixth; Black Bart Captures Final.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Jeff Livingston added another purse to his long string of victories when his good colt Adamas, well ridden by Fields, won the fifth race, a six furlong sprint. The colt was heavily played, therefore his triumph was popular. He ran the distance in the good time of 1:13, which is very fast considering track conditions. Big Bill Thompson was second and One Way third.

Piccadilly rushed to the front and opened a wide lead over the field, but tired badly in the stretch and finally pulled up last. Meanwhile Fields brought Adamas up and closing gamely won by half a length over Big Bill Thompson, with One Way third a length back.

Julie, running in her best form and breaking well in her stride, won the first event. She stepped the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5. Julie's form here has not been any too good, with the result the players passed her up. She rushed to the front and leading by several lengths all the way, won in a drive by a half length over the favorite Pani Roma, with Mungo third, a length and a half back.

A. Barkli's High Game, by High Time—Miss Inver, and a top-heavy favorite, won the baby race over the three furlong route. He never left the result in doubt.

J. Callahan got him away flying and the colt quickly ran into a long lead. The boy brought him out to the easy going and all through the final furlong Callahan was looking back at the field. Miss Fire beat Southern Kiss half a length for the place.

Palm Court and Jockey Clelland proved a winning combination in the third event. His margin of victory was very small, but his victory was due largely to the perfect ride he received. Clelland, who has recently shown good riding ability, put up one of his good finishes to land his mount a winner. Alex Woodliffe was much the best, but under a weak ride lost the race. Palm Court won by a head over Alex Woodliffe, who beat Gareth half a length.

M. A. Silver's Cerulean, with Workman up, won the fourth event, a mile and a furlong gallop for old horses. Phidias was second and Delusive third. Sandrae, the favorite, performed poorly and was weakly ridden, being taken all over the track.

Grand King and Cerulean alternated in the lead, but at top of the stretch Grand King tired, and Cerulean took up the running. However, Cerulean just lasted to win by a head over Phidias, with Delusive third, a length back.

A. Taylor's Rosetta Stone was an easy winner of the sixth race, a mile and a sixteenth gallop. Porto Bello Gold was second and Durie M third. Durie M and Rosetta Stone alternated in the lead for first half a mile, then Durie M. tired. Rosetta Stone drew away to win by two lengths. Porto Bello Gold beat Durie M eight lengths for place.

Black Bart, with Ray up, was an easy winner in the last race by three lengths over Cogwheel, with Wheatstick third.

CELTIC STAR MAY FIGURE IN TRADE

Chicago Pro Five Said to Seek Holman or Lopchick.

WHILE the Chicago Bruins and the New York Celtics are clashing tonight in the first of their two-game series at Chicago, representatives of the two clubs may be putting their heads together on a deal, which, according to reports from the Windy City would transfer Joe Lopchick or Nat Holman to the Bruins for a large cash consideration.

It seems that Owners Lorrie Walquist and George Halas are determined that the Bruins shall finish the American league season in strong style and make the going tough for the pennant contenders; this in spite of the fact that their team has hardly a mathematical chance of winning the flag.

Within the last three days the Chicago club owners have signed Homer Stonebreaker, veteran center, formerly with Fort Wayne, and bought "Honey" Russell, stellar guard of the champion Cleveland Rosenblums.

With this pair added to Wickhorst, Mahoney and Guenther of the old combination, Chicago's prospects for a better showing already have brightened.

New York, however, already has disposed of Johnny Beckman, the brainy forward now piloting Baltimore, and it is hard to figure out how the Celtics could continue to remain in the thick of the pennant battle if they let another important cog of their machine get away.

At present the Celtics are threatening Washington in first place and it is possible for them to take the lead by the end of the week, for if they win the remainder of their games this week while Ray Kennedy's team loses to Cleveland Saturday night, they will be the only undefeated quintet in the league.

Local Gunners Meet Baltimore Saturday

The fourth Washington-Baltimore shoot, under the auspices of the Amateur Trapshooting association will be held at the Oriole Gun club's grounds at Baltimore, Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Of the three races held this year, the local club has been victorious in two.

Singles, doubles and five and ten-man team races will be on the program, open to all amateur members of gun clubs. Trophies and prizes will be awarded under the standard classification system, and scores made will be included in the official records of the A. T. A.

Nee Stars as Central Beats Episcopal, 26-24

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 16.—Trailing for three quarters, the Central High school five fought its way to a 26-24 victory over the Episcopal High quintet here today. At no time in the three quarters of play did the visitors hold the lead, but enjoyed a tie at the end of the third quarter.

Coach Coggins' team came back in the last half with added strength and tied the score before the Episcopalians could make a single marker and thus took the lead. The addition of Nee to the line-up put new life in the team. Nee led his team in scoring, with eight points to his credit. Bryant, Episcopal's high-point scorer, also scored eight points.

Capt. Swift and Boogher displayed the best brand of defensive ball for Central and Episcopal, respectively.

Old Dominions Beat Canoe Five, 24 to 17

Old Dominion tossers secured revenge for an earlier defeat by handing the Washington Canoe five a 24-to-17 drubbing last night on the Central High court in a crucial Nautical league contest. Joe Mitchell and Ike Driefuss, of the boatmen, each accounted for eight points to lead the scoring of their team, while Bob McCartee rang up a like number of tallies for the losers. At half-time the Old Dominion five was in the van by a 13-to-10 count.

MARINE NINE TO PLAY 22 GAMES

Catholic U. to Be Met Twice; New Material Abundant.

TWENTY-TWO baseball games with leading Eastern schools have been scheduled for the Quantico Marine team this year. Of these, Catholic university will be played twice and Gallaudet once.

At least ten veterans of last year's large squad are still located at Quantico, but will have to fight for their positions against a host of new material. Among the newcomers are William Derr, catcher, and William Scarlett, George Fortier and Sanford Young, infielders.

Capt. Freeny will assist Coach J. T. Keady at Quantico, while Lieut. Bailey will coach at Parris island. Richard Duncan, outfielder, and George Monteith, first baseman, will also go to Parris island.

The schedule follows:

April 1, Bucknell university, at Quantico; 4, University of Vermont, at Quantico; 5, University of Vermont, at Quantico; 8, Catholic university, at Quantico; 13, Temple university, at Quantico; 14, Temple university, at Quantico; 16, Lafayette college, at Quantico; 18, St. Bonaventure's college, at Quantico; 19, St. Bonaventure's college, at Quantico; 23, Western Maryland college, at Quantico; 26, Wake Forest, at Quantico; 29, Virginia Military institute, at Quantico.

May 4, Gallaudet college, at Quantico; 7, Virginia Military institute, at Lexington; 12, Gettysburg college, at Quantico; 16, Guilford college, at Quantico; 18, Washington college, at Quantico; 19, Washington college, at Quantico; 24, Catholic university, at Washington; 27, West Virginia university, at Morgantown; 28, West Virginia university, at Morgantown; 30, West Virginia university, at Morgantown.

Passon Tops Saunders In Pro Scoring Race

Chick Passon, of Philadelphia, refuses to quit dogging the tracks of Rusty Saunders, Washington's star forward, in the individual scoring race of the American Basketball league, the records inclusive of Tuesday's games show. The Quaker sharpshooter, in fact, has once more spurted to the front, his total now being 250 points in 28 games, while he has pulled Saunders down to second place with a total of 242 in 25 games.

Manager Ray Kennedy continues to occupy third place with 229 markers in 25 contests, and Nat Hickey and Carl Husta, of Cleveland, follow in fourth and fifth places, respectively.

Benny Borgemann, Fort Wayne captain, holds on to his honor as highest average point scorer with a mark of 10.35 produced with 207 points in 20 games.

Following are the first ten individual scorers and averages:

Washington Prep Five Faces 2 Strong Foes

The Washington Preps, an entrant in the Jewish Community Center league, faces games with two of Baltimore's championship teams on successive nights next week. Sunday they will play the L. Slesinger's Sons team, Baltimore 135-pound champions, and Monday the St. Gerald five, champions of the Baltimore Church league.

If they are successful in the first of these contests they will be engaged as a preliminary attraction to the Baltimore-Washington pro game to be played in Baltimore.

Western High Routs G. W. Freshmen, 37-19

The George Washington freshmen were unable to cope with the brand of basketball exhibited by the Western High five last night and took a 37-19 beating. Coombs, Walker and Garber did most of the scoring for the Westerners, who led all the way. Young, a former Western player, did the best work for the freshmen.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

MITT me kid.

Just was in touch with the chief of the "dynamiting" brigade who tells me "The boys are going to go after the big kale this afternoon with FORGET ME NOT." On recent morning trials as well as private information I suggest you pay close attention to the gab—it really talks. CHICKVALE which is better than a green hand, is also well rated. SLOW TIME and BETSY BACON are right bang up. There was a small commission planted here—overnight—on the latter.

SIMON'S KISS, which has been well touted as an old-fashioned sleeper—the last two times under colors—is again sent along. You have the info for what it is worth.

One thing I do know, "they" are betting today. Ye wekkum.

ACCOMPLISH, a real speed merchant, hung right at the end of that last effort, after she had Sun Altos and the others well beaten. She was undoubtedly a bit short in that effort. Sammy Holman has TANGARA finer than split silk. Worked 5 furlongs in 1:00 4-5, one of the best moves during the meeting. NABISCO is "Bricks" XXX special. In the event the going turns muddy, it then would be "Katy, bar the door."

Over at New Orleans, where the flipfloppers have public and weisenheimers dizzy, I understand the wraps are to be taken off QUINCE GARDEN, Col. Bob Baker s'good bread-winner. In his present form he can win—if allowed to run. Too bad we can not ride 'em, too.

TESTER, this way rigged, figures to tin can from end to end. That last effort don't go. SENATOR NORRIS was the hottest kind of an overnight "tip." A glance at the weight adjustment shows what the handicapper thinks of his chances. GOOD SHEPHERD, which was out for an airing last time, is a pretty shifty trick. Watch him take this field by the head and run 'em bowlegged. CONTEMPLATE is a bit erratic, and was bet on in China last time.

If STARBECK can be relied upon to run back to his previous winning effort, it will be "little puff of smoke, good night." Now, you tell one. More anon.

Battery C Undefeated In Fort Myer League

For the second successive year, the Battery C, Sixteenth Field Artillery five completed an undefeated basketball season in the Fort Myer league. The team's total point score for the year was 318, against 162 for its opponents.

First Sergt. William Gleason, captain, scored 108 points in the season's play and his floor work with that contributed by Lieut. George D. Pence at center, was largely responsible for the successful season.

Georgetown Freshmen Play Central Feb. 25

Central High's five will play the crack Georgetown Freshman team on February 25 at the Arcadia it was learned yesterday. Both teams have been the most consistent winners in this section this season and the game is likely to draw a large crowd.

WINTONS WOULD PLAY.

The Winton A. C. five wants games with 130-135-pound clubs. Call the manager at Adams 969 after 5 o'clock.

Merrimac Midgets Stop Colorado Five

Led by J. Maloney, who scored 16 points, the Merrimac Midgets trimmed the Colorado five yesterday, 35 to 18. Raferty also starred for the winners, while Atkins made the most points for the Colorado team.

NEW ORLEANS HANDICAP FRIDAY

Veteran Campaigners Predominate List of Eligibles.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Campaigners of other years predominate in the list of eligibles for the $50,000 New Orleans handicap, to be run at the Fair Grounds track Friday. Only three 3-year-olds, possible Kentucky derby candidates, are among the 28 now considered probable starters. One 6-year-old, twelve 5 and the same number of 4-year-olds complete the list.

The 3-year-olds are Scotland, by Light Brigade; Good Shepherd, by Golden Bloom, and Justice F. by Abbots Trace. These comparative youngsters, however, are running behind Cannae, Broadway Jones and Noah in the racing gossip among the 5-year-olds, and King Nadi and Boon Companion, 4-year-olds.

Cannae negotiated the fastest mile and a sixteenth of the meet in winning the Coliseum purse yesterday. The horse, L. Strube's candidate for the big purse, covered the distance in 1:47. Broadway Jones took a slow workout today, ambling a mile in 1:48 4-5 and a mile and an eighth in 2:01 3-5. The horse, an Idle Hour entry, will carry 132 pounds, top weight of the race.

Noah also has been placed among the weight carriers in the race, only Broadway Jones and King Nadi being given heavier imposts. The son of Peter will carry 123 pounds i nthe first long distance race. For two years, however, Noah was the leading sprinter in Harry Payne Whitney's stable before being bought by Col. P. T. Chinn.

King Nadi, who has started only once this season and on that occasion failed to show, is being ranked high by track gossipers in spite of his past performance. Troxler's horse will carry 129 pounds in the handicap.

Baltimore "Y" Five Plays Here Tonight

Y. M. C. A. basketball teams from Washington and Baltimore will clash tonight at the local club's gymnasium, with the Washington five anxious to avenge the defeat handed them at Baltimore earlier in the season.

Kaufman, the visitors' veteran forward, is their scoring star, and Coach Schlosser is directing plays to stop him. Players are requested to report at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:15 o'clock.

Green to Meet Nixon On Arcadia Mat Card

Preliminary to the Joe Stecher-Charley Hanson match for world heavyweight wrestling honors February 24 at the Arcadia. Elmer Dutch Green, of Washington, and Harry B. Nixon, of Fort Myer, will grip for the middleweight championship of the South. Green, through his manager, Rob Roy Mackey, president of the Mohawk Athletic club, claims the Southern title.

Green weighs 156 pounds and nearly all his mat bouts have been with heavier men. He will concede about 10 pounds to Nixon.

Hanson has gone into strenuous training for his shot at Stecher, the scissors hold king, who claims the world's championship.

HANDIBOE IS CLEVER.

"Nick" Handiboe probably is one of the youngest athletes participating in unlimited ranks. He played guard on the Stanton eleven against such teams as the Mohawks and Apaches during the past football season. At present he is the main threat of the Minson Wonder five. Rumor has it that he will enter Gonzaga next fall.

G. U. PLAYS WILLIAM & MARY FIVE TONIGHT IN FINALE

Northern Trip Of Quintet Canceled

Snyder Is Threat of Invaders Who Lost to Colonials.

Coach Little Away; May Be Seeking Baseball Tutor.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY'S basketball team will make its final appearance of the season tonight, meeting the William and Mary college tossers in the Ryan gymnasium, starting at 8 o'clock.

The abrupt ending of the Hilltop court season was due to the calling off of the scheduled northern trip which was occasioned by a cancellation on the part of one of the New York opponents, Georgetown officials announced yesterday.

Georgetown was to have played Fordham, Crescent A. C. and St. Joseph's on successive nights next week.

Indications are that Georgetown followers will be given an eyefull of basketball tonight before the tossers turn in their suits.

While William and Mary was forced to bow to George Washington last night, the Indians showed a well-balanced combination of sizable players and a shooting threat of parts in Snyder, one of the leading Virginia collegiate players.

Georgetown has not been in competitive action for more than a week, but should not be affected, due to the ardent preparation the squad had been making for the trip to New York.

Any disappointment the Hilltop basketers may have at not making the trip may be inserted into their play tonight, which would mean that William and Mary must be at the top of its game to carry off the honors.

Georgetown probably will start Nork and McCann, forwards; Hickey, center, and Donovan and Flavin, guards.

While some of the football players jockeyed about the gymnasium yesterday on their own account, spring practice, scheduled to start Monday, has now been postponed until next week.

Coach Lou Little has left the city on a business trip which may or may not have to do with the signing of a coach for the baseball team. Little will join the boxing team at Syracuse on Saturday night.

Swinebourne Runs Third In Newark Special Race

Newark, N. J., Feb. 16.—Eddie Swinebourne, of Georgetown university, was third in the 400-meter special invitation race here tonight. Johnny Gibson, of Fordham, garnered the premiere honors, taking the lead at the outset and holding it throughout. Vincent Lally, flying the colors of the Brooklyn Knights of Columbus, was second.

The winner's time was 51 3-5 seconds.

Isherwood Tossers Beat Elliotts, 34-25

The Isherwood five defeated the Elliotts last night, 34 to 25. Irving, Wilson and Pattan led the winners' attack. A baseball meeting of the Isherwoods will be held tonight at the Noel house.

Warwick Collegians Bumped by Calvary

Whatever prestige the Calvary M. E. team lost in being defeated by the Stantons it made up last night when it took the measure of the Warwick Collegians, 28 to 24, in an extra-period game played in the Calvary gym. Scrivener tied the score at 21-all with a brilliant shot with less than a minute of the regulation time to be played. With Dunn, Scrivener accounted for most of his team's points.

In the absence of Joe Croson, Dutch Krumm played center for the Warwicks and shared the scoring honors with Boots Scruggs.

In a preliminary, the Calvary Reds defeated the Calvary Reserves, 48 to 26. Woodward starred.

Annual City Duckpin Meet Set for April 18

With but nine weeks of the regular bowling season ahead of it, the Washington City Duckpin association is making definite plans for the annual tournament that will open on April 18 at Convention hall.

President George L. Iseman last night made public the personnel of the general tournament committee that will meet at Convention hall at 8 o'clock tonight to outline the procedure for the 1927 campaign.

Mr. Iseman will act as chairman, while A. L. Ebersole has been named as secretary of the committee. The other members include H. Z. Greer, Howard Campbell, Roy Houser, C. C. Heltman, jr., E. E. Barber, Tad Howard and Albert Gardner.

Wildermuth yesterday was honored by the Georgetown faculty for his high scholastic standing, being presented with a testimonial of excellence in studies. The Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., president of the university, commented upon the excellent classwork of athletes at Georgetown at a meeting of the faculty and student body.

CUP TIE PLAY PAIRINGS MADE

Rosedale-Monroe and Walford-Germans to Meet Sunday.

DRAWINGS were made last night at a meeting of the Washington soccer league for the cup tie matches, to be played Sunday with the following pairings resulting: Rosedale vs. Monroe at the Rosedale playground and Walford vs. German-Americans on the Monument grounds.

The Concord and Marlboro clubs drew byes and will play in the semi-finals. Concord will play the winner of the Rosedale-Monroe tilt and Marlboro meets the Walford-German victor.

Plans are under way to play a soccer game at Fort Washington on Washington's birthday between the team representing that post and a selected all-American team from the Washington soccer league. Only players born in this country will be eligible to represent the local league in this match.

The selected players from the Washington soccer league follow: Fey, Monroe; Wingate, Monroe; Suit, Marlboro; Trundle, Monroe; Nicholson, Marlboro; O'Connor, Rosedale; C. Wyville, Marlboro; E. Clark, Monroe; M. Wyville, Marlboro; Franco, Fort Myer, and F. Wyville, Marlboro.

Epiphany Chapel Five Wins Double-Header

The Epiphany Chapel quintet annexed both ends of a double header last night in the Epiphany gym, defeating the Palace Juniors in the opener by a 38-to-25 score and following up this victory with a 35-to-25 triumph over the Atlas Midgets. The playing of Johnson was outstanding in both games.

King Pin Bowlers Play At Baltimore Tonight

"Bill" Woods King Pin club, augmented by the services of Glenn Wolstenholme, Convention Hall star, who is proclaimed the greatest bowler in the East, will motor to Baltimore this afternoon, where it will meet the Cashmyer's All-Stars, reputed to be the strongest club that has ever represented the Maryland metropolis in intercity competition.

The King Pin club's starting line-up probably will be Megaw, Weidman, Logan, Campbell and Wolstenholme, with Welsh, Burtner and Harville being held in reserve should any of the starters falter in the stretch. The Baltimoreans number among their players some who have previously demonstrated their skill on the local drives, including Olive Ruark Ray von Dreele and John Rupple.

Five games will be rolled tonight, with five more being booked in Washington on March 5. Total pins will decide the winner of an appropriate purse that has been named for each block.

GALLAUDET'S FIVE BEATS STRAYER'S

Cosgrove's Shooting Is Factor on 48-41 Triumph.

TRAILING Strayer's 11 to 6 at the beginning of the second quarter, Gallaudet, largely through the sharpshooting of Cosgrove and Dyer, outscored Strayer's at the City club yesterday, 48 to 41.

Ability to break up their opponents' passing game aided materially in the Kendall Greeners' victory. The blue and white tossers were everywhere and a last-minute effort in the fourth quarter by the Strayer's five to locate the basket from long range proved unsuccessful.

The down-town team scored 11 times from the foul line out of 20 attempts.

The second quarter was the big scoring session for Gallaudet, Cosgrove, Hokanson and Bilger looping them in from all angles for a total of 24 points during the period. Strayer's seemed wearied after its first quarter efforts, and the speedy Cosgrove dribbled through their defense time and again, or received long passes under the basket for scores.

Moose A. C. Athlete In Aloysius Marathon

Melvin Shepherd, not the internationally famous middle distance runner of that name, but a member of the Moose A. C. of Southeast, will carry the colors of his club in the 10-mile modified marathon of the Aloysius club to be run here February 22.

Tonight the Moose A. C. has scheduled a baseball meeting to be held at the home of Manager Nalley, starting at 8 o'clock.

EXPRESSMEN PLAY EAGLES.

The Expressmen will have a crack at the champion Eagle quintet tonight, when these teams clash in the R. R. Y. M. C. A. gym at 8 o'clock. Of late the Ex-McIntosh crew has been setting a fast pace, and are confident of extending the title holders to the limit, if it does not cop the tussle.

CORINTHIANS MEET.

The Insects, Midgets, and Juniors of the Corinthian baseball teams will meet tonight at the Immaculate Conception hall at 7 o'clock.

SCHOOL FIVES IN 3 GAMES TODAY

G. U. Cubs, St. John's Play Here; Central at Swavely.

THE Georgetown freshmen, who have proved terrors to local scholastic quintets, will invade the St. John's college gymnasium today to take a crack at "Zube" Sullivan's youngsters. If comparative scores mean anything, the yearlings will have no trouble in disposing of the cadets in handy fashion. The St. John coach will probably use his reserves a major part of the game to get a line on his material for next year.

This will be the only attraction here of the three listed on today's program. Central is booked for a visit to Manassas, Va., to meet the fast Swavely Prep quint, while Strayer's basketers visit Baltimore to play the Strayer's school of that city in a return game.

The Mount Pleasant tossers will be playing their third contest in as many days after a hard road trip last week-end, but Coach Coggins is confident his charges will come through with a victory.

Judging by their last encounter, in which the local school was an easy winner by a large score, the fray between Strayer's and its brother school should result in a scoring fest for the Washington lads. Unless Coach Sanborn's objective is to establish a high-scoring mark for the year, the reserves probably will see plenty of action.

The Sportswoman

By DOROTHY E. GREENE

STRAYER SENIORS outplayed the Jewish Community Center Juniors 31 to 1 last night in an intermediate division Washington Recreation league match played at the Sixteenth Street Center.

The Strayer combination with more competitive experience behind it than their opponents jumped into the lead at the first toss up. The Community Center team made a good-showing considering the fact that most of the players are new at the game and have played together as a team but a short time.

Summary:

Strayer Seniors.	Positions.	Jew. C. C. Jrs.
Treanor	R.F.	Shapiro
Goodwin	L.F.	Street
Mothershead	J.C.	Dulsman
Jones	S.C.	Banner
Torre	R.G.	Goldberg
Falconer	L.G.	Wolfman

Substitutions—Dulsman for Street, Steelman for Dulsman, Street for Goldberg, Greenberg for Wolfman. Goals—Treanor (10 twos, 1 one, 2 fouls), Goodwin (4 twos), Street (1 foul). Referee—Mary Casey. Umpire—Hilda Levy.

SOPHOMORES BEAT FRESHMEN.

With a one-point margin the sophomore first team of Western High school defeated the freshman first team 7 to 6 in an exciting exhibition game played yesterday as the feature contest in a three-game program at the Wisconsin avenue school.

Virginia Tolson scored four points and Eleanor Herzog contributed three tallies to the sophomore total while Betty Shippe sent two two-pointers through the freshman basket.

In the third team encounters the Freshmen eliminated the Sophomores, 12 to 4, with Janet Smith doing the heavy scoring for the victors, and the Juniors triumphed, 21 to 9, over the Senior sextet. Summaries:

WEBSTERS PLAY GALLAUDET.

The Marjorie Webster sextet will meet the Gallaudet combination in their second encounter of the season this evening at 8 o'clock in the Webster school gymnasium.

PRINCESS GAME TONIGHT.

Central Presbyterian and Princess Senior tossers will meet in a practice game at 6:45 p. m. today in the Columbia Heights Community Center gymnasium at Wilson Normal school.

LEAGUE TEAMS MEET.

Today's only appearance of Washington Recreation league teams is scheduled between the Washington Field Hockey Club basketers and the Basketeer Seniors at 8:30 p. m. in the Holton Arms gymnasium.

Whirlwinds Wallop St. Martin's, 21 to 7

Bond's Whirlwinds had easy sailing last night in their tiff with the St. Martin's tossers, breezing through a 21-to-7 victory in the preliminary tilt to the Shenandoah-American U. game last night in the American university gymnasium. Ourand, diminutive forward of the winners, was the star of the contest, ringing up six two-pointers in sensational style.

BUSINESS FIVE SURPRISES GONZAGA

Collins' Team Wins Over Eye Streeters by 25-21 Score.

COACH COLLINS' Sturdy Business High tossers figured in a surprise victory yesterday afternoon in the Business High gymnasium when they defeated the speedy Gonzaga five in a thrilling 25-21 contest. The Eye streeters missed the presence of Bonek, their captain, who slanted the game from the sidelines with a badly sprained ankle. Both teams were inclined to show considerable aggressiveness that shaded into roughness at different times during the tussle, but everything considered, it was a good game.

There was little to choose between the rival quintets in the opening half, some clever foul shooting by Lewis giving the Stenographers' five a scant 14 to 13 lead at intermission. The Business lads speeded up the play in the final stages of the game and baskets by Jones and May gave them an increased advantage, which they managed to hold till the final whistle.

Their consistent work at the 15-foot line was the deciding factor in the struggle, the Eye streeters outscoring them from the floor 9 to 8 field goals, but registering but three of seven tries from the charity zone. The Stenographers on the other hand made nine of their sixteen attempts.

The performance of Jim Farrell in recent contests stamps him as one of the most brilliant players that has ever competed in scholastic ranks, his consistency and all-around ability being his chief assets. Aided by Gahgan, he kept Gonzaga in the running most of the way. Jones, May and Lewis were the shining lights for the Business boys, doing the bulk of the scoring and playing a bang-up floor game.

Chevy Chase Centrals Beat Riggs Five, 32-13

The Chevy Chase Centrals had little difficulty trimming the Riggs Bank five at Central High school last night by the score of 32 to 13. Shanks, the Bankers' left guard, was the only man on his team to score a field goal through the Chevy Chase defense.

Western High Downs Rockville in Overtime

Western High, with a smooth, steady attack was just able to nose out a victory over Rockville High at the latter's gymnasium yesterday afternoon. A five minute extra period was needed to determine the outcome—the teams being deadlocked 14 all at the end of the regular time.

Close guarding featured the contest. Beall of Rockville was high scorer with three field goals.

Hagen Deserves Master's Degree In Psychology

By AL DEMAREE,
Former Pitcher, New York Giants.

Psychology, used either consciously or unconsciously, is a big factor in any sport, and in golf Hagen is its greatest exponent.

In the 1925 P. G. A. at the Olympia Fields, Ill., Country club, the redoubtable Walter gave a clever example of its application.

His opponent that day was Leo Diegel. They were halving hole after hole. Diegel was laying his approach putts dead to the cup and Hagen was conceding him his short putts.

On the seventeenth green Leo had his usual foot and a half putt left for a par. He started to pick up his ball, as Walter had conceded him these short putts all afternoon, when Hagen stopped him.

"I'm sorry, Leo," he said, "but there's a little roll on the green between you and the cup and I'll have to ask you to sink that one!"

Diegel, half irritated and angry, hurried his putt and missed. This was the turning point of the match, as Diegel was fighting himself the rest of the day.

Major League Stars of 1926

ALL-AMERICA BASEBALL TEAM OF 1926.

THE crowning honor of the individual player is admission to the annual All-America baseball team. At least this should be the case. The only reason why it is not is because there is no set standard of selecting All-America teams.

So long as each fan is privileged to draw up such a team according to his own personal preferences there can be little force to his opinions, scant merit to his selections. The records, however, are a more impartial guide. Let us see what they can tell us of the true stars of the diamond in 1926.

At first base the issue is drawn between George Burns, of Cleveland, and Walter Pipp, of Cincinnati. How do the two compare? According to our 10-point method of analyzing the statistics, Burns leads in runs scored, in hits, in total bases, in stolen bases, in runs driven home, in batting average. A decisive lead.

Pipp excels in sacrifice hits, in number of assists, in total chances accepted and in fielding average. Burns, however, has a long lead in the offensive departments of play and is unquestionably the greatest first baseman of the year.

At second base, Harris of Washington contrasts with Hugh Critz of Cincinnati, Critz leads in runs scored, in number of hits, in total bases, in runs driven home, in assists, in total chances accepted and in fielding average. Harris leads in stolen bases, in sacrifice hits, in batting average. The palm goes to Critz.

At shortstop, Sewell of Cleveland comes in sharp contrast with Glenn Wright of Pittsburgh. Sewell scored the most runs, made the most hits for the most total bases, stole the most bases, made the most sacrifices, drove home the most runs, had the highest batting average and the highest fielding average. Wright led in assists and total chances accepted. Sewell gets the call, according to the evidence of the records.

At third, Willie Kamm of the White Sox is opposed by Lester Bell of the Cardinals. Bell leads in runs scored, in hits, in total bases, in sacrifices, in runs driven home, in batting average. Kamm excels in stolen bases, in assists, in total chances and in fielding average. Bell's remarkable hitting and run scoring strength gives him the preference.

In the outfield Ruth of the Yankees and Cuyler of Pittsburgh have an undoubted place. Third choice goes to Leon Goslin, who had a considerable margin over Paul Waner and Lee Douthit of the National circuit.

The catching problem finds Bob O'Farrell of the Cardinals linked with Muddy Ruel of Washington. O'Farrell leads in runs, in hits, in total bases, in runs driven home, in assists and in total chances. Ruel excels in stolen bases, in sacrifices, in batting average and fielding average. First choice goes to O'Farrell.

George Uhle is easily the leading pitcher of the year. He excels Pete Donohue, first choice among National league pitchers, in innings pitched, complete games, victories won, winning percentage, strike-outs, earned run average, fielding chances. Donohue's superiority rests upon the meager basis of more games pitched, more shut-outs and a higher batting average. With Uhle and Donohue place Ray Kremer of Pittsburgh and Ted Lyons of the White Sox and you have a pitching staff that would need no help from any one.

This team may or may not be a popular choice, but it squares with the facts as revealed from the silent but forceful testimony of the records.

NATIONAL—First base, Pipp; second base, Critz; third base, Bell; shortstop, Wright; outfielder, Douthit; outfielder, Waner; outfielder, Cuyler; catcher, O'Farrell; pitcher, Donohue.

AMERICAN—First base, Burns; second base, Harris; third base, Kamm; shortstop, Sewell; outfielder, Ruth; outfielder, Mostil; outfielder, Goslin; catcher, Ruel; pitcher, Uhle.

ALL-AMERICAN—First base, Burns; second base, Critz; third base, Bell; shortstop, Sewell; outfielder, Ruth; outfielder, Goslin; outfielder, Cuyler; catcher, O'Farrell; pitcher, Uhle.

Central High Meets B. C. Celtics Saturday

The Boys' club has scheduled a double-header for Saturday night which promises some brilliant basketball. Central High faces the Boys' club Celtics in the feature game at 8:30 o'clock, while the Flashes oppose the Reliance club, of Baltimore, which nosed out the local boys for the South Atlantic title last year, at 7:30 o'clock. A dance will follow.

In last night's Boys club games the Elks defeated the Stars, 21 to 5, in the junior league, while the Optimists won over the Navajoes, 44 to 20.

City Club to Hear Five Artists Tonight

The City club will hold another of its musical recitals tonight in the lounge of the club. Five artists are on the program, which is predicted to be one of the best of the season.

The artists are Mme. Marie von Unschuld, pianist; Daniel Breeskin, violinist; Ludwig Manoly, cellist; Helen Howison, coloratura soprano, and Mrs. Henry Riggs Rathbone. They will be assisted by Margaret Alexander, Everett Stevens, Virginia Coffman, Theresa Wulftangl, Amelia Bates and Evelyn Foster.

Oyster Association Marks Anniversary

The James F. Oyster Parent-Teacher association will celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers tonight in the assembly hall of the school.

A program in which school children will participate has been arranged. A birthday cake with 30 candles, which will be cut for a silver offering, is a feature.

Synagogue Founding Will Be Celebrated

The Talmud Torah congregation, the first orthodox synagogue organized in South Washington, will celebrate its thirty-sixth anniversary at a banquet March 13 in the Hebrew Home for the Aged, 1125 Spring road northwest.

The committee on arrangements, which is headed by Harry Katz, will meet Monday to perfect plans for the celebration. A. W. Berkman, H. Mashinsky, H. Black, L. Isenberg, J. Rosenberg, B. Garfinkle, M. Garfinkle, M. Aine, B. Berlin, I. Cherlakov, Morris Lunch and Samuel Block will assist.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 32.

The tax on dividends is an important item in the returns of many taxpayers. As defined by the revenue act of 1926, the term "dividend" means any distribution made by a corporation to its shareholders, whether in money or other property, out of its earnings or profits accumulated after February 28, 1913. If a dividend represents profits earned by a corporation prior to March 1, 1913, there is no tax, since profits then on hand manifestly belonged to the shareholders, by whom they might have been withdrawn without tax.

A dividend may be payable out of current profits or accumulated surplus, but it has no legal existence until it is "declared" by a formal resolution of the directors of the corporation. The ordinary form of dividend is the periodical cash distribution of current profits. However, dividends may be paid in securities or other property. For example, a corporation may distribute among its stockholders securities in which it has invested its earnings. Such securities are to be reported as dividends by the stockholders at the fair market value on the date of receipt.

Dividends must be distinguished from bond interest, which is an expense of the corporation and not a share of its profits.

A taxable distribution made by a corporation is income to the stockholders as of the date when the cash or property was unqualifiedly made subject to their demands. Cash dividends, in the hands of an individual, while exempt from all normal tax, are subject to the surtax rates for the year in which received. A stockholder pays no normal tax on dividends for the reason that the corporation which declares them is subject to the normal tax on the earnings out of which they are paid.

The rate of income tax on corporations was increased by the revenue act of 1926 from 12½ per cent to 13 per cent for the calendar year 1925 and to 13½ per cent for the calendar year 1926 and subsequent years.

More Power

Only in recent months has the radio public begun to realize the full importance of supplying adequate power to the loud speaker.

When the power tube was first placed on the market, radio buyers were under the impression that MORE POWER meant MORE VOLUME alone. The power tube is, and always has been, concerned with TONE QUALITY. Without a power tube, CX-112 or CX-371, in the last audio stage, your receiver is incapable of delivering modern radio reproduction at its best.

Consult your radio dealer. He will tell you the right combination of Cunningham Radio Tubes for your receiver.

INTEREST IS QUICKENED IN DOMESTIC BOND LIST

French Securities Fairly Active; Other Foreign Loans Sluggish.

U. S. ISSUES IRREGULAR

New York, Feb. 16 (By the Associated Press).—Interest in domestic bonds revived somewhat today with a further easing of the money market. Listed issues were relatively steady, but still showed effects of the competition given by new issues which have not yet been digested. Trading was limited, sales aggregating little more than $11,000,000.

Aside from continued activity of a moderate order in French governmental securities, the foreign list was dull. French bonds have been particularly well supported, in view of the recent sustained advance, holding up fairly close to their record high levels.

Secondary rails and industrials held the center of interest in the domestic division. Chicago & Alton 3½s and 3½ certificates displayed strength, and Seaboard adjustment 5s and most of the St. Paul issues were well supported. Granby consolidated 7s continued their advance, while Dominion Iron and Steel 5s scored a 2-point gain. Public utilities liens were sluggish.

Only desultory trading was present in the Federal government list and prices were irregular.

Prompt sale was reported of the $4,699,500 external 7 per cent loan for the city of Cordoba, republic of Argentina, and the $3,000,000 New York Steam Corporation 5 per cent bonds. An issue of $7,500,000 Interstate Power Co. 6 per cent debentures was placed on the market.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Feb. 16 (By the Associated Press).—Prices were churned about in rather erratic fashion in today's curb market with no definite general price trend apparent. Pools were bidding up some issues while "bears" were hammering others, with the general public showing relatively little interest, judging from the volume of commission house buying.

Another sharp increase in crude oil production last week cast a wet blanket on speculation for the advance in the oil group. Humble and Prairie Pipe Line each dropped about a point, and most of the others yielded fractionally.

Motors were well supported despite such ordinarily adverse developments as a cut in prices by one of the large manufacturers, a curtailment in operations by another and a new preferred stock offering by a third. Durant was pushed up to a new top at 10 and Ford of Canada soared nearly 40 points on odd-lot sales to 494 and then slipped back to 485. Artificial silk shares also were well sustained, Tubize Art Silk jumping 5 points and Industrial Rayon 1.

Bancitaly Corporation touched another new top at 112⅜, while gains of a point or so in Budd Manufacturing, De Forest Radio, Hollander Sons, New Jersey Zinc, Richmond Radiator and United Leaf Tobacco were offset by similar declines in Central Leather Preferred, International Concrete and Wesson Oil Preferred. Among the high priced specialties good gains were recorded by Pillsbury Flour, Royal Baking Powder and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad. Public utilities showed narrow and irregular changes.

BANK OFFICIAL

HUGH W. BARR, who yesterday was elected executive vice president of the International Exchange Bank.

EXCHANGE BANK NAMES H.W. BARR VICE PRESIDENT

New Executive Served as Auditor for Entire Sesquicentennial Exposition.

STOCKS SHOW BIG GAINS

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Hugh W. Barr, who recently returned from Philadelphia, where he went early last year to act as auditor of the Sesquicentennial exposition, yesterday morning was elected executive vice president of the International Exchange Bank, and as a representative of that bank was welcomed at the weekly forum luncheon of the District Bankers association, at the Willard hotel.

In announcing the action of the board of directors, Joseph Schiavone, president of the International Exchange Bank, pointed out that the institution was enjoying a healthy growth and its progress justified the addition of another practical banking man to its already efficient staff.

Mr. Barr is not a stranger in local banking circles, having deserted the field of journalism in 1918 to enter the service of the Continental Trust Co., becoming treasurer of the institution in January, 1924. He served in the latter capacity until resigning in February, 1926, to return to Philadelphia, his native city, as auditor of the Sesquicentennial. He is a graduate of Girard college, Philadelphia, and of the Georgetown University Law school, and is a member of the City club, Manor club, National Press club and Board of Trade.

The International Exchange Bank has a capital of $103,830, and total resources of more than $1,000,000, and at the last call of the comptroller of the currency December 31, 1926, the bank had deposits of $857,004.43, which was an increase of $139,482.24 over December 31, 1925.

Officers of the bank are Joseph Schiavone, president; Hugh W. Barr, executive vice president; Francis L. Neubeck, vice president and counsel; Frank J. Kauffmann, jr., cashier, and Miss Julia Krauss, assistant cashier. The senior officers and the following members make up the board of directors:

E. Joseph Aronoff, D. Del Vecchio, Peter Borras, John J. Deviny, Dr. Salvatore Floria, Gustavo Grifoni, Joseph E. Heffron, J. Edward Lewis, Frank P. Lozupone, Jerry Maiatico, O. H. Miller, L. J. Mills, Hilleary L. Offutt, jr., Dr. M. H. Prosperi, Alfonso Tana, John Vaccaro and John Zanier.

Dairy Issue Offered.

Y. E. Booker & Co., investment bankers, are offering today an issue of $300,000 Chevy Chase Dairy, Inc. (Wise Bros.) 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par value $100. The issue is exempt from present normal Federal income and District of Columbia personal property taxes.

The capitalization of the company authorized and to be outstanding is $300,000 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred, the issue offered, and $350,000 common stock, par value $100.

The proceeds of the present offering will be used to retire $150,000 of common stock, reducing the outstanding common stock from $500,000 to $350,000, to pay off all existing mortgages amounting to $25,500, and to provide additional working capital.

Net earnings of the company for the six-year period from 1921 to close of 1926 averaged $62,095, which is virtually three times dividend requirements on the new issue, while gross sales climbed from $987,249 in 1921 to $1,754,698 in 1926.

Simmons Speaks Tonight.

E. H. H. Simmons, president of the New York Stock Exchange, will be the principal speaker tonight at a special meeting of the Washington Board of Trade, which will be held in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The Board of Trade has extended an invitation to the members of the District Bankers association and their friends to attend the meeting, and investment bankers and brokers have received a similar invitation. It is to be regretted that local investors could not be included in the invitation, but as the seating capacity of the auditorium is limited to 1,000, it became necessary to exclude the general public, despite their interest in investment matters and stock exchange operations.

E. J. Berlet to Talk.

E. J. Berlet, general agent of the Guardian Life Insurance Co., will be the speaker tomorrow night at the monthly dinner and meeting of the District Life Underwriters association at the Raleigh hotel. Mr. Berlet will talk on the general sales proposition of life insurance and at the conclusion of his address will lead a discusion of the subject. George B. Farquhar, special agent of the Penn Mutual Life, president of the District association, will preside.

Stocks Show Gains.

Interest in the utility and bank stocks prevailed again yesterday in the regular trading session of the Washington Stock Exchange, some stocks closing with notable gains, among these being District National Bank and Federal-American Co. common.

Washington Railway & Electric preferred was the outstanding stock of the day, with 290 shares changing hands. An opening sale of 80 shares was made at 90¾, a fraction under close of the day before, and this level prevailed on sales of 80 more shares, which changed hands in three lots, picking up ⅛ on a transaction involving 100 shares, sales were recorded through to close at 90⅞. Potomac Electric preferred was firm at 108¾. Wash-

HOUSES FOR SALE

Hedges & Middleton, Inc.
REALTORS.

OLD CHEVY CHASE
Brick Colonial,
$19,750
Here is a new residence located in that select section just beyond the circle and surrounded by high-grade homes. It is constructed of brick to the second-floor joists, with shingle above and heavy slate roof. Center-hall plan, having to the right of the hall a living room, entire depth of house, with side porch adjoining and on the opposite side an unusually bright dining room, breakfast room, pantry and kitchen. The second floor has four well-arranged bedrooms, and two tile baths, with easy stair approach to large attic. The grounds are 70 feet wide by a depth of 180 feet, well improved and having a two-car garage, conforming in design with house. An excellent value.

COLORADO AVENUE
Semidetached Brick,
$15,750
Located on this wide boulevard, this modern buff brick residence, is unquestionably one of the best buys to be had in this section. It has very attractive front and side lawns and several large shade trees. The house is an uncovered porch type, having seven well-planned rooms, four bedrooms, complete tile bath and extra lavatory, oak floors, and all the latest conveniences, including a built-in fireproof garage. This residence is comparatively new and in first-class condition. We invite comparison.

WEST OF 16TH STREET
Center-Hall Plan
Brick Home,
$17,500
This brand-new, 2-story and attic brick residence is well worth your immediate consideration. It is located west of 16th street, south of the reservoir. Side entrance, center-hall plan, having eight nicely arranged rooms, two full tile baths, open fireplace and sidewall lighting fixtures in living room, best grade of oak flooring throughout and every conceivable improvement one would expect to find in the up-to-date home. There are splendid lawns and a good rear yard to wide alley. Most convenient terms.

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, Feb. 16 (By A. P.).—Net profit of Hupp Motor Car Co. for 1926 rose to $3,507,028 from $2,919,464 in 1925.

Current assets of Pressed Steel Car Co. at the close of 1926 were $15,925,265 and current liabilities, $5,043,208, compared with $18,833,357 and $4,468,928, respectively, a year ago. Profit and loss surplus was $16,433,473, against $20,419,480 at the end of 1925.

Iron Trade Review says encouraging factors are in the ascendant in the iron and steel markets in point of both new business and production. Orders for heavy finished steel in the key districts are in excess of the January rate and compare favorably with last February. Quiet selling of pig iron for second quarter delivery has piled up a surprising tonnage.

Net income of Associated Gas & Electric for 1926 was $3,863,372, equal to $3.62 a share on the "A" stock and 47 cents a share on the common, after preferred and class "B" dividends. This compares with $2,332,167 in 1925, or $2.97 a share on the "A" stock and 22 cents a share on the common. Gross revenues were nearly $10,000,000 greater than in 1925.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey earned $15.92 a share in 1926, against $13.10 a share in 1925. Surplus was $4,368,000 after charges, compared with $3,595,117 the year before.

Spring business is opening up in an orderly, normal way, with evidence of a gradual increase of confidence, says the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Measured by reliable yard sticks, business is good right now. There is ample credit at low rates. Employment and retail trade are seasonably satisfactory. There is no evidence of undue accumulation of finished goods, such over-production in relation to consumption as has occurred, if any, being of raw materials, especially a few metals. In short, the bank adds, conditions in industry and trade are normal and sound.

The income account of the Northern Pacific railway for 1926 shows total income of $36,307,276, against $33,306,483 in 1925. Surplus after dividends was $8,602,732, compared with $5,544,288 the year before.

Public offerings of 60,000 shares of convertible preference stock of Thatcher Manufacturing Co., milk bottles, is being made by Hemphill, Noyes & Co., at $45 a share, to yield 8 per cent. Proceeds will retire floating debt and provide working capital.

Receipts for 1926 from Hungarian revenues pledged for the 7½ per cent reconstruction loan were $52,760,000, about eight times the annual interest and sinking fund requirements of the loan.

What's Behind Your Stock

Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation

The Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation operates in Peru and in the past, because of its low costs, has been able to show probits after liberal depreciation and depletion allowances even during years of depression for the copper industry as a whole. These low operating costs, which are due chiefly to presence of unusually large precious metal values in the ore, make it possible for the company to prifit well from any increase in the price of copper.

During the nine years which ended in 1925, the Cerro de Pasco Copper Co., after allowing for depreciation and depletion, earned a net income which averaged $1,591,872 annually. This annual average was equal to $1.67 per share on the average number of shares of capital stock outstanding. In 1925 a record net income of $6,016,164 was earned, this being equal to $5.36 per share of stock. It has been reported that 1926 earnings may have equaled those of 1925. No definite information, however, has been as yet forthcoming.

At the time of last report the company was in a strong financial condition with a net working capital of over $24,000,000. Dividends on the capital stock have been paid in every year since 1916, with the exception of 1922. Extra dividends of $1 per share were paid in December, 1925 and 1926. The present dividend rate is $4 per share per year.

M'CABE IS ACCUSED OF SHOOTING BUSCH BY EAGLES AT TRIAL

Passed His Arm Under That of Mareno and Fired, Is Testimony.

PROPOSAL TO LEAVE ITALIAN IS RELATED

Proctor in on Plot to Foresake Wounded Mate, Witness Says.

John Fall McCabe was accused of shooting Patrolman Leo W. K. Busch by Nicholas Lee Eagles, who occupied the witness chair in criminal court No. 2 late yesterday and detailed his version of the Grant circle gun battle last September 26. Wounded in the fray, Busch died two days later, and for his death, Eagles, McCabe, Samuel Mareno and John Cline Proctor are on trial for their lives.

"He grabbed Sammy Mareno and stuck his hand under his arm (Sammy's arm), and fired. Busch fell." With these words Eagles hurled the accusation and stepped from the stand. Standing in front of the jury box he executed the motion described as used by McCabe. Then he fell face downward on the floor and, rolling about, executed the manner in which he said Busch reached for his gun. His performance was reminiscent of an actor "dying" in an old-fashioned melodrama and provoked more than one of the jurors to smile.

Eagles consumed 40 minutes in relation of the occurences on the morning of the battle. His words, clear, flowed amazingly fast from between his thick lips. His dark face and piercing eyes performed in expression of his words. So rapid was his speech that on numerous occasions the court reporter and attorneys asked him to speak more slowly.

Five Days In Defense.

The defense of Mareno, which consumed five days, was brought to a close at 2:30 o'clock, and Irving Wall, attorney for Eagles, outlined the defense of his client to the jury. Wall declared the defense would attempt to show that Eagles was unarmed at the time of the shooting and went along with the other three to hijack twenty cases of red liquor." Mareno, he said, would be identified as the "man in the raincoat," who was described by Policeman Frank L. Ach, star government witness, as the one who shouted "stick 'em up" and fired the first shot in the battle. Eagles then was instructed to take the stand and almost ran from his seat to the witness chair.

Eagles said he was a rug maker and came here from Newark, N. J., three weeks before the gun battle. He was introduced to Proctor, whom, he said, was his brother-in-law, soon after arriving here, and Proctor introduced him to Mareno. He met McCabe a few hours before the shooting. Proctor came to his home, 319 C street northwest, the night before the fray and asked to borrow a revolver.

"I told him I didn't have any guns, that I gave him the guns a few days before, after filing them down for him." Proctor departed and returned a few hours later and begged him and Eagles to go "hijacking," Eagles said. Eagles' wife, Mrs. "Pal" Eagles, objected to the plot.

"Pal said, 'listen, Nick, please don't go out,' and I said, 'Listen, Pal, it's only 20 cases of red, I'm going,' so we went," Eagles testified. He related of the trip to the Baltimore pike and of two robberies staged there. With a revolver he borrowed from Proctor, he engaged in the holdups with McCabe and Mareno, he said. Returning to the city, he said, he returned the gun to Proctor.

Told to Shoot Way Out.

The meeting with Patrolman Busch and Ach at Georgia avenue and Upshur street and the walk along Upshur street in quest of the disabled automobile stolen by the quartet, then was described by Eagles. During the walk, the witness declared, Proctor approached him and said:

"'Nick, we've got to shoot our way out,' and he was offering me a gun while he was talking. I said, 'No, sir, they got me and I'll go along with them,' then we walked a little further and all of a sudden, like a flash, a shot was fired. McCabe ran forward. He grabbed Sammy Mareno." When the firing was at its height, Eagles said, he and Mareno ran down Fifth street, through an alley and into the basement of the home of Mrs. Catherine Vogel.

"McCabe and Proctor were there when we got there. Sammy Mareno was wouned in the leg and I asked them what we were going to do about the boy. McCabe and Johnny Proctor both said, 'Aw, the hell with him. Let him die,' and I said I would stick by him. Then McCabe and Proctor left."

The witness then described the discovery and capture of himself and Mareno, describing in detail the strict attendance he gave to the Italian's every need during the night. He insisted McCabe was suggester of the Maryland robberies and that Mareno was the man who wore the raincoat. Court was adjourned before the defendant completed his tory.

Earlier in the day Mareno revealed a plot between himself and Eagles to "frame up" McCabe and Proctor. While they were in the basement, the Italian said, Eagles told him "if we get locked up to put the blame on McCabe and Proctor. He said he told me to say he didn't have a gun and to frame it on McCabe and Proctor that they were down the cellar with the two."

The government completed its cross-examination of Mareno at 10:30 o'clock. Prosecutor George D. Horning, jr., was unsuccessful in his efforts to "break" the Italian's story. Louis Tannenbaum, counsel for Eagles, followed the government. Tannenbaum attempted to cross-examine on statements Mareno made to the police, in an effort to impeach the "frame-up" story. When his attempt was overruled, Eagles' defender made a motion to declare mistrial, which also was denied.

James B. Archer, counsel for Proctor, next took Mareno through a severe examination. He confronted the Italian with statements he is alleged to have made to three prisoners at the District jail—George de Ceille, Harry Sweet and John Shephard—to the effect that he "was going to burn Proctor" because Proctor had blackened his eye a few weeks ago. Mareno admitted making the statements, but said he was advised to do so by his counsel.

Mareno admitted firing at Ach and declared Ach was running away from the scene. When Archer inquired "Why did you shoot at a policeman who was running down the street, running away from you?" "Because Ach shot me," Mareno replied. He admitted Busch grabbed at him when he was brought before the dying patrolman's bed in Garfield hospital, but denied Busch identified him as the man who shot him.

Hutchinson Divorce Case Dropped.

The suit for limited divorce filed October 14, 1925, by Mrs. Frances H. Hutchinson against Emmett L. Hutchinson, was dismissed yesterday in Equity court by Justice Bailey upon information that the parties had become reconciled.

Bride of 2 Weeks Takes Poison Potion

Mrs. Minnie Avers, 17 years old, a bride of two weeks, is in Emergency hospital recovering from the effects of poison which she swallowed in her home at 463 F street southwest early yesterday. Physicians said that her recovery is almost certain.

She was found lying on the bed in her bedroom by her husband, Herbert Ayers, when he returned from work. She told him of her act and he summoned an Emergency hospital ambulance. Police were unable to ascertain why she drank the poison. They said that members of her family told them that Mrs. Ayers was apparently in good spirits early in the night, but grew discontent when her husband failed to return at his usual hour.

STREETS HELD SO BAD THAT MAILMEN BALK

Manor Park Group Appeals to Commissioners; School Lighting Protested.

JUNIOR COLLEGE BACKED

Protesting against the condition of streets in its section of the city, the Manor Park Citizens association yesterday called the attention of municipal authorities to the fact that the mail boxes have been removed by city post-office officials because mail trucks are unable to collect letters there owing to the difficult roads. The association voiced its intention of obtaining improvements in twelve thoroughfares in its territory, and pleaded for help on the part of the District commissioners.

An aggressive campaign for the beautification of grounds surrounding the new Whittier school was also announced by Ernest H. Pullman, president of the association, who said that the organization plans to install a children's playground in the vicinity of the school building. Many alterations in landscape gardening are necessary before the grounds will be ready for the proposed changes, it is pointed out. New electric lights must be installed in the institution, Mr. Pullman declared, nothing but the wires having as yet been put in.

The Manor Park Citizens association is indorsing the bill now pending in Congress for the erection of a junior college, which would accept students for the last two years of high school work and the freshman and sophomore years of college. The association has complained to the board of education that the purchase of land for the establishment of the Brightwood Junior High school has not yet taken place owing to the price limitation clause. Members of the organization who took an active part in pushing the bill expressed anxiety at the delay, pointing out the necessity for the school.

Dean Praises Youth Before Rotary Club

The redemption of society can only come through the cooperation of the older and younger generations of the present and not through the efforts of the next generation, George B. Woods, dean of the college of liberal arts at American university, told the Rotary club yesterday in the Willard hotel.

The trouble lies in the fact that parents fail to make companions of their children, he stated. Dean Woods further denied that young Americans are thoughtless beings, stating that they are more thoughtful than their seniors.

Halfway Mark Seen In Jewish Campaign

Morris Cafritz, chairman of the Jewish Community center enrollment campaign, expressed confidence that the halfway mark in the drive for 3,000 members would be reported as attained at the luncheon of workers today at the center.

The principal speaker at this meeting will be Dean William A. Wilbur of George Washington University. Reports from 31 team captains will be read.

POLICEMAN BEING HELD AFTER 2 MEN ARE SHOT

Taxi Driver and Member of Apartment Party Wounded on Street.

TWO WOMEN ARE SOUGHT

Suspended from the police force and relieved of his equipment, James Warren Matthews, 32 years old, 2407 Eighteenth street northwest, is being held at the Eighth precinct station pending the outcome of injuries to George Milton Fox, 24 years old, a taxicab driver, of 1909 Fourteenth street northwest, and Francis C. Bland, 23 years old, 1424 W street, who were shot in front of Matthews' home early yesterday.

Fox is in a critical condition in Emergency hospital. He was shot once in the abdomen. Physicians operated and removed the bullet yesterday and a slight improvement was noted in his condition. Bland, who was shot in the groin, will recover, physicians said at Garfield hospital, where he is being treated.

Matthews was appointed to the police force nine months ago and was assigned as a patrolman at the Fourteenth precinct. He was suspended yesterday by Sergt. W. C. Balderson, who, with Private H. C. Hinton, arrested him at the scene of the shooting.

He told brother officers that he shot Fox and Bland when they attempted to hold him up, it is said. He admitted, it is also reported, that he had been drinking before the shooting. Bland told police that he met Matthews, Wednesday night, through a mutual acquaintance. They purchased some liquor, he said, and then went to an apartment where they met two women.

They stayed at the apartment for more than two hours, Bland asserted, and then hired the taxicab operated by Fox to take Matthews home. When they stopped in front of the policeman's house, Bland said, he accused them of taking some of his money. An argument ensued and Matthews drew his gun and started shooting, according to Bland.

The two women, who were in the taxicab when the shooting started, disappeared. Police are searching for them. Bland and Matthews told police they did not know the names of the women or where they lived.

CONVENTION BUREAU FINANCING IS CHANGED

Hotel Men's Association Is to Have Controlling Interest Under Plan.

Drastic changes in the organization of the Washington convention bureau were announced yesterday by Arthur Carr, chairman of the board of governors. The reorganization is expected to place the bureau on a firmer financial footing and to make its services more extensive, Mr. Carr said.

C. E. LaVigne, who has been director of the bureau since its establishment by local trade associations in May, 1925, to encourage conventions to come to Washington, has tendered his resignation. It has been accepted.

The Washington Hotel Men's association will have the controlling interest in the bureau under the new organization and has guaranteed to undertake the financing of the bureau. The old method of financing required a great part of the director's time, which he will be able to devote to the purposes of the bureau under the new arrangement. William M. Eaton, assistant director of the bureau, will be in charge until Mr. LaVigne's successor is appointed.

Cayton, 28, Successor To Meehan, Sworn In

Nathan Cayton, 28-year-old attorney appointed by President Coolidge to succeed the late Charles V. Meehan as a judge of the municipal court, was sworn in yesterday by Judge George C. Aukam, senior jurist of that court. Judge Cayton will preside in part 6 of the court.

The new judge was congratulated by his associate jurists, Judges O'Toole, Cobb, Mattingly and Aukam, and by Judge Gus A. Schuldt, of the police court, and also by attorneys and friends who had gathered for the ceremony.

Library Attitude On Extension Asked

The bill to authorize a five-year program of extension of the work of the public library, to include placing branches in public school and Federal buildings, in addition to building and renting other quarters, was sent by the District commissioners to the public library board of trustees for recommendation. It had been submitted to the commissioners by committees of Congress.

Dr. George F. Bowerman, public librarian, originated the plan, and the citizens' advisory council has indorsed it.

BALLOU WELCOMES SURVEY OF SCHOOLS BY EFFICIENCY UNIT

Confident System Will Be Found Well Administered, He Tells Board.

RUBBER STAMP CHARGE RESENTED BY GILLIGAN

Promotion of C. C. McDuffie Called Injustice by the Rev. F. I. A. Bennett.

Complete accord with the Senate plan for a survey by the bureau of efficiency of the whole school situation was expressed yesterday by Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, in a statement before the board of education, meeting in the Franklin school.

The expression was followed by a unanimous vote of confidence in administrative officials of the system and the manner in which local public schools have been managed.

"We cordially welcome any impartial investigation of the organization and administration of our schools," Dr. Ballou told the members. "We are confident that such an investigation will show that while obviously there are possibilities of improvement, the schools are being administered honestly and efficiently and with as much financial economy as is consistent with the high quality of education we believe the people of the District of Columbia expect us to provide."

"No Rubber Stamp," Gilligan Says.

Objecting to the reported allusion to the board of education as "a rubber stamp" by S. T. Cameron at a meeting Monday of the Piney Branch Citizens association, Henry Gilligan told the members they "should not sit supinely by and let people who are not rightly informed get away with stuff like that. I am not a rubber stamp for anybody and I won't be called one." Gilligan said he already had written Cameron expressing his resentment.

Dr. Ballou was on his feet immediately. "About this rubber stamp business," he said. "I don't use them, and I don't expect the board to. The board doesn't approve matters on my say-so only, and I don't want them to."

The superintendent declared he has tried to do his duty, and in the future would follow a similar course. He said his recommendations to the board always were the product of thorough investigation and consideration, and asserted that he would continue to present matters for their approval.

"Impartial," Says Ballou.

To a question from Mr. Gilligan asking if he thought the bureau of efficiency the proper body to undertake the school survey, Dr. Ballou replied that he had no reason to believe otherwise. "Personally, I am impartial. I am entirely satisfied and believe the investigation will be a fact-finding one," he said.

Mr. Gilligan interposed that hereafter he "hoped our misinformed friends will find time to be quiet when they ought to be quiet."

Discussion resulted from the announcement of the superintendent's promotion of C. C. McDuffie, of Dunbar High school, to head of the department of languages of Dunbar. The Rev. F. I. A. Bennett declared that an injustice had been done, and McDuffie promoted over another teacher with superior academic qualifications. He declared that the allegation of temperamental inconsistencies was unjustified.

Backed by Wilkinson.

Reminded by Vice President Carusi that the recommendation was made to the superintendent by Garnet C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent, divisions 10-13, Mr. Bennett said, "Would to God Wilkinson did make the recommendation." He expressed the personal belief that he didn't. Wilkinson was recognized, and declared he both made the recommendation and would back it. The appointment was approved by a vote of 3 to 2.

Announcement was made by Dr. Ballou of the high school principals' decision to discontinue the basketball series and awarding the championship title to the Central High team. An alternative was considered of completing the games without spectators, he said.

Announcement also was made of the opening of the Macfarland Junior High school addition the last of the week and occupation of Randall Junior High February 7. The municipal architect was quoted in setting May 1 as the opening date for the new Stuart Junior High. Penalties will be imposed on the builders for failure to complete the contract on schedule.

Want Narcotic Education Week.

A request from the Antinarcotic association for recognition of the last week in February as "Narcotic Education Week" was referred to a special committee for action and formation of a policy regarding similar "weeks" following considerable discussion of the matter.

An appeal for reexamination by the health department was received from Mrs. J. L. Harley, who alleged her answers to questions propounded were made to appear ridiculous by failure to record her complete replies. The appeal was granted and her leave extended 30 days.

Procedure in the retirement of teachers, established by the commissioners, was referred to the committee on rules for supplementation. The board adopted the report of the committee on buildings and grounds recommending repairs and improvements to school buildings and surroundings.

Group to Celebrate Ghent Treaty Signing

The National Patriotic council will celebrate the anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent, February 17, 1815, which terminated the war of 1812, tonight in the Octagon house, 1741 New York avenue northwest, where the treaty was signed.

Henry Chilton, acting British counselor; Butler Wright, Assistant Secretary of State; Frank C. Baldwin, secretary of the American Institute of Architects; Frank L. Peckham, vice president of the Sentinels of the Republic, and Capt. Paul V. Collins will deliver addresses. The Army band orchestra will play. The table on which President James Madison signed the treaty will be exhibited. Mrs. Noble Newport Potts, president of the National Patriotic council, will preside.

Child Injured by Auto.

While crossing the street in front of 1147 First street northwest, yesterday afternoon, Joseph Turner, colored, 5 years old, 49 Pierce street, was seriously injured when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile, driven, police say, by William L. Manuel, 511 Florida avenue northwest. The child was taken to the Homeopathic hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the leg and severe lacerations of the head. After receiving first aid treatment he was removed to Emergency hospital.
